CONTRIBUTORS

Susan M. Socolow, Professor Emeritus at Emory University, has edited three books and written three others, as well as several articles on the colonial history of Río de la Plata. She has served as vice president of the American Historical Association, president of the Conference on Latin American History, and co-president of the Rocky Mountain Council for Latin American History (RMCLAS). She is a member of the Argentine Academy of History and the Junta Histórica de Córdoba and a recipient of the RMCLAS Lieuwen Award for Excellence in Teaching Latin American History.

Elizabeth W. Kiddy is Associate Professor of History at Albright College, and the director of its Latin American and Caribbean Studies Program. She has published several works on the history of the black Rosary brotherhoods in Brazil. More recently her work has focused on the social, cultural, environmental, and political history of the São Francisco River and Valley since Brazilian independence.

Alina Silveira is Professor at the University of Buenos Aires School of Philosophy and Letters. Her field of research, and the topic of her doctoral thesis, is British migration to Buenos Aires between 1810 and 1880. She has published chapters in several books and articles in a variety of journals related to Latin American migration and education.

Julia G. Young is Assistant Professor of History at The Catholic University of America. She is completing her first book project, which examines the network of religious exiles, political refugees, and emigrants who supported the Catholic Church during Mexico's Cristero War, and, more generally, the ways that religion and religious conflicts can shape diasporic identities among migrants. Her research interests include modern Mexican history, the Latin American Catholic Church, and global migrations.

THE ACADEMY OF AMERICAN FRANCISCAN HISTORY DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIP

The Americas is proud to sponsor up to four dissertation fellowships funded by the Academy of American Franciscan History. Each fellowship is worth $10,000 and as many as two of these fellowships will be awarded in a given year for projects dealing with some aspect of the history of the Franciscan Family in Latin America, including the United States Borderlands, Mexico, Central and South America. Up to another two fellowships will be awarded to support projects dealing with some aspect of the history of the Franciscan Family in the rest of the United States and Canada. Projects may deal with any aspect of the history of the Franciscan Family, including any of the branches of the Family, male, female, tertiary, Capuchin, etc. Proposals are evaluated by the Editorial Board of The Americas whose recommendations are passed on to the Board of Directors of the Academy.

The recipient must be engaged in full-time research during the period of the fellowship. The applicant must be a doctoral candidate at a university in the Americas, and the bulk of the research should be conducted in the Americas. To apply for a fellowship, please provide a 10-page proposal of the research project. This proposal should include the title and principle arguments of the dissertation, a research plan (including repositories where the research will be conducted), and a timetable outlining all phases of the research up to and including the conclusion and successful defense of the dissertation. The applicant must also provide three letters of support for the project, one of which must be from the chairman of the dissertation committee/major advisor. Deadline for 2014 Fellowships is February 1, 2014. Awards will be announced in April, and funding may begin as early as May.

As a condition of the fellowship award, the Academy will reserve the right of first refusal to publish any work funded under the provision of this program. The Academy has a fifty-year history of publishing works dealing with the history of the Franciscan Family in the Americas and some monographs are now jointly published through an agreement with Stanford University Press. Any royalties or other considerations resulting from publication will be separate and distinct from the dissertation fellowship.
