IN GENERAL, the Modern Language Association offers no grants or fellowships of any kind. Current graduate students, however, may qualify for financial assistance to attend the annual convention. For details, see A Concise Guide to Activities and Services, in this issue. The following list provides an overview of fellowship and grant programs; potential applicants should write to the foundations for complete information on procedures and requirements. The list omits prize contests and a number of purely literary fellowships. Larger, more inclusive lists include Annual Register of Grant Support (New Providence: Bowker); Directory of Research Grants (Phoenix: Oryx); Financial Aid for Minorities in Education (Garrett Park: Garrett Park); The Foundation Directory (New York: Foundation Center); The Foundation Grants Index (New York: Foundation Center); Fulbright and Other Grants for Graduate Study Abroad (New York: Inst. of Intl. Educ.); Directory of Graduate Programs, Vol. D: Arts and Humanities (New York: Warner); Virginia P. White, Grants: How to Find Out about Them and What to Do Next (New York: Plenum); The Grants Register (New York: St. Martin's); Scholarships, Fellowships, and Loans (Detroit: Gale); Study Abroad (Lanham: Unipub); and Teaching Abroad (New York: Inst. of Intl. Educ.). The Linguistic Society of America (1325 18th St., NW, Suite 211, Washington, DC 20036-6501; 202 835-1714; http://www.lsadc.org) publishes the Guide to Grants and Fellowships in Linguistics. Information on philanthropic foundations, books on fellowships and grants, and periodicals such as Foundation Grants to Individuals (a biannual) and the Foundation Grants Index Quarterly may be obtained by writing or calling the Foundation Center, 79 5th Ave., New York, NY 10003-3076 (212 620-4230; http://fdncenter.org).

ABE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM: Postdoctoral fellowships for scholars or research professionals who can demonstrate strong and serious long-term affiliations with research communities in the United States or Japan. The fellowships are awarded for research projects in the social sciences or humanities that will inform the environment in which policy is made on issues of pressing global concern to industrialized and industrializing societies across the globe. Projects must be relevant to any one or a combination of three themes: 1) global issues; 2) problems common to industrial and industrializing societies; and 3) issues that pertain to US-Japan relations. Fellowships are offered to individuals only and offer up to 12 months of full-time support. Write or call the Abe Fellowship Program, Social Science Research Council, 810 7th Ave., 31st floor, New York, NY 10019 (212 377-2700; fax: 212 377-2727; abe@ssrc.org; http://www.ssrc.org). The deadline is 1 September.

Funding is for the Fall 2004–Spring 2005 academic year.

LATIN AMERICAN AND CARIBBEAN STUDIES CENTER OF STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY: Hosts a new Rockefeller Humanities Residency Site in the academic year 2004–05. The theme of this visiting scholar program, Durable Inequalities in Latin America, promotes new research on the core problem of how and why Latin America has maintained, across many centuries, the world's most radically unequal societies and cultures. Inequality has social, political, historical, cultural, and ethical dimensions, beyond its usual focus in the hard social sciences. The center seeks primarily Latin American or Caribbean scholars, from any field (or topical interest) in the humanities or historical or social sciences, whose work expands or innovates on the study of inequalities. Writing projects may focus on how inequalities are produced over the long run through such identities and categories as class, race, region, and gender or explicitly link inequalities throughout the Americas—in rising maldistribution within the United States, by the Latino/a diaspora, or other (in)equality-making connections and flows. The center offers two fellowships of 8–10 months' duration. The deadline is 15 February 2004. For information and application guidelines, contact Paul Gootenberg, LACS Director, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, Stony Brook Univ., SBS N333, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4345 (631 632-7517; fax: 631 632-9432; lacc@notes.cc.sunysb.edu), or visit the center's Web site (http://www.stonybrook.edu/lacc).

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES: The endowment's grant-making operations are conducted through four divisions and two offices. Through grants to educational institutions and opportunities for teachers, the Division of Education Programs is designed to strengthen sustained, thoughtful study of the humanities at all levels of education. Through fellowships to individual scholars and support of collaborative projects, the Division of Research Programs promotes significant original research in the humanities. In the Division of Public Programs the projects in Media, Museums, and Historical Organizations and the Humanities Projects in Libraries support humanities projects for the out-of-school public. The Division of Preservation and Access makes grants for projects that will create, preserve, and increase the availability of resources important for research, education, and public programming in the humanities. The Office of Federal/State Partnership makes grants to citizens' committees in each state to provide support for local humanities projects. Nonprofit institutions interested in developing new sources of long-term support for humanities programs may seek assistance from the Office of Challenge Grants.

General eligibility: The endowment supports the work of individual scholars and not-for-profit institutions and organizations engaged in projects involving the humanities. Those institutions include universities; four-year colleges; junior and community colleges; elementary and secondary schools; educational, cultural, professional, and community groups; museums and historical organizations; libraries; public agencies; and public radio and television stations. The endowment welcomes applications for support from all such institutions and groups, from individual US citizens with or without academic affiliation, and from foreign nationals who have been living in the US or its territories for at least three years at the time of application. Fields of support: According to the act that established the endowment, the humanities include, but are not limited to, the following fields: history, philosophy, language, linguistics, literature, archaeology, jurisprudence, history and criticism of the arts, ethics, comparative religion, and those aspects of the social sciences employing historical or philosophical approaches. This last category includes cultural anthropology, sociology, political theory, and international relations. Gifts-and-matching grants: An applicant may sometimes be offered a "gifts-and-matching" grant as a supplement to an outright grant or as the sole form of endowment support. When the endowment offers to support a project through one of these grants, it is up to the grantee to raise gifts from outside his or her own organization to a level approved by the endowment. The endowment then matches this money with federal funds, but the total sum that can be federally matched is limited by the annual congressional appropriations for that purpose. Challenge grants: These grants offer one federal dollar for every three or four raised from nonfederal sources. Proposed expenditures that support capital growth and financial stability will receive priority. Other items that may be covered are renovation of facilities and administrative and program costs attributable to the humanities. Deadlines: Applicants (except fellowship applicants) should submit preliminary descriptions of their projects to the appropriate division at least six to eight weeks before the application deadline for the program to which they plan to apply. Write to the Office of Public Affairs, Room 402, Natl. Endowment for the Humanities, Washington, DC 20506, or call 202 606-8400 for complete information. (Deaf and hearing-impaired persons should call 202 606-8282.) Current information is available through the Internet at info@neh.gov or on the World Wide Web at http://www.neh.gov.

For state humanities council deadlines, write or call NEH for the address of the state humanities council office in your state.

NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR JEWISH CULTURE: Approximately ten dissertation fellowships in Jewish studies or in areas related to Jewish history, community, or institutions are awarded each year. Stipends range from $7,000 to $10,000. The deadline is 5 January. In addition, the Sidney and Hadassah Musher Publication Prize is awarded to facilitate the publication of a dissertation relating to Jewish life in Israel or America, from 1880 to the present. One prize, for $4,000, is awarded in alternate years beginning in 1992. The deadline is 15 July in even-numbered years. zona offers two Rockefeller Humanities Residency Fellowships for the 2003–04 academic year. The Sex, Race, and Globalization (SRG) project explores the imbrication of sexuality, gender, and race with economic, political, and informational processes across local, regional, national, and transnational scales. Noting that global movements of capital, information, and people are facilitated, blocked, and diverted by sexual, racial, and national categories, even as cultural formations are reshaped by globalization, we seek to describe and explain the links between exploitative economic processes and structures of sexual, gendered, and racial inequality. Recognizing that globalization is a transformation of prior systems of global economic and political interaction, we welcome applications from scholars working in or across various historical periods. While the SRG project sustains the commitment of lesbian and gay studies to recognizing the significance of sexuality, we seek to develop alliances among identity and area studies fields and, therefore, welcome applications from scholars who have not worked in the context of lesbian and gay studies. Fellows receive a stipend of $35,000, travel and research funds ($5,000), a moving allowance ($2,000), an office, and full access to university libraries, computer systems, recreational facilities, and the many scholarly and cultural programs offered across the university. Application deadline is 1 December. For more information and application guidelines, call or write the Committee on Lesbian, Gay, and Bisexual Studies (520 626-3431; lgbs@u.arizona.edu; http://www.arizona.edu/~lgbcom).

WOODROW WILSON INTERNATIONAL CENTER FOR SCHOLARS: From 20 to 25 residential fellowships for advanced research in the humanities and social sciences on topics that intersect with public policy. Men and women from any country and from a wide variety of backgrounds (including government, the corporate world, and the professions, as well as academe) may apply. A very good command of spoken English is required. Applicants must hold doctorates or have equivalent professional accomplishments. Fellows are provided offices, access to the Library of Congress and other research facilities, computers, and part-time research assistants. Stipends provided in 2003 ranged from $23,000 to $85,000. The application deadline is 1 October 2003. Application materials are available on-line at the Woodrow Wilson Center Web site (http://www.wilsoncenter.org) or by writing Scholar Selection and Services, 1 Woodrow Wilson Plaza, 1300 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20004-3027 (202 691-4170; fax: 202 691-4001; lyonrd@wwic.si.edu).

WOODROW WILSON NATIONAL FELLOWSHIP FOUNDATION: Three programs to expand job opportunities for those receiving PhD degrees in the humanities. These initiatives—the Woodrow Wilson Innovation Awards, the Woodrow Wilson Practicum Grants, the Woodrow Wilson Postdoctoral Fellowships in the Humanities, and the Woodrow Wilson Postdoctoral Careers Program—reward imaginative thinking by universities, employers, and doctoral students, for exploring careers beyond academe.

Woodrow Wilson Innovation Awards: The foundation presents up to three $10,000 awards annually to recognize and support departments and programs in the humanities disciplines that encourage PhD students to interact with the world outside the academy as part of their graduate training. The deadline for application is 15 May.

Woodrow Wilson Practicum Grants: The foundation awards grants of up to $1,500 to support humanities PhD graduate students who use their disciplinary knowledge in a nonacademic setting, such as a corporate or not-for-profit internship. Applications are now being accepted and reviewed on an ongoing basis. It is expected that approximately 30 of these grants will be awarded over the next 12 months.

Woodrow Wilson Postdoctoral Fellowships in the Humanities: Two-year postdoctoral fellowships will be offered at approximately twenty-five United States institutions. Appointments include minimum salaries of $30,000 for half-time teaching duties, mentoring, opportunities for interdisciplinary teaching, and research and travel grants. The fellowships provide support for broad development of the fellows' scholarship and teaching expertise. The application process is designed to be entirely paperless, barring transcripts, which must be sent separately. Interested applicants must complete a prescreening form at http://www.woodrow.org/academic_postdocs. Requests for applications must be made no later than 8 November 2003; all materials must be received by 16 November 2003.

Woodrow Wilson Postdoctoral Careers Program: The program matches outstanding humanities PhD students and recent graduates with meaningful and fulfilling career opportunities in professions outside of college teaching and research. Currently some twenty-five companies and organizations—ranging from Microsoft to the National Parks Service, from McKinsey to History Associates, from Sidwell Friends School to Encyclopedia Britannica—are actively recruiting humanities PhDs through the foundation's Web site. For full details about all three programs, visit the foundation's Web site (http://www.woodrow.org/phd).

WINTERTHUR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS IN AMERICAN ART, HISTORY, AND CULTURE: Winterthur is a public museum and garden that supports approximately twenty-five visiting scholars each year in several programs: NEH fellowships for senior scholars (up to $40,000 for 4–12 months), Lois F. McNeil dissertation fellowships ($7,000 per semester), short-term (1–3 month) fellowships ($1,500 per month). Winterthur's collections include primarily American material, with supporting material in British and Continental art and culture. The library holds half a million imprints, manuscripts, visual sources, and printed ephemera for research from the seventeenth through the early twentieth century. The museum includes 86,000 domestic artifacts and works of art made or used in America to 1860. The collections support research in the history of manners, the body, travel and tourism, domestic life, women's and men's culture, and childhood and in art history, material culture, and decorative arts. For information and online library catalog, http://www.winterthur.org. Application deadline for the May 2004–August 2005 fellowship year is 15 January 2004. Information and application forms are also available from Research Fellowship Program, Office of Academic Studies, Winterthur Museum, Garden, and Library, Winterthur, DE 19735 (302 888-4649; pelliott@winterthur.org).
