Contributors

JOHN DINAN is Associate Professor of Political Science at Wake Forest University. He is the author of Keeping the People's Liberties: Legislators, Citizens, and Judges as Guardians of Rights and The American State Constitutional Tradition, as well as numerous articles on state constitutional development.

MARC DIXON is an Assistant Professor in the department of Sociology at Florida State University. He has written on social movement participation, strikes, and labor politics, some of which have appeared in the American Journal of Sociology, Social Forces, and Social Problems. His current research examines the timing of restrictive labor legislation across states following the New Deal.

JAY ROWELL is Senior Research Fellow CNRS at the Group of Political Sociology (GSPE) in Strasbourg. He has published extensively on the social history of Communism and urban history in Europe. He has published L'Etat totalitaire au concret: Les politiques due logement en RDA (Paris: Economica, 2006).

PATRICK J. RYAN is Associate Professor of Childhood and Social Institutions and Political Science at Kings University College at the University of Western Ontario. He is currently writing a book on the origins of modern childhood and child-welfare policies in the United States.

https://doi.org/10.1353/jph.2007.0013 Published online by Cambridge University Press