The Portable Bunyan
A Transnational History of The Pilgrim's Progress
Isabel Hofmeyr

How does a book become an international bestseller? What happens to it as it is translated into different languages, contexts, and societies? Exploring the international life of a particularly long-lived and widely traveled book, Isabel Hofmeyr follows The Pilgrim's Progress as it circulates through multiple contexts—and into some 200 languages—focusing on Africa, where 80 of the translations occurred.

"This book forces us to rethink the nature and practice of translation, clearly one of the most important subjects in literary, cultural, and social history today. The scholarship is outstanding; the style is engaging."
—Simon Gikandi, University of Michigan

Hustling Is Not Stealing
Stories of an African Bar Girl
JOHN M. CHERNOFF

"The originality of this work defies categorization. The book speaks insightfully—with humor and verve—to a wide range of important issues. It is intellectually refreshing and a scholarly achievement of the highest order."—Paul Stoller, West Chester University

"Chernoff offers us privileged access to an aspect of Africa that those of us who often visit the continent see but really don't understand. Hawa's story is an intriguing example of a life crafted with wisdom and good humor, seeking freedom in the face of a variety of constraints."—Sheila Walker, University of Texas at Austin

The Steamer Parish
The Rise and Fall of Missionary Medicine on an African Frontier
CHARLES M. GOOD

"With The Steamer Parish, Charles M. Good Jr. presents a more balanced treatment of missionary presence and impact in Africa, making a convincing case that many current critiques of missionaries are misleading and one-sided. Good seems to have no ideological bone to pick and many of the issues he explores are as current today as they were 50 to 100 years ago."

Beyond the Miracle
Inside the New South Africa
ALLISTER SPARKS

In Beyond the Miracle, a distinguished South African journalist provides a wide-ranging and unflinching account of the first nine years of democratic government in South Africa. Covering both the new regime's achievements and its failures, Allister Sparks looks to South Africa's future, asking whether it can overcome its past history and current global trends to create a truly nonracial, multicultural, and multiparty democracy.

Kinshasa in Transition
Women's Education, Employment, and Fertility
DAVID SHAPIRO and B. OLEKO TAMBASHE

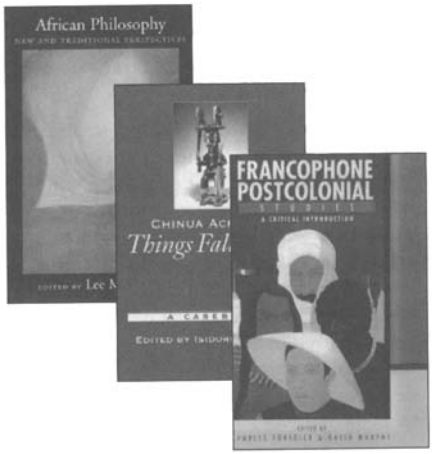

"Based on careful and original research, this book marshals the evidence for concluding that women's education, especially at the secondary level, has been a powerful catalyst for the transition of this population from high to moderate levels of fertility and for investing in the education of the younger generation. . . . The book extends the frontiers of our knowledge in a critical area—the incipient demographic and economic changes emerging in the last decade in Africa—about which relatively little is now known."—T. Paul Schultz, author of Investment in Women's Human Capital

The Rise of Conservation in South Africa

Settlers, Livestock, and the Environment 1770-1950

WILLIAM BEINART

This is a major and innovative contribution to the environmental history of settler societies and of South Africa. The Cape, like Australia, became a major exporter of wool. Vast numbers of sheep flooded its semi-arid plains and rapidly transformed its fragile natural pastures. This book analyzes the development of conservationalist ideas over the long term in South Africa as a response to these problems.

African Philosophy

New and Traditional Perspectives

Edited by LEE M. BROWN

The primary focus of this collection is on traditional African conceptions of topics like mind, person, personal identity, truth, knowledge, understanding, objectivity, destiny, free will, causation, and reality. The essays in this collection ultimately try to bring a more rigorous conception of African philosophy into fruitful contact with Western philosophical concerns, specifically in the philosophies of psychology, mind, science, and language, as well as in metaphysics and epistemology.
