

IMAGING THE HUMANITIES

ART illustrates history, culture, our common humanity and environment. Art speaks to our perception of beauty, ideals, values and beliefs. ICONIC IMAGES of mankind's evolving accomplishments document courses not only in art history but many disciplines. Scholars Resources' images offer portrayals of eminent historical figures, philosophers, literary and musical talents of the Western and Eastern world. Scholars Resource's images showcase triumphs of the church, of human adventure, and of architectural marvels all across the globe. These images speak to the "emotional impact" that can impact students from all walks of life.

Scholars Resource offers over 250,000 images from prominent vendors and museums; all images are copyrighted and require a site license; images offered to educational institutions; fees are low and one-time.

ARLIS Annual Conference 15th - 17th July 2015

Mining for Innovation - Fuelling the Arts Economy

Cardiff Metropolitan University

The ARLIS/UK and Ireland 46th Annual Conference will be held on Llandaff Campus of Cardiff Metropolitan University close to the peaceful and traditional Cathedral Close yet not far from the energy, bustle and sense of renewal of Cardiff's city centre and its Bay area.

In times of austerity we are told we 'need to do more with less' but we are already doing much to exploit and develop the rich veins of resources held in our libraries. This year's Annual Conference is an opportunity to explore, share and celebrate the many ways in which art libraries can demonstrate our worth to the arts economy and wider afield. Topics under consideration include innovation, engagement, promotion and how we can demonstrate the roles librarians, archivists, information specialists etc can play in 'adding value' to the impact our institutions have in the world of the arts.

Cardiff, built on the profits of the coal mining trade, is home to stunning contemporary architecture, rich industrial and commercial heritage, fine museums and collections, castles and Victorian and Edwardian shopping arcades, and a special blue police box.

During the Conference we will make the most of what Cardiff has to offer, with a varied programme including speakers from CyMAL: Museums Archives and Libraries Wales, Cardiff Metropolitan University, Wales Artist Resource Programme (WARP) and Cardiff University's special collections and archives (SCOLAR) and visits to arts venues along Cardiff Bay, the National Museum of Wales and SCOLAR.
