KIDNAPPED SOULS
National Indifference and the Battle for Children in the Bohemian Lands, 1900–1948

TARA ZAHRA

"Focusing on Bohemia from the late Habsburg monarchy through World War II, this brilliantly conceived book illuminates our historical understanding of nationhood and childhood, their relation to one another, and the crucial importance of that relation for modern European history."

—Larry Wolff, author of Inventing Eastern Europe

THE MANY LIVES OF KHRUSHCHEV'S THAW
Experience and Memory in Moscow's Arbat

STEPHEN V. BITTNER

"Bittner's use of the Arbat as a platform for examining the complexities of Russian history is both novel and intriguing. Bittner's writing is clear, interesting, and effective—he relates complicated histories with ease and grace."

TOLSTOY AND THE GENESIS OF WAR AND PEACE

KATHRYN B. FEUER

EDITED BY ROBIN FEUER MILLER AND DONNA TUSSING ORWIN

"The effectiveness of Feuer's account of the creation of War and Peace results from her remarkably cogent and uncluttered reading of the drafts and revisions that inform the description of Tolstoy's creative process. This book is destined to remain a classic on the subject."

NEW REVISED EDITION

ANNA AKHMATOVA

POET AND PROPHET

BY ROBERTA REEDER

A marvelous book.
Sir Steven Spender

The revised edition of this biography incorporates important new material based on interviews, manuscripts and recently published works. It includes interesting revelations and reinterpretations of Akhmatova's relationship to significant figures like Mandelstam, Punin, Isaiah Berlin and her son Lev. There is also an updated bibliography, invaluable for any scholar working on Akhmatova and this period of Russian history.

Into the Red

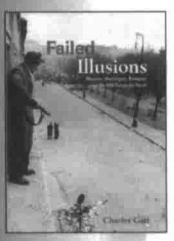

The Birth of the Credit Card Market in Postcommunist Russia

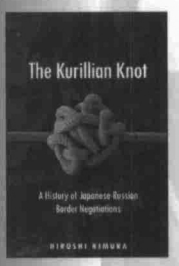

ALYA GUSEVA

"Alya Guseva's excellent book Into the Red represents the first full-length scholarly analysis of postcommunist credit card markets. Drawing on unique and extensive field research in Russia, Guseva convincingly demonstrates why the Russian credit card market has evolved so differently from that of the United States and other capitalist economies. I highly recommend it for anyone interested in gaining a deeper understanding of contemporary postcommunist financial systems."

The Soviet Union and the June 1967 Six Day War

Edited by YAACOV RO'I and BORIS MOROZOV

Why did the Soviet Union spark war in 1967 between Israel and the Arab states by falsely informing Syria and Egypt that Israel was massing troops on the Syrian border? Based on newly available archival sources, The Soviet Union and the June 1967 Six Day War answers this controversial question more fully than ever before.

MODERN WAR STUDIES

From Stalingrad to Pillau

A Red Army Artillery Officer Remembers the Great Patriotic War

Isaak Kobylyanskiy

Edited by Stuart Britton

"A candid, accurate, and revealing picture of life in a combat formation that played a significant role in many important Red Army battles and operations during the Great Patriotic War. . . . Kobylyanskiy covers forgotten or neglected aspects of the war in unprecedented detail, including separate chapters on how soldiers and their units covered vast distances during the war, the feeding and medical support of the troops during wartime, and the roles played by women in the Red Army. With equal candor, he describes his life in the postwar Soviet Union, with all of its warts and blemishes, as well as the rationale for his subsequent emigration to the United States."—David Glantz, author of Colossus Reborn: The Red Army at War, 1941–1943

"A very good and insightful read, and a significant contribution to the work of scholars such as myself who take a keen interest in the social aspects of soldiering in the Red Army. . . . Kobylyanskiy's chapters on the prewar period are especially valuable, giving insight into the prewar experience and mentality of many soon-to-be soldiers of the war generation."—Roger Reese, author of Red Commanders: A Social History of the Soviet Army Officer Corps, 1918–1991

Call for Proposals and Manuscripts in

RUSSIAN, EAST EUROPEAN, AND CENTRAL ASIAN STUDIES

from

Northwestern University Press
University of Pittsburgh Press
University of Wisconsin Press

in a partnership supported by

The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation

Initially formed in the climate of the Cold War, the study of Russia, Eastern Europe, and Central Asia is actively redefining itself in response to the dramatic transformations of the post-Soviet period and the realities of an increasingly interconnected world.

In response to these changes and to encourage fresh perspectives by emerging scholars of this dynamic region, Northwestern, Pittsburgh, and Wisconsin university presses are launching a joint publishing initiative supported by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

Specifically designed to promote the publication of first scholarly books, the initiative will build upon the three presses' strong history of publishing in this field. We seek the best new work in the humanities, especially in literary studies, history, cultural studies, anthropology, and architecture.
