The Collected Works of Edward Sapir III: Culture

VOLUME EDITORS:
REGNA DARNELL, JUDITH T. IRVINE AND RICHARD HANDLER

1999. 24 x 17 cm. 1060 pages.
Cloth. US$ 358.75
• ISBN 3-11-012639-7

Volume Three of The Collected Works of Edward Sapir contains all of Sapir's professional publications, as well as all of his recorded lectures, not previously published, on the concept of culture and on the relationship of culture to the individual as a member of society. It contains as well Sapir's cultural criticism – his writings on literature, art and music and his published essays, comments and reviews on leading intellectual and political issues of his day.

Clitics in the Languages of Europe

EDITED BY HENK VAN RIEMSDIJK

1999. 23 x 15,5 cm. XII, 1026 pages.
Cloth. US$ 295.50
• ISBN 3-11-015751-9
(Empirical Approaches to Language Typology / EUROTYP 20-5)

This volume constitutes a substantial contribution to the grammar of clitics. It offers an extensive overview of the current state-of-the-art, it presents a broad variety of analytical and theoretical approaches to clitics, and it provides the reader with a wealth of descriptive materials, all drawn from the major European languages.

EVA KOKTOVA

Word-Order Based Grammar

1999. 23 x 15,5 cm. XV, 389 pages
Cloth. US$ 127.75
• ISBN 3-11-016252-0
(Trends in Linguistics. Studies and Monographs 121)

In this book, a new theory of grammar based on word order is proposed: a deep word order as the multipartioned communicative-information structure of the sentence, and surface word order as a segmented and communicatively pulsating structure. The book offers a new, detailed analysis of the major problems of linguistic theory (scoping expressions, anaphora, wh-extraction).

Lexical Anaphors and Pronouns in Selected South Asian Languages

A Principled Typology

EDITED BY
BARBARA C. LUST, KASHI WALI, JAMES W. GAIR AND K. V. SUBBARAO

1999. 23 x 15,5 cm. XV, 904 pages.
Cloth. US$ 256.75
• ISBN 3-11-014388-7
(Empirical Approaches to Language Typology 22)

This volume contains detailed descriptions of the anaphoric system of 14 languages of South Asia, representing four linguistic families, Indo-Aryan, Dravidian, Tibeto-Burman and Austro-Asiatic. The data for each language are presented in terms of a common, detailed outline which was guided by both current theoretical concerns and descriptive questions, and designed to allow both precise and comprehensive comparisons across the languages. Each language is described by a recognized specialist.

Folk Linguistics

1999. 23 x 15,5 cm. XX, 375 pages.
Cloth. US$ 153.55
• ISBN 3-11-016251-2
(Trends in Linguistics. Studies and Monographs 122)

Folk knowledge of language has not engaged linguists very often in the history of the field. Introductory texts often disparage folk belief in contrast to 'scientific truth'. In fact, language is a ubiquitous topic of discussion and general concern of the folk. They talk about grammar, pronunciation, first and second language learning, language disabilities, dialects, gender and language, and a host of other topics. This book approaches such beliefs as one of the most important aspects of ethnography. Surely what a people believe about their language is as important as any other key to an understanding of their culture.

Tense and Aspect in the Languages of Europe

EDITED BY ÖSTEN DAHL

2000. 23 x 15,5 cm. Approx. 800 pages.
Cloth. US $ 295.50
• ISBN 3-11-015752-7
(Empirical Approaches to Language Typology / EUROTYP 20-6)

This volume puts the European tense-aspect systems in a consistent typological and diachronic perspective. The book advances our understanding of the dynamics of tense and aspect systems, how they develop over time, and how this is reflected in the rich patterns of synchronic variation and their areal distribution.

Phonological Projection

A Theory of Feature Content and Prosodic Structure

1999. 23 x 15,5 cm. Approx. 350 pages.
Cloth. US$ 127.75
• ISBN 3-11-015422-6
(Studies in Generative Grammar 47)

This book deals with the relation between the feature content of segments and the prosodic structure headed by those segments. It also presents several important contributions to the framework of Optimality Theory. Apart from this, the volume will make available many new data to phonologists working in other frameworks.

Prices are subject to change.

COURSE BOOK AND CD ROM

English Sentence Analysis

An introductory course

Marjolijn Verspoor and Kim Sauter
English Department
University of Groningen

English Sentence Analysis: An introductory course is designed as a 10-week course for students of English Language and Literature, Linguistics, or other language related fields.
In 10 weeks the student will be proficient in English analysis at sentence, clause and phrase level and have a solid understanding of the traditional terms and concepts of English syntax.
This introduction prepares for practical courses in grammar and writing skills and for theoretical courses in syntactic argumentation.
The package consists of a Course Book with 8 Chapters and a CD-Rom with the Practice Program. The book and the program are fully complementary.

The Course Book
- Shows sentence structures in clear graphics
- Contains logically structured chapters with Introductions and Summaries
- Provides exercises with quotations and excerpts from English and American literature.

The Practice Program
- over 800 exercises
- over 700 authentic quotations and excerpts from literature and popular music to analyze
- detailed feedback with hyperlinks to theoretical explanations
- a comprehensive theory module
- an on-screen score count
- adapts to the individual student's problem areas

The 8 Chapters of the Course Book are designed for a classroom taught introductory course of about 10 weeks, but can also be used for self study. The chapters are incremental and can best be studied in the given sequence. Each Chapter deals with two to four topics and opens with a short Introduction listing these topics, and ends with a Summary reviewing the new concepts. More exercises are included (in addition to the Practice Program), with original passages from well-known short stories to test if the concepts are understood. The answers are given at the back of the book.

The Practice Program has 8 units of exercises that complement the chapters of the course book. The exercises consist of quotations from literature and pop songs from a variety of British, American and Australian English, with specific feedback and hyperlinks to a comprehensive theory module, which can also be accessed independently.

Adaptive to the student's skills
Each unit first provides a set of about 25 questions covering the topics discussed in the course book chapter. These questions can be answered within 30 minutes. If the student scores below 80% on any of the topics from the chapter, a new set of questions will appear focusing only on topics the student does not master yet. If the score is still below 80% another adapted set will be presented. If the student still scores below 80% after four runs of new questions, the questions are recycled, focusing again on the student's problem areas.

Basic principles
The course is ready for use, flexible to the student's skills, and based on language in use.
The theory module is theory neutral and includes functional and cognitive linguistic insights where useful. Traditional linguistic terms are used throughout.
For example, the functions of sentence constituents are Subject, Predicator, Direct Object, Indirect Object, Benefactive Object, Subject Attribute, Object Attribute and Adverbial which may consist of phrases (NP, VP, PP, AdjP or AdvP) or clauses (finite or non-finite). The course emphasizes that there may be several possible layers of analysis within a sentence.

English Sentence Analysis: An introductory course has been classroom tested at various universities. The students seem to enjoy the 'dreaded' syntax course and pass rates have gone up significantly from 50 to 70%.

The Practice Program is based on Hologram, designed and adapted by the University of Groningen, Fac. of Arts, Centre for ICT and Learning. A network version is being developed.

Key Language and Linguistics Titles

Forthcoming:
ALPHABET TO EMAIL
How Written English Evolved and Where it's Heading
Naomi S. Baron

How is technology changing the way we write? In the fast-moving world of email, content is far more important than spelling and punctuation. Is it time to throw away the old rules—or should we hurry to the rescue?

From pen-and-parchment to the email revolution, Naomi Baron's provocative account shows how a surprising variety of factors—not just technology, but also religious beliefs, the law, nationalism, and economics—shape the ways we read, write and communicate.

AN INTRODUCTION TO DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
Theory and Method
James Paul Gee

"If you only read one book on Discourse Analysis, this is the one to read. Gee's book shows us that Discourse Analysis is about a lot more than linguistic study; it will help us all to see how to keep from, as he says, 'getting physically, socially, culturally, or morally "bitten" by the world."
—Ron Scollon, Georgetown University

INFORMATION FOR CONTRIBUTORS

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

MANUSCRIPTS for publication and exchange JOURNALS should be sent to the Editor of LANGUAGE (Mark Aronoff, Dept. of Linguistics, SUNY Stony Brook, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4376) BOOKS for review should be sent to the Review Editor (Edwin Battistella, 209 Humanities, Wayne State College, Wayne, NE 68787). Manuscripts of articles and reviews should be submitted in FOUR ANONYMOUS copies; they will not be returned. Normally at least one author of any article or review article submitted to LANGUAGE must be a member of the Society.

Manuscript form. Authors of articles submitted to LANGUAGE are not asked to follow the LANGUAGE style sheet in preparing their manuscripts for initial submission to LANGUAGE. There is no restriction on the format of manuscripts, although authors should make their submissions as reader-friendly as possible. Any manuscript, however, that has been accepted for publication as an article will have to be revised so as to conform strictly to the LANGUAGE style sheet. For the complete style sheet, see the December LSA Bulletin, the LANGUAGE web page at http://semlab2.sbs.sunysb.edu/Language/language.html, or write to the editors.

This policy does not apply to book reviews and book notices. These are all solicited by the Review Editor and they must adhere as closely as possible to the LANGUAGE style sheet on first submission.
