Consultant child and adolescent psychiatrists ...

Help shine a light on rare mental health disorders and events

A convenient way to show your participation in research.

CAPSS uses a process of active surveillance to facilitate the epidemiological study of rare mental health disorders or clinical events amongst children and adolescents across the United Kingdom and Ireland.

During surveillance periods, we will ask for a quick and simple response each month about whether you have seen a rare condition. Previous studies have included Sydhenham's chorea and early onset eating disorders.

Register or update your details now to ensure you're able to participate in future studies:

Changes Ahead for BJPsych Bulletin & BJPsych International

From 2026, we're going Gold Open Access

Both BJPsych Bulletin and BJPsych International have always been open access – freely available for all to read. Now, we're moving to a new model.

What's Changing?

Starting in 2026, we're moving to a Gold Open Access model:

- Articles will continue to be free to read for everyone.
- The journal will now be able to benefit from funding that has been provided by funding bodies and academic institutions for the purpose of supporting open access research.
- Our publishing partner, Cambridge University Press, supports this transition with a wide network of funding arrangements.

We're committed to equity in publishing:

- No author will ever have to pay personally to publish.
- Waivers and access initiatives will be in place for authors not covered by funding.
- Lack of funding will never be a barrier to publishing in BJPsych Bulletin and BJPsych International or affect your chances of publication in any way.
