The Inferno

by Dante Alighieri
translated by Anthony Esolen

"Professor Esolen's translation of Dante's Inferno is the best one I have seen, for two reasons. His decision to use unrhymed blank verse allows him to come nearly as close to the meaning of the original as any prose reading could do, and allows him also to avoid the harrowing sacrifices that the demand for rhyme imposes on any translator. And his endnotes and other apparatus provoke answers to almost any question that could arise about the work."
—A. Kent Hieatt, Professor Emeritus,
Yale University

If Not, Winter

Fragments of Sappho
translated by Anne Carson

From the critically acclaimed poet and classicist Anne Carson: a splendid new translation of the work of Sappho, together with the original Greek. In, If Not, Winter, Carson presents all the extant fragments of Sappho's verse, employing brackets and white space to denote missing text—allowing the reader to imagine the poems as they were written. If Not, Winter, gives us an extraordinary ancient poet brought alive by a brilliantly empathic contemporary poet. Complete with Carson's introduction and notes, it will become the standard translation of Sappho for our time.

Sir Gawain and the Green Knight

translated by W.S. Merwin

"Gawain remains, centuries after it was written, a poem of uncanny power. It has the tapestried richness of legend, but also an astonishing psychological complexity. Its lines are elegantly wrought, but they propel us through an adventure filled with erotic entanglements, dire challenges, and mysterious landscapes. Here is that rare poem with both the epic dimensions of ageless myth and the eerie intimacy of last night's dream. The clarity, ingenuity, and force of W. S. Merwin's translation will enable a new generation of readers to discover a remarkable masterpiece."–J. D. McClatchy

The Baburnama

Memoirs of Babur, Prince and Emperor translated, edited, and annotated by Wheeler M. Thackston introduction by Salman Rushdie

The Baburnama presents a vivid and extraordinarily detailed picture of life in Afghanistan, Pakistan, and India during the late-fifteenth and early-sixteenth centuries. Babur's honest and intimate chronicle is the first autobiography in Islamic literature, written at a time when there was no historical precedent for a personal narrative—now in a sparkling new translation by Islamic scholar Wheeler Thackston. This Modern Library Paperback Classics edition includes notes, indices, maps, and illustrations.

Katherine Mansfield

THE KATHERINE MANSFIELD NOTEBOOKS

Complete Edition

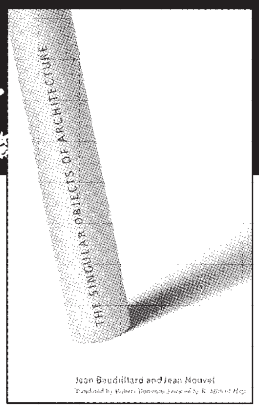

Edited by Margaret Scott

The only unexpurgated collection of Katherine Mansfield's private writings—now available for the first time!

"It is only now, with the publication of Margaret Scott's complete and unselective transcription of the material bequeathed to Murry, that we can really see Mansfield, off her guard and unexpurgated, for the first time. Mansfield's notebooks are remarkable, touched by a sense of the underlying pathos of things, two parts tragedy and two parts comedy." —Times Literary Supplement

IN THE METRO

Translated and with an introduction and afterword by Tom Conley

Tourists climb the Eiffel Tower to see Paris. Parisians know that to really see the city you must descend into the metro. In this revelatory book, Marc Augé takes readers below Paris in a work that is both an ethnography of the city and a personal narrative.

Manuscript Materials

W. B. YEATS

Edited by David Holdeman

This volume presents the surviving manuscripts, typescripts, and early printed texts for all of the poems W. B. Yeats included at one time or another in two remarkably significant and protean collections: In the Seven Woods, first published in 1903, and The Green Helmet and Other Poems, first published in 1910. It also documents the extant early record for seven poems Yeats wrote between 1899 and 1914 but either never published or never attached to one of his plays or collections of poems. 104 illustrations. $65.00

The Words Upon the Window Pane

Manuscript Materials

W. B. YEATS

Edited by Mary FitzGerald

Words upon the Window Pane, first staged in 1930, is W. B. Yeats's most powerful and brilliant dramatic exploration of the occult, in which he had a lifelong interest, and an affirmation of Anglo-Irish Protestant cultural ascendancy. This volume of the Cornell Yeats contains transcriptions and photographic reproductions of the drafts of Words upon the Window Pane, with variant readings from proofs, typescripts, and notebook entries, as well as other materials pertaining to its writing, publication, and performance. 90 illustrations. $55.00

The Land of Heart's Desire

Manuscript Materials

W. B. YEATS

Edited by Jared Curtis

The Land of Heart's Desire, staged at the Avenue Theatre in London in 1894, marks W. B. Yeats's first use of Irish folklore in a play produced in the commercial theater, with important consequences for his career as a dramatist. This book includes transcriptions and photographs of the surviving holograph manuscripts of the play, reproductions of Yeats's own notes and revisions, and other materials related to stage productions and the resulting changes he made to the text. 114 illustrations. $60.00

A Politics of Impossible Difference

The Later Work of Luce Irigaray

PENELOPE DEUTSCHER

The influential philosopher and theorist Luce Irigaray has been faulted for giving more importance to sexual difference than to race and multiculturalism. Penelope Deutscher's eagerly awaited book, the first to focus on the scholar's controversial later works, addresses this charge. Through a learned critique of these lesser-known writings, the book examines Irigaray's claim that the politics of feminism and multiculturalism are intrinsically linked. The volume also serves as a clear and comprehensive introduction to her entire corpus.

Publicity's Secret

How Technoculture Capitalizes on Democracy

JODI DEAN

"At a time when much of the writing about the politics of net culture is glib and epigrammatic, Jodi Dean provides an analysis that is theoretically profound and politically astute. Publicity's Secret is an important and distinctive contribution to thought about the public sphere, democracy, and secrecy."—Michael Shapiro, University of Hawaii.

Political Actors

Representative Bodies and Theatricality in the Age of the French Revolution

PAUL FRIEDLAND

"Friedland has developed a strong and provocative argument about how changes in abstract notions of representation—how one thing stands for another—shaped the emergence of new forms of political thought."—The New Republic.

Mrs. Stanton's Bible

KATHI KERN

A 2001 Choice Magazine "Outstanding Academic Book"

"In 1895, Elizabeth Cady Stanton shocked the nation by releasing the Women's Bible, a commentary on key biblical passages that challenged the notion of women's subordination in any sphere, particularly the church. Yet this incident has been surprisingly understudied by religion scholars and feminists. . . . Kern's book about the Women's Bible is incisive, well written and long overdue." —Publishers Weekly. 13 illustrations. $18.95

How to Read an Oral Poem

JOHN MILES FOLEY

Drawing on dozens of examples, including a North American slam poet, a Tibetan paper-singer, a South African praise-poet, and an ancient Greek bard, Foley shows that although oral poetry long predates the invention of writing, it continues to be a vital culture-making and communications tool in societies all over the world. Enhanced by audio and video examples of oral poetry available at http://www.oraltradition.org, the book can also be used as companion volume to Foley's Teaching Oral Traditions.

Extremities

Trauma, Testimony, and Community

Edited by NANCY K. MILLER and JASON TOUGAW

Extremities combines personal and scholarly approaches to a wide range of texts that bear witness to accounts of individual trauma, including Toni Morrison's Beloved, Sylvia Plath's "Daddy" and Ruth Klüger's memoir Still Alive. Developing insights from autobiography, psychoanalysis, feminist theory and gender studies, the authors demonstrate that testimonies of troubling and taboo subjects transform identities and help reimagine the boundaries of community.

Rendezvous with Death

American Poems of the Great War

Edited by MARK W. VAN WIENEN

"Instead of privileging the figure of the front-line and largely British soldier-poet, Van Wienen supplements the well-known canon of Robert Graves, Wilfred Owen, Isaac Rosenberg, and Siegfried Sassoon with lesser-known but nevertheless widely read American combatants, civilians, and women who wrote passionately on the events of World War I."
