SYMPOSIUM AUTHORS' BIOS

Kenneth J. Campbell is associate professor of political science and international relations and director of the International Relations Program at the University of Delaware. His academic areas of specialization are American foreign policy, international security, contemporary genocide, and global governance.

Michelle D. Deardorff is associate professor in the department of political science at Jackson State University. She is chair of the APSA's Political Science Education organized section and editor of the Political Science Educator, the section's newsletter.

Kerstin Hamann serves as the Graduate Coordinator for the department of political science at the University of Central Florida. Her research interests lie in Comparative Politics with a focus on comparative political economy, comparative industrial relations, and contemporary Spanish politics.

Linda Suskie is vice president of the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and past director of the American Association for Higher Education's Assessment Forum.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S1049096507260160 Published online by Cambridge University Press