New Journal – SPECIAL OFFER

■ Journal of Politeness Research

Language, Behaviour, Culture

Editor-in-Chief: Chris Christie

WWW.MOUTON-PUBLISHERS.COM

Politeness has interested researchers in fields as diverse as foreign language teaching, developmental psychology, social psychology, sociolinguistics, linguistic pragmatics, social anthropology, business studies, cultural studies, sociology, communication studies and gender studies. The Journal of Politeness Research is the first dedicated, international, multi-disciplinary outlet for original research in politeness phenomena from these diverse fields and beyond.

The Journal of Politeness Research will broaden and sharpen the understanding of the nature of politeness by providing a much-needed forum for synergies to develop between researchers approaching politeness from different disciplinary angles. The journal will also strengthen and widen the existing cross-cultural and intercultural body of politeness research by encouraging new contributions from less studied cultures and languages.

The journal is associated with the work of the international Politeness Research Group whose founding British universities include Leeds, Loughborough, Nottingham, Nottingham Trent, Sheffield Hallam, and York St. John.

New Journal – SPECIAL OFFER

■ Corpus Linguistics and Linguistic Theory

Editors-in-Chief:
Anatol Stefanowitsch and Stefan Th. Gries

Corpus Linguistics and Linguistic Theory is a newly founded, peer-reviewed journal publishing high-quality original corpus-based research focusing on theoretically relevant issues in all core areas of linguistic research (phonology, morphology, syntax, semantics, pragmatics), or other recognized topic areas. It will provide a forum for researchers from different theoretical backgrounds and different areas of interest that share a commitment to the systematic and exhaustive analysis of naturally occurring language. Contributions from all theoretical frameworks are welcome but they should be addressed at a general audience and thus be explicit about their assumptions and discovery procedures and provide sufficient theoretical background to be accessible to researchers from different frame-works.

Corpus Linguistics will publish

- papers that develop new corpus-linguistic methods or extensions of existing methods of interest in the context of linguistic theorizing;
- papers that test or evaluate theoretical claims using corpus data and corpus-linguistic methods;
- papers that offer systematic and detailed analyses of individual linguistic phenomena within a theoretical framework;
- papers that compare corpus data to other kinds of empirical data, such as experimental or questionnaire data;
- critical surveys of relevant areas of research;
- squibs (short notes on theoretical issues, short reports of interesting data, or short replies to or rebuttals of previously published articles);
- reviews of new books, corpora, or software packages.

Studies concerned with language description and studies with an applied focus (for example, in lexicography or language teaching) may be included if they are informed by or have clear relevance to current issues in linguistic theorizing.

INFORMATION FOR CONTRIBUTORS

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

MANUSCRIPTS for publication and exchange JOURNALS should be sent to the Editor of LANGUAGE (Brian D. Joseph, 202 Mount Hall, The Ohio State University, 1050 Carmack Road, Columbus, OH 43210; language@ling.ohio-state.edu). BOOKS for review should be sent to the Review Editor of LANGUAGE (Stanley Dubinsky, Linguistics Program, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208; dubinsky@sc.edu). Manuscripts of articles and reviews should be submitted in THREE ANONYMOUS copies; they will not be returned. An anonymized pdf and/or Word version of the paper should also be sent, either as an e-mail attachment or on a diskette; such electronic submissions are NOT to be sent in place of hard copies, however. Authors should also send a brief (c. 250-word) abstract to language@ling.ohio-state.edu. Normally at least one author of any article or review article submitted to LANGUAGE must be a member of the Society.

Manuscript form. Authors of articles submitted to LANGUAGE are not required to follow the LANGUAGE style sheet in preparing their manuscripts for initial submission to LANGUAGE. There is no restriction on the format of manuscripts, although authors should make their submissions as reader-friendly as possible. Any manuscript, however, that has been accepted for publication as an article will have to be revised so as to conform strictly to the LANGUAGE style sheet. For the complete style sheet, see the December LSA Bulletin, the LANGUAGE web page at www.lsadc.org/language/, or write to the editors.

This policy does not apply to book reviews and book notices. These are all solicited by the Review Editor and they must adhere as closely as possible to the LANGUAGE style sheet on first submission.
