Two Essential Journals from Kluwer

NEW!

Reading and Writing
An Interdisciplinary Journal

Editor: R. Malatesha Joshi

This new journal brings together the research on reading and writing from different disciplines. Reading and Writing will focus on the interaction among various fields such as linguistics, information processing, neuropsychology, cognitive psychology, speech and hearing sciences, and education.

The journal will publish research articles, critical reviews, theoretical papers, case studies, and book reviews. Special emphasis will be given to articles that address models, diagnosis and remediation of reading, writing, and spelling; orthography and its relation to reading and writing; computer literacy; cross cultural studies; and developmental and acquired disorders of reading and writing.

New title . . . same high quality!

Machine Translation
"formerly Computers and Translation"

Editor: Sergei Nirenburg, Carnegie Mellon University

In recent years, there has been a tremendous growth in the fields of Machine Translation and Machine-Aided Translation. Since 1986, Computers and Translation has been serving the M(A)T community. Effective with Volume 4 the title of the journal will become Machine Translation. The change of title is a reflection of the journal's commitment to stay on the leading edge in MT. As a new editorial team takes over in 1988, the journal is still dedicated to publishing high-quality technical articles, focusing on theoretical, descriptive and computational aspects of any topic that contributes to the advancement of MT or M(A)T.

New from MIT & Bradford Books

Concepts, Kinds, and Cognitive Development

Frank C. Keil

Weaving together issues in cognitive development, philosophy, and cognitive psychology, Frank Keil provides a coherent account of how concepts and word meanings develop in children, adding to our understanding of the representational nature of concepts and word meanings at all ages. A Bradford Book.

March, 1989 $22.50

Missing the Meaning?

A Cognitive Neuropsychological Study of Processing of Words by an Aphasic Patient

David Howard and Sue Franklin

Built around a detailed analysis of an aphasic patient, MK, who exhibits a set of bizarre and fascinating symptomcomplexes that make him "four patients in one," Missing the Meaning? is an extended case study rich in contributions to lexical theory. A Bradford Book.

February, 1989 $25.00

LANGUAGE AND MEANING

SOCIAL SEMIOTICS

By ROBERT HODGE and GUNTHER KRESS. Semiotics was defined by Ferdinand de Saussure in the early years of the twentieth century as "the science of the life of signs in society." Robert Hodge and Gunther Kress here confront the conceptual difficulties that have limited its growth as a field of inquiry and demonstrate how it can be integrated with the social analysis of power and ideology, and of gender and class. $14.95 paper, $47.50 cloth

FERDINAND DE SAUSSURE

Revised Edition

By JONATHAN CULLER. For this newly revised and expanded edition, Culler has made significant additions to his account of applications of Saussurian thought today in such areas of critical theory as Marxism, psychoanalysis, and deconstruction. From a review of the original edition: "Admirable. . . . Even at the most difficult points . . . Culler's explanations are lucid and buttressed by incisive examples." —George Steiner, Sunday Times (London). $5.95 paper, $22.50 cloth

THE UNCERTAINTY OF ANALYSIS

Problems in Truth, Meaning, and Culture

By TIMOTHY J. REISS. In this wide-ranging and provocative volume Reiss takes a close, critical look at such important contributions to Western thought as the explorations in foundational logic by Frege and Peirce; examinations of language and its relations to mind by Saussure, Greimas, and Chomsky; investigations in linguistic and scientific epistemology by Wittgenstein and Heisenberg; and analyses of the nature of society by Sartre and other Western Marxists. $29.95

THE RHETORIC OF DREAMS

By BERT O. STATES. States here puts forward a new theory of the nature and function of dreaming, in the process challenging the Freudian theory of repression. Far from censoring unacceptable thought, States asserts, the dream is one of the most direct of psychic functions, processing experience in patterns of association that contribute to our survival in waking reality. $22.50

A Practical Introduction to Phonetics

J.C. Catford, University of Michigan (Emeritus)

This comprehensive introduction to phonetics employs a unique interactive approach that allows readers to learn the range of human sounds by actually articulating them, and attending to the motor sensations they produce in order to acquire a complete, personal understanding of phonetic classification. 1988 256 pp. illus. paper $17.95 cloth $55.00

Introduction to the "Laryngeal Theory"

Fredrik Otto Lindeman, University of Oslo

According to this theory, Indo-European language possessed certain consonants called "laryngeals," which survive only as vestiges in the non-Anatolian Indo-European language family. This book guides readers through the complexities of the theory, offering a clear and consistent introduction to an important aspect of Indo-European language studies

INFORMATION FOR CONTRIBUTORS

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

MANUSCRIPTS for publication, exchange JOURNALS, and BOOKS for review should be sent to the Editor of LANGUAGE (Sarah G. Thomason, Dept. of Linguistics, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15260). Manuscripts of articles should be submitted in THREE copies, and manuscripts of reviews in TWO; they will not be returned unless postage is provided by contributors. LSA membership is not required for publication and manuscripts from non-LSA members are welcome.

An abbreviated LSA Style Sheet is provided below. For the complete Style Sheet, see the December LSA Bulletin.

Manuscript form. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced throughout (including footnotes, quotations, and reference list) on $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ inch heavy-weight bond paper (ONE SIDE ONLY), with no less than $1\frac{1}{2}$ inch margins on all four sides. Type size should not be smaller than 12 pitch (characters per inch). Tables, charts, diagrams, extended quotations, and other passages to be set in smaller type (though not simple rules, examples, or formulae) must each appear on a separate sheet. All pages of the manuscript must be in a single pagination.

Abstract. Each manuscript submitted for publication should be accompanied by an abstract of about 100 words, summarizing the conceptual content of the article. It should be typed on a separate sheet of paper.

Text. Use only single quotation marks—never double except for quotes within quotes. Use a single straight underscore to indicate italic type, a double underscore for SMALL CAPITALS. Use normal capitalization. A letter, word, phrase, or sentence cited as a linguistic example or subject of discussion appears in italics—or else in phonetic or phonemic transcription, enclosed in square brackets or in slant lines.

Citations. Brief citations given in the text should take such forms as 'Examples are given in Nichols 1986', 'Bloomfield (1933:264) introduced the term ...', or 'Many coastal languages of the Northwest had sounds intermediate between nasal and voiced oral stops (Kinkade 1985).'

Footnotes. All footnotes must be typed (with double spacing) on a sheet or series of sheets following the main text. They must never appear on the same sheet with the text.

References. Full citation of literature referred to should be given in a bibliography at the end of each article or review, beginning on a separate page with the heading REFERENCES, and arranged alphabetically by surnames of authors. The format should be consistent with the following examples:

Bloomfield, Leonard. 1933. Language. New York: Holt.

Bolinger, Dwight. 1965. The atomization of meaning. Lg. 41.555–73.

Brugmann, Karl. 1906. Grundriss der vergleichenden Grammatik der indogermanischen Sprachen. 2nd edn., vol. 2, part 1. Strassburg: Trübner.
