MODERN AMERICAN HISTORY

VOLUME 9 ISSUE 2 | July 2026 ISSN 2515 - 0456

https://doi.org/10.1017/mah.2026.10118 Published online by Cambridge University Press

MODERN AMERICAN HISTORY

Modern American History (MAH) showcases top-quality, emerging research on the history of the United States since the 1890s. Aiming to stimulate debate and make meaningful connections between the subfields of this vibrant and expansive field, the journal publishes compelling peer-reviewed articles as well as substantial review essays, forums, and other special features.

Executive Editors
Darren Dochuk, University of Notre Dame, IN, USA
Sarah B. Snyder, American University, DC, USA

Editorial Assistants
Ella Hadacek, University of Notre Dame, IN, USA
Sophie Rizzieri, University of Notre Dame, IN, USA

Editorial Board
Thomas G. Andrews, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO, USA
Beth Bailey, University of Kansas, KS, USA
Katherine Benton-Cohen, Georgetown University, DC, USA
Amanda Cobb-Greetham, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, NC, USA
Jefferson Cowie, Vanderbilt University, TN, USA
Miroslava Chavez-Garcia, University of California, Santa Barbara, CA, USA
William Deverell, University of Southern California, CA, USA
Ashley Farmer, University of Texas, Austin, TX, USA
Lauren Jae Gutterman, University of Texas at Austin, TX, USA
Claudrena Harold, University of Virginia, VA, USA
Madeline Y. Hsu, University of Texas, Austin, TX, USA
Kevin M. Kruse, Princeton University, NJ, USA
Regina Kunzel, Yale University, New Haven, CT, USA
Adriane Lentz-Smith, Duke University, NC, USA
Malinda Maynor Lowery, Emory University, GA, USA
Melani McAlister, George Washington University, DC, USA
Shaul Mitelpunkt, University of York, UK
Teasel Muir-Harmony, National Air & Space Museum, DC, USA
Margaret O'Mara, University of Washington, WA, USA
Leslie Paris, University of British Columbia, BC, Canada
Kimberly Phillips-Fein, New York University, NY, USA
Andrew Preston, University of Virginia, VA, USA
A. K. Sandoval-Strausz, Pennsylvania State University, PA, USA
Axel R. Schäfer, Johannes-Gutenberg-Universität Mainz/Obama Institute for Transnational American Studies, Germany
Sarah A. Seo, New York University, NY, USA

Cover image: The equestrian statue of George Washington in Philadelphia during the United States' Bicentennial celebrations, March 31st, 1976. Photo by UPI/Bettmann Archive/Getty Images.

ISSN (Print): 2515-0456 ISSN (Online): 2397-1851

© Cambridge University Press and the individual contributors, 2026. All rights reserved.

Printed in the United States of America

www.cambridge.org/mah

https://doi.org/10.1017/mah.2026.10118 Published online by Cambridge University Press

MODERN AMERICAN HISTORY

Volume 9, Issue 2, July 2026

Special Issue: U.S. Semiquincentennial

Articles

A Commemoration in Washington or a Commemoration for Washington? The Federal Government and the DC Bicentennial Assembly
M. J. Rymsza-Pawlowska

An examination of the contested interests at the heart of Washington, DC's plans for the Bicentennial celebration of 1976, with the DC Bicentennial Assembly and its prioritization of local democratic ideals of citizenship and autonomy clashing with President Richard Nixon's Administration quest to channel commemorative activity into redevelopment efforts targeting tourism and commercialization 153

"The Second American Revolution": Murray Rothbard and the Libertarians Imagine the U.S. Founding
Jennifer A. Depew

A study of how, beginning in the early 1970s with focus on the United States Bicentennial of 1976, libertarians engaged in the intellectual work of undoing mainstream historical narratives about the American Revolution animating both the Left and Right and claiming the spirit of 1776 (of freedom and liberty) for themselves and their movement 171

Making Protest Patriotic Again: The Peoples Bicentennial Commission and America's 200th Anniversary in 1976
M. Todd Bennett

Recasting the Peoples Bicentennial Commission, a New Left organization founded to facilitate an alternative to official celebrations of the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution, as a highly effective—if also flawed—movement that reinvigorated the politics of protest and dissent in the guise of a patriotic tradition stretching back to the Early Republic 192

"Here Come the Beads and Trinkets": Native Americans and the 1976 Bicentennial
Katherine J. Parkin

A revealing look at the wide diversity of opinion among Native people about the 1976 United States Bicentennial, ranging from anger to resignation over ongoing mistreatment of indigenous rights and identities, with emphasis on those activists who saw (and used) the national celebration in transactional terms, as a way to advance American Indian interests through public advocacy and education 211

https://doi.org/10.1017/mah.2026.10118 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Thinning the Nation? The 1976 Bicentennial and the Politics of Revolutionary Memory in a Neoliberal Age
Thomas Cryer

Situating the 1976 United States Bicentennial as a critical juncture in the transformation of American ideas about economy, society, state, and nationhood, resulting in a new synthesis of political discourse intertwining New Left values of personal empowerment and liberation with pro-enterprise ideals of producerism and economic self-determination 237

Commemoration, Creation, and Sounding the Nation's Future at St. Louis' Bicentennial Horizons of American Music
Billy Coleman

Reexamining the national story of the 1976 United States Bicentennial through the lens of regional history, with focus on the unique efforts of Elizabeth Gentry Sayad, organizer of St. Louis' Bicentennial Horizons of American Music, to create a multicultural, forward-looking celebration blending conservative values with internationalist vision 261

Below the Fold

VISITOR'S CORNER

The Visitor's Corner with George Pelecanos
Adriane Lentz-Smith
An interview with celebrated crime writer and television producer George Pelecanos, acclaimed author of twenty novels and story collections set in greater Washington, DC, and the city's unofficial "Noir Laureate" 296

PHOTOARTICLE

Rebranding a Nation: The U.S. Bicentennial Logo and the Politics of Graphic Design in the Nixon Administration
Teasel Muir-Harmony
A visual study of the United States Bicentennial logo, the evolution of its experimental design, and the contested politics of American identity, patriotism, and corporate power it generated in a fractured nation 301

INTO THE STACKS

Partisan Origins: Politicizing the Memory of the American Revolution
Zachary Clary
A reconsideration of recent scholarship on national memory and mythologies in the broader purview of longstanding and intensifying partisan battles over the true meaning and legacies of the American Revolution 330

https://doi.org/10.1017/mah.2026.10118 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Bound by the Mockingbird Creed: Anniversaries, Myths and the Enduring Power of Atticus Finch
Megan Hunt
Revisiting lingering mid-twentieth-century liberal nostalgias and legacies through the lens of Atticus Finch and Harper Lee, and amid the contested politics of the 1619 Project, conservative pushback in the realms of public memory and history, and the meaning of the nation's Semiquincentennial 341

https://doi.org/10.1017/mah.2026.10118 Published online by Cambridge University Press