Postmodern American Literature and Its Other
W. LAWRENCE HOGUE

"Hogue's model of a "planetary postmodernism" that places the Others—people of color, women, syncretic religions—at the center of literature offers a way forward into new epistemological possibilities." —Darryl Dickson-Carr, author of The Columbia Guide to Contemporary African American Fiction

Cloth $45.00

Culture Makers
Urban Performance and Literature in the 1920s
AMY KORITZ

"Provides an eloquent and refreshing collection . . . that illuminates the way in which artists, intellectuals, and cultural commentators used culture-making to pose 'symbolic resolutions' to key social and cultural tensions of modernity." —David M. Scobey, author of Empire City: The Making and Meaning of the New York Landscape

Cloth $40.00

If Beale Street Could Talk
Music, Community, Culture

Pleasure and purpose

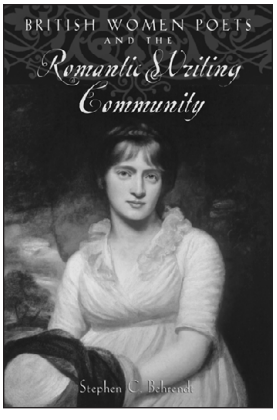

Anna Letitia Barbauld
Voice of the Enlightenment
William McCarthy

Poet, teacher, essayist, political writer, editor, and critic, Anna Letitia Barbauld was venerated by contemporaries on both sides of the Atlantic. After decades in the historical limbo into which almost all work by women writers of her era was swept, Barbauld's writings on citizenly ethics, identity politics, church-state relations, and empire are still deeply relevant today.

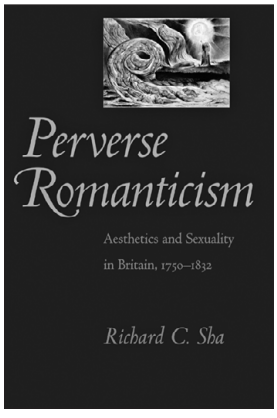

"The first full-scale scholarly biography of this very important figure. Its originality and substance are hard to overrate. The scholarship is wide ranging, meticulous, and impressive."
—Isobel Grundy, University of Alberta
$60.00 hardcover

British Women Poets and the Romantic Writing Community
Stephen C. Behrendt

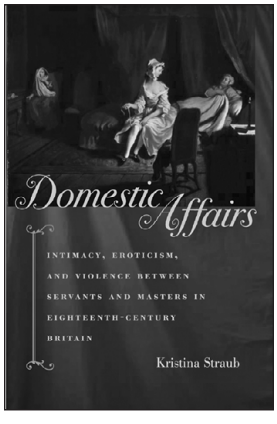

"This is an essential contribution to our discipline by one of its major scholars. Most of what it contains will be absolutely new to its readers, providing a significant and lasting addition to the ongoing recovery of the literature of the British Romantic age."
—Stuart Curran, University of Pennsylvania
$65.00 hardcover

Perverse Romanticism
Aesthetics and Sexuality in Britain, 1750–1832
Richard C. Sha

"Sha addresses the ways in which Romantic literature advocated purposelessness in both aesthetics and sexual pleasure: art for art's sake and sex for the sake of sex. His analysis is original and insightful."
—Frederick Burwick, University of California at Los Angeles
$55.00 hardcover

Domestic Affairs
Intimacy, Eroticism, and Violence between Servants and Masters in Eighteenth-Century Britain
Kristina Straub

From Daniel Defoe's Family Instructor to William Godwin's political novel Caleb Williams, literature written for and about servants tells a hitherto untold story about the development of sexual and gender ideologies in the early modern period. This original study explores the complicated relationships between domestic servants and their masters through close readings of such literary and nonliterary eighteenth-century texts.
