

IRISH JOURNAL OF PSYCHOLOGICAL MEDICINE

The John Dunne Medal

In honour of Dr John Dunne,
first Psychiatry Professor in Ireland and President
(1955) of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association

Sponsored by Lilly

THE JOHN DUNNE MEDAL was established to symbolise excellence and originality in the field of psychiatric research. Awarded annually, this prestigious prize is open to all trainees from Ireland, Northern Ireland and Britain. To be eligible, a trainee must have made a significant contribution (though not necessarily as first author) to an original paper published by the Journal over the year.

Pictured at the presentation of the John Dunne Medal 2009 in Dublin recently were (l-r): Geraldine Meagan, Managing Director, MedMedia Publications; Prof Brian A Lawlor, Editor-in-Chief, Irish Journal of Psychological Medicine & Consultant Psychiatrist, St Patrick's Hospital, Dublin; John Dunne 2009 winner Dr Katherine Curtin, Senior Registrar, Central Mental Hospital, Dundrum, Dublin; Brendan D Kelly, Consultant Psychiatrist, Department of Adult Psychiatry, The Mater Misericordiae Hospital, Dublin. The winning paper is entitled "Psychiatric morbidity in male remanded and sentenced committals to Irish prisons." Curtin et al. Ir J Psych Med 2009; 26(4): 169-173

We would like to wish continued success to our previous winners. We welcome submissions from trainees who have made a contribution to the field of psychiatric research through original papers. The winner is judged by an international panel. The John Dunne Medal was sculpted in bronze by Robin Buick, ARHA, and has been exhibited by the Royal Hibernian Academy.

Our thanks to Lilly for their continued support
