

Rashid Khalidi's "powerful and disturbing" answer to the question:
WHY HAVEN'T WE ACHIEVED PEACE BETWEEN PALESTINE AND ISRAEL?

"For those of us who believe that a two-state solution is the path to justice and peace for Israel and Palestine, Rashid Khalidi's trenchant analysis is powerful and disturbing."
—JEFFREY D. SACHS, author of The End of Poverty

"As Rashid Khalidi shows in his smart new book, American presidents from Truman to Obama have sided with Israel at almost every turn. . . . As Brokers of Deceit makes clear, the United States richly deserves to be called 'Israel's lawyer.'"
—JOHN J. MEARSHEIMER, coauthor of The Israel Lobby

"Mounts a frontal attack on the myths and misconceptions that have come to surround America's role in the so-called 'peace process,' which is all process and no peace."
—AVI SHLAIM, emeritus professor of international relations, Oxford University, and author, The Iron Wall

"Khalidi has combined history, common sense, and his firsthand understanding of Arab-Israeli peace talks. . . . This is an important book."
—SEYMOUR M. HERSH, The New Yorker

School of Foreign Service in Qatar
Center for International and Regional Studies

About CIRS

Established in 2005, the Center for International and Regional Studies at the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in Qatar is a premier research institute devoted to the academic study of regional and international issues through dialogue and exchange of ideas, research and scholarship, and engagement with scholars, opinion-makers, practitioners, and activists.

CIRS Research Initiatives

The State and Innovation in the Persian Gulf
Analyzes how GCC states engage in extensive and expansive efforts to foster technical and scientific innovation in their societies to bring about knowledge-based, post-oil economies.

Politics and the Media in the Post-Arab Spring Middle East
Explores the role of traditional and new media across the Middle East during and after the Arab Spring.

Arab Migrant Communities in the GCC
Supports original research examining communities of migrants and temporary residents from across the Arab world.

Weak States in the Greater Middle East
Examines the causes and consequences of the fragility of states from Afghanistan and Pakistan in the east to Sudan and Libya in the west.

Social Change in Post-Khomeini Iran
Investigates some of the most important topics within contemporary Iran, focusing on its social, cultural, economic, and political domains.

Research Opportunities

To contribute to the existing body of knowledge on issues related to the Gulf region and the Middle East, CIRS funds original research on solicited topics.

Lebanese Salafis between the Gulf and Europe

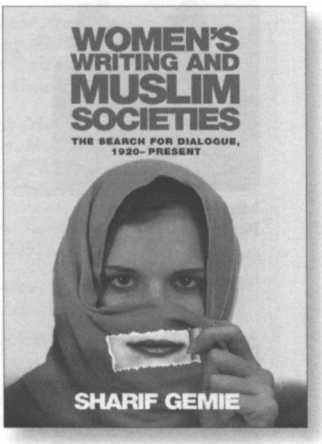

Development, Fractionalization, and Transnational Networks of Salafism in Lebanon

Zoltan Pall

Salafism is one of the most dynamic and rapidly growing Islamic movements and it is impossible to understand contemporary Islam without taking account of it. The Lebanese context adopted by the Zoltan Pall provides an excellent opportunity to explore the dynamics of the Salafi movement worldwide.

DESCRIPTION

The Middle East Studies Association (MESA) is a private, non-profit, non-political learned society that brings together scholars, educators and those interested in the study of the region from all over the world. From its inception in 1966 with 50 founding members, MESA has increased its membership to more than 2,600 and now serves as an umbrella organization for more than sixty institutional members and forty-two affiliated organizations. The association is a constituent society of the American Council of Learned Societies, the National Council of Area Studies Associations, and a member of the National Humanities Alliance. As part of its goal to advance learning, facilitate communication and promote cooperation, MESA sponsors an annual meeting that is a leading international forum for scholarship, intellectual exchange and pedagogical innovation. It is responsible for the International Journal of Middle East Studies, the premiere journal on the region, the Review of Middle East Studies, and a biannual newsletter, Issues in Middle East Studies. An awards program recognizes scholarly achievement, service to the profession, and exemplary students. MESA is governed by a nine-member Board of Directors elected by the membership.

MESA is a nonprofit corporation with tax exempt status. Contributions to the Association are deductible under both U.S. Federal and British income tax regulations.

MISSION STATEMENT

The Middle East Studies Association (MESA) is a non-political association that fosters the study of the Middle East, promotes high standards of scholarship and teaching, and encourages public understanding of the region and its peoples through programs, publications and services that enhance education, further intellectual exchange, recognize professional distinction, and defend academic freedom.
