ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In a special way, the authors wish to thank the Rev. Dr. Paul Hanly Furfey, Professor and Head of the Department of Sociology: first, for introducing them to the field of the sociology of language; secondly, for sharing with them his deep scholarship during his generous direction of this study. They are indebted also to Dr. Regina Flannery Herzfeld, Professor and Head of the Department of Anthropology, and Dr. Mary Elizabeth Walsh, Associate Professor of Sociology, for their careful reading of the manuscript and helpful suggestions.

They are particularly grateful to Dr. Kenneth N. Stevens of the Acoustics Laboratory, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Certain phases of the study depended on technical information and the use of special acoustic instruments; Dr. Stevens gave generously of both. Thanks are due also to Daniel A. Santucci and Thomas R. Putnam for other technical assistance and materials.

The authors wish to thank all persons who acted as informants, especially the residents of 'Columbus Court.' Without their gracious co-operation, this study would not have been possible.

Finally, they are indebted to other persons too numerous to mention for the encouragement and helpfulness which aided the progress of this research. They are especially grateful for the stimulating and fruitful years spent in graduate study in the Department of Sociology of the Catholic University of America. Father Putnam wishes to thank his Superior General, the Most Reverend Raymond A. Lane, M.M., D.D., who made these years possible.
