Contributors

ANTÓNIO GRAÇA DE ABREU is a member of the board of The European Association of Chinese Studies. He worked in Beijing from 1977 to 1981, and specializes in the history of the Portuguese in China. He has translated many works of Chinese poetry and drama into Portuguese and is the co-author of Sinica Lusitana I.

ROBERT F. ASH holds the Chiang Ching-kuo Chair of Taiwan Studies at SOAS, University of London. He is also co-ordinator of the EU-China Academic Network (ECAN).

HUGH D. R. BAKER is Professor of Chinese and Head of the East Asia Department at SOAS. He has published extensively on Chinese family organization, on Hong Kong society, and on Chinese cultural matters.

LUCIEN BIANCO is Professor Emeritus at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales, Paris. His most recent book is Peasants without the Party: Grassroots Movements in 20th Century China (forthcoming).

DUNG-SHENG CHEN is a Professor at the Department of Sociology, National Taiwan University, and for three terms a member of the Council of the Taiwanese Sociological Association. His publications include: Profitopolis: A Sociological Examination of Local Factions, Financial Conglomerates and the Development of the Taipei Metropolitan Area (Taipei, 1995).

T. J. CHENG is Professor of Government, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia. He has written extensively on economic and political change in Korea and Taiwan. His most recent work is a co-edited volume on the security environment in the Asia-Pacific.

FRANK CHING is a Contributing Editor of the Far Eastern Economic Review, based in Hong Kong.

YUN-HAN CHU is Professor of Political Science at National Taiwan University and serves concurrently as vice-president of the Chiang Ching-kuo Foundation for International Scholarly Exchange.

ELISABETH CROLL is Professor of Chinese Anthropology at SOAS, University of London. She has written widely on issues of social development in China and more recently on Asia. Her most recent book Endangered Daughters: Discrimination and Development in Asia was published in December 2000.

FRANK DIKÖTTER is Director of the Contemporary China Institute at SOAS. He has recently finished a monograph on prisons in modern China for Columbia University Press and is leading a research team in an ESRC-funded project entitled "Narcotic culture: a social history of opiates in modern China."

JEAN-LUC DOMENACH is Director of Research at CERI, Sciences Po, Paris.

RICHARD LOUIS EDMONDS is Editor of The China Quarterly and Senior Lecturer in Geography with reference to China at SOAS. He has written extensively on mainland China, Japan, Taiwan, Macau and Hong Kong. His publications include: Macau (1989); Patterns of China's Lost Harmony: A Survey of the Country's Environmental Degradation and Protection (1994); and (ed.) Managing the Chinese Environment (1998).

DAVID FAURE is University Lecturer in Modern Chinese History and a Fellow of St. Anthony's College at the University of Oxford.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0009443901000134 Published online by Cambridge University Press

JOHN FRANKENSTEIN is a non-resident Senior Fellow at the Atlantic Council of the U.S. and is associated with the East Asia Institute at Columbia University. A former U.S. diplomat, he is the co-author of Mixed Motives, Uncertain Outcomes: Defense Conversion in China.

PAUL GOODWIN recently retired as Professor of International Affairs at the National War College, Washington, D.C. His teaching and research specialities focus on Chinese defence and security policies. He is currently a consultant and serves as a non-resident scholar in the Atlantic Council of the United States Pacific Program.

STEVEN M. GOLDSTEIN is Sophia Smith Professor of Government at Smith College. He is co-editor of this issue.

PETER HO is lecturer at the Environmental Policy group of Wageningen University. He has published articles through Modern China, Development and Change and The China Quarterly on themes of rural development, natural resource management and environmental policy in China.

CHRISTOPHER HOWE is Professor of Chinese Business and Management, Centre for Financial and Management Studies, SOAS. Recent publications include: The Origins of Japanese Trade Supremacy: Development and Technology from 1540 to the Pacific War (new edn. 1999); Chinese Technology Transfer in the 1990's, ed., with Charles Feinstein (1997); The Chinese Economic Reform: A Study with Documents (forthcoming 2001, with Y. Y. Kueh and R. F. Ash).

TSZ MAN KWONG is an Assistant Professor in the School of Professional and Continuing Education at the University of Hong Kong and his major research interest is in urban development in China and Hong Kong.

WILLY WO-LAP LAM is a Hong Kong-based Senior China Analyst for the American news network CNN. He is the author of The Era of Jiang Zemin and China after Deng Xiaoping.

JACQUES LEMOINE is a Professor in CNRS, CASCIP, Paris.

JIH-WEN LIN is Associate Research Fellow of the Sun Yat-sen Institute for Social Sciences and Philosophy, Academia Sinica.

MICHAEL LEIFER is Director of the Asia Research Centre and Professor Emeritus of International Relations at the London School of Economics and Political Science. His most recent book is: Singapore's Foreign Policy: Coping with Vulnerability (2000).

C. P. LO is Professor of Geography at the University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia, U.S.A. His research interest is on people-environment interactions in the Zhujiang Delta and small town development in China.

COLIN MACKERRAS is Foundation Professor in the School of Asian and International Studies, Griffith University, Brisbane, Australia. He has written widely on China's minorities and on its regional theatre.

RAMON H. MYERS is Senior Fellow at the Hoover Institution and Curator-Scholar of the East Asian Collection, Hoover Institution, Stanford University.

ANDREW J. NATHAN is Professor of Political Science at Columbia University and author of China's Transition (1997), and editor (with Perry Link) of The Tiananmen Papers (2001).

TIM OAKES is Assistant Professor of Geography at the University of Colorado at Boulder. He is the author of Tourism and Modernity in China (1998).

ELIZABETH J. REMICK is Assistant Professor of Political Science at Tufts University. Her most recent projects concern taxation and local state building in 20th-century China, and the taxation and regulation of prostitution during the Republic.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0009443901000134 Published online by Cambridge University Press

THOMAS W. ROBINSON is President of American Asian Research Enterprises and Adjunct Professor of National Security at Georgetown University.

RANDALL SCHRIVER is an independent consultant on Asian affairs who works on projects for Armitage Associates. He is also a visiting fellow at the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

SOEYA YOSHIHIDE is Professor of Political Science (international relations and Japanese diplomacy) at Keio University. His publications include: Japan's Economic Diplomacy with China 1945–1978 (1998).

ANDREW N. D. YANG is a lecturer at the National Sun Yat-sen University, Kaohsiung, Taiwan, Republic of China and is also Secretary General of the Chinese Council of Advanced Policy Studies.

ANGELINA CHUN-CHU YEE has taught at the University of Pennsylvania, Cornell University, and the University of Maryland. She is now an Associate Professor of Humanities and the Director of Center for Cultural Studies at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. She has published extensively on the Honglou meng and on Taiwan writers. She is currently writing a book on colonial Taiwan and Hong Kong.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0009443901000134 Published online by Cambridge University Press