However, he admitted that this observation had been made chiefly as the result of his conversation with one individual—a distinguished psychiatrist. Among other papers he outlined particularly some points from a discussion on euthanasia and read an extract from a speech he had made in opposition to it—a very trenchant piece of criticism. He was particularly impressed by a film showing the details of the training of the American doctor, and also by a clinical conference held at Bellvue. The cases were presented with a wealth of detail and the thoroughness of the clinical investigation was, he felt, quite outstanding. In the ensuing discussion Dr. Moran was warmly congratulated on the honour done to him and to the R.M.P.A. by his well-merited selection as Irish delegate. All the speakers paid tribute to the brilliance of his communication and to the interesting observations he made both on American medicine and on the American way of life. The paper was discussed by Drs. COYNE, MOLONY, O'SULLIVAN, MOORE, HONAN and DELANEY.

The Meeting then adjourned.
