With a geographical approach also to be mentioned is M. Hermann Hansen and T. Heine Nielsen (eds), An Inventory of Archaic and Classical Poleis (Oxford 2004). Though the inventory is limited to the Ar and Cl periods, it provides a thorough up-to-date overview of all known poleis and similar units in the Black Sea region. Finally, at www.pontos.dk a gazetteer of anc. sites has been made available by the Danish Centre for Black Sea Studies featuring photographs of sites and finds as well as literary sources.

In 1995 volume 4 of the Lexicon of Greek Personal Names including the Black Sea region was published by P.M. Fraser and E. Matthews (2005). Curated by V.N. Zin'ko, the Demeter Foundation in Kerch has initiated a complete publication of the holdings of the Kerch Archaeological Museum. So far volumes on the sculpture (Zin'ko 2004), the coin hoards (Abramzon et al. 2006) and the Ar to EHel lamps (Žuravlev, Bykovskaja and Želtikova 2007) have appeared. To be mentioned also are the SNG volumes of the British Museum, W.M. Stancomb Collection and the National Museum in Krakow which are devoted exclusively to the Black Sea coins (Price 1993; Stancomb 2000; Bodzek 2006a). Three major contributions on amphorae have been published; 2 monographs on Gr and Black Sea amphorae found in the region (Monachov 1999; 2003), and one on late Hel and Rom amphorae of Black Sea production (Vnukov 2003). I.V. Tunkina has published a magisterial study on the research history of the old S Russia (Tunkina 2002). A sizeable resumé with major additions is published in English in BSS 1 (Tunkina 2003).

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCES

Since 1992 a number of open, international conferences have taken place, which merit to be mentioned. Two of these were in the outset aimed at discussing the Bosporan Kingdom, namely the Bosporan Phenomenon (Bosporskij Fenomen) held ca. every one and a half years in St Petersburg and the Bosporan Readings (Bosporskie Štenija), which is annual. Thematically both conferences have developed beyond the Bosporan Kingdom so today they cover the entire region along the N littoral of the Black Sea and the most important new discoveries of the current year are made public here. Substantial abstracts have been pre-published for both conferences and many of the contributions to the Kerch conferences have later been published in full in the series Bosporskie Issledovanija edited by V.N. Zin'ko (first volume in 2001; to date 20 volumes have been published as well as 3 supplementary volumes). Unfortunately, the volumes with conference abstracts are not available on the book market, but back issues can often be bought through the conference organizers.

The first St Petersburg conference on the Bosporan Phenomenon was held in 1998. It was a small, local enterprise organized on the initiative of V. Chršanovskij in the State Museum of the History of Religion and dedicated to the Bosporan Kingdom as a historical and cultural phenomenon. Since this first conference, 6 further conferences have been held: Gr culture in the periphery of the anc. world (1999); colonization of the region, establishment of poleis and the appearance of states (2001); funerary monuments and sanctuaries (2002); problems concerning chronology and dating of monuments (2004); problems of written and archaeological sources (2005); and sacred meaning of regions, sites and objects (2007).

The Kerch conferences are organized by V.N. Zin'ko and held in the month of May in the former capital of the Bosporan Kingdom, the first one in 2000. Only in recent years has a thematic focus been chosen: in 2004 the theme was ethnic processes; in 2005 periods of destabilizations and catastrophes; in 2006 oikos; in 2007 sanctuaries and sacred objects; and the latest in 2008 focused on militaria.

Other international conferences have not at the outset been confined thematically to a historical phenomenon such as the Bosporan Kingdom. To these belong the recurring conferences at Vani that also pre-publish abstracts. After the conferences the proceedings have been published as monographs. Since 1992 5 volumes have appeared (Sur les traces des Argonautes [1990], 1996; La mer Noire, zone de contacts [1994], 1999; Religions du Pont-Euxin [1997], 1999; Pont-Euxin et commerce: la genèse de la 'route de la soie' [1999], 2002; Pont-Euxin et Polis: Polis hellenis et polis barbaron [2002], 2005). The publication of the 2005 conference is currently being edited.

In September 2001, The Second International Congress on Black Sea Antiquities was held in Ankara, Turkey, which still awaits publication. In November 2002, the conference Les cités grecques, les sociétés indigènes et les empires mondiaux dans la région nord-pontique culturelle: origines et développement d'une koinè politique, économique et culturelle (VIIe s. av. J.-C.–III s. ap. J.-C.), was held in Bordeaux, France. The conference proceedings were published in 2007 (Bresson, Ivančik and Ferrary 2007). In October 2004 the conference The Black Sea Region: Past, Present and Future was held in Istanbul, Turkey. It was published in 2007 (Erkut and Mitchell 2007). In September 2005 The Third International Congress on Black Sea Antiquities, The Black Sea Area and its Relationship with Ancient Central and Eastern Europe (1st Millennium BC–5th Century AD) was held in Prague. Abstracts are available on-line at http://www.fhs.cuni.cz/conference/blacksea2005/default.asp?id=8. Contemporary with this conference, The 11th International Symposium on the Ancient History and Archaeology of the Black Sea Area was held in Vani, Georgia. In Batumi and Trabzon, in April 2006, the conference Production and Trade of Amphorae in the Black Sea, covering the expanding field of amphora studies, was held. On 18 March 2006, the Institute of Archaeology of the Jagiellonian University hosted the conference Pontica which was preceeded by a photographic exhibition In Search of Treasures. Polish-Ukrainian Research at Koshary near Odessa at the National Museum in Cracow. Proceedings of the conference appeared under the title Pontika 2006. Recent Research in Northern Black Sea Coast Greek Colonies (Krakow 2008). In April 2008, the 2nd Pontika conference, Recent Research on the Northern and Eastern Black Sea in Ancient Times, took place in Cracow. Proceedings will be published in the BAR series.

Two major international conferences scheduled for 2008 have regrettably been cancelled: the 12th Vani conference and the conference on Paphlagonia and Pontus in antiquity and the EByz period to be held in Izmir. The abstracts of the latter conference, which was cancelled with a few days notice, are available on-line (http://www.cca.unimelb.edu.au/community/Events/PAPHLAGONIA-PONTUS-abstracts.pdf).

EXHIBITIONS

In 2007, the State Hermitage Museum in St Petersburg closed down its Black Sea exhibition for a major renovation.

A number of large-scale exhibitions have made Black Sea antiquities known in the West since 1992. However, the picture promoted of the Black Sea cultures is rather biased, as the exhibitions mostly focus on gold objects found in the region.
