CRIMINOLOGY

. . . New and Classic Findings from Wiley

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY
A BOOK OF READINGS, 4TH ED.

Edited by Rose Giallombardo, Boys Town Center for the Study of Youth Development

Here is the "number 1" selling text on juvenile delinquency, now in a completely revised and updated edition. Its 45 selections, by the best known scholars in the field, are organized into five sections: The Data of Delinquency: Problems of Definition and Measurement; Development of Delinquent Behavior; The Empirical Structure of Delinquent Groups; Legal Processing of Delinquency; and Treatment and Prevention. The new edition features a wealth of new material on female delinquency, group delinquency, boundaries between gangs and other youth groups, persistent problems of implementing recent Supreme Court decisions, and implications of the medical model for treatment. (1 08344-5)
Jan. 1982 approx. 600 pp.

CONTEMPORARY CRIMINOLOGY

Leonard D. Savitz, Temple University, and Norman Johnston, Beaver College

This comprehensive and flexible anthology covers most aspects of criminal deviance and its effects. Its wide range of selections encompass many often overlooked areas such as learning disabilities and delinquency, white collar crimes, bystander indifference to street crime, and rules of conduct among criminals. Also explored are newly emerging forms of crime such as computer abuse and credit card crimes. (1 08336-4)
Jan. 1982 approx. 400 pp.

LEGAL PROCESS AND CORRECTIONS

Norman Johnston, Beaver College, and Leonard D. Savitz, Temple University

This state-of-the-art survey offers a wide-ranging selection of the best of research-based and descriptive studies dealing with the police, courts, imprisonment, and efforts to evaluate the effectiveness of various rehabilitation techniques. Compiled by two noted criminologists, its 37 readings offer a broad spectrum of philosophies and strategies. Along with basic problems of administration there is stimulating coverage of current issues such as prison furloughs, undercover police, and alternatives to prison.
(1 08337-2) Jan. 1982 approx. 400 pp.

MARXISM AND LAW

Edited by Piers Beirne, University of Connecticut, Storrs, and Richard Quinney, Boston College

The first and only collection of essays reflecting the resurgence of Marxist analyses of law. This reader brings together the best articles representative of this influential and growing approach, including many entirely new contributions and works by scholars such as Hunt, Rifkin, Grau, Redhead, and Brady. All the central issues of the Marxist sociology of law are discussed, with emphasis on criminal law, law of industrial relations, and constitutional law. The well-organized text includes a helpful introduction as well as competent introductions to all selections. (1 08758-0) Jan. 1982 approx. 550 pp.

H. L. A. Hart

Neil MacCormick. This introduction to the work of H. L. A. Hart, one of the world's most influential legal philosophers, is the first book in a new series, JURISTS: PROFILES IN LEGAL THEORY, devoted to eminent jurists and legal thinkers past and present. Hart is perhaps best known for his powerful philosophical arguments in favor of liberalizing criminal law and applying humane principles to punishment. But as this book demonstrates, he has also made important contributions to analytical jurisprudence, notably by clarifying a number of key terms and concepts used in legal discourse, including the concept of "law" itself. These and other aspects of Hart's thought are analyzed, including his ideas on such topics as legal reasoning, judicial discretion, the social sources of law, the theory of legal rules, and the notion of "obligation." $18.50
