Acknowledgements

This book would not have been possible without the generous financial support of the European Union and the steadfast guidance of Dr Elina Manova, our project officer at the EU Research Executive Agency. Her support was instrumental throughout the duration of the TRACE Project.

The substantive research, along with its findings, insights and proposed solutions, is the result of the dedicated efforts of the TRACE Project Consortium. Their commitment and collaboration were vital to the success of this work.

We are deeply grateful to our Advisory Board, whose invaluable experience and expertise in Horizon 2020 projects, artificial intelligence, ethics and law enforcement provided essential direction and insight at every stage.

The face-to-face events, workshops, seminars, webinars and conferences that informed our findings were made possible thanks to the generosity of hundreds of law enforcement and judicial officers from over twenty-five countries across Europe and beyond. We also extend our sincere thanks to policymakers, academics and professionals from the legal and financial sectors worldwide, whose contributions enriched our research.

We would like to express our appreciation to Europol's Innovation Centre and the European Commission DG Home, who – despite their many pressing priorities – provided us with opportunities to present and test our solutions.

Our thanks also go to the following organisations for their collaboration and support: Inland Revenue Service (CI), USA; University of Luxembourg; National Organised Crime Agency – Czech Republic; Hellenic Police – Greece; Research Institute for Transparency, Corruption and Financial Crime – Aristotle University of Thessaloniki – Greece; and Polícia Judiciária (PJ) – Portugal.

We gratefully acknowledge the following individuals for offering a wide spectrum of views on the issues explored in this book: Dr Daniel Frendo, Financial Intelligence Analysis Unit, Malta; Jan Ellerman, Europol; and Madison Leeson, RITHM Project.

We also extend our sincere thanks to our visiting fellow, Dr Huseyin Unozkan (Mudanya University) and Lt. Col. Dr. Engin Erken (Gendarmerie General Command, Türkiye) for their valuable input.

Finally, a heartfelt thanks goes to our colleagues at the Centre for Resilient Business and Society (CRBS) and the Research Support Team at Coventry University. Their collaboration and encouragement have been a cornerstone of this work.
