Specialized legal literature dealing with different aspects of international air law is rare, the developments often overtake the existing writings and there is a continuous need not only for updating but also for future-oriented thinking. There is a practical need for a compact – but exhaustive – and easily comprehensible textbook or reference book that deals with the most general aspects of international air law, as well as with the constitutional issues and law-making functions of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO).

This book fills this gap as it is a general treatise of the law of international civil aviation aimed at the needs of university students and educators, government authorities, airlines, practising lawyers, journalists, international organizations and the general public.

Essential Air and Space Law

Series editor: Marietta Benkö

Essential Air and Space Law (EASL) is a book series set up with the aim of establishing a collection of prominent studies in this particular field of law especially for experienced practitioners (e.g. lawyers, policy makers in governments, national and international organisations and private entities), and to scholars involved in the research and study of air traffic and space law.

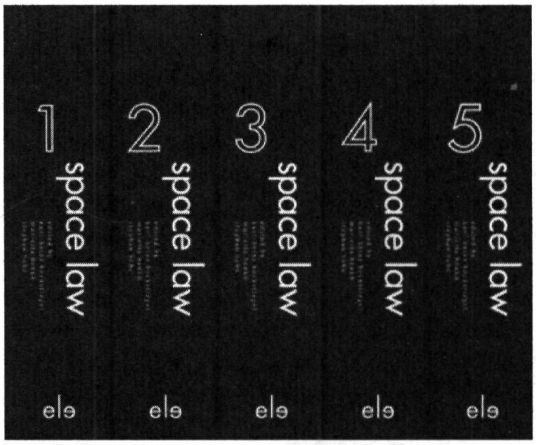

The series is a useful source of information for technical experts that familiarizes its readers with the legal aspects and implications of international air transport (e.g. questions of liability for air traffic accidents, the loss of and damage to air cargo, air traffic control, protection against aircraft noise, etc.), and the exploration or use of outer space (e.g. usage of remote sensing imagery of the Earth for commercial purposes and data protection). Further, questions of disarmament are of vital importance here, involving legal, technical and political aspects.

Authors who are eligible for the series should be experienced practitioners or scholars specialized in these particular fields of law. Although the series is a collection of legal studies we also encourage the submission of interdisciplinary studies that are co-authored by lawyers and technical experts, possibly in cooperation with political scientists and/or disarmament experts. This applies especially to the field of international space law since we believe that the technical aspects of the exploration and use of outer space are equally as important as the legal ones since technical facts constitute the sound basis for any reasonable legal evaluation as well as for practicable regulations in this particular field of high technology.

The New Global Trading Order

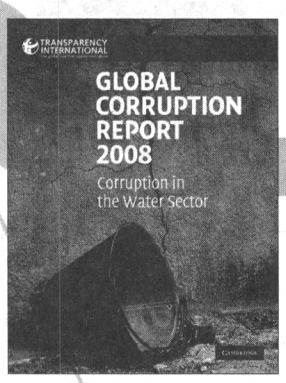

The Evolving State and the Future of Trade

Dennis Patterson and Ari Afilalo

"In this important new book, Patterson and Afilalo address the largely neglected question of how the transformation of the constitutional and international order currently underway will affect the global trade regime. Their striking analysis is as formidable and serious as the question itself."

– Philip Bobbitt, Author of The Shield of Achilles: War, Peace, and the Course of History, Director of the Center for National Security at Columbia University

Global Corruption Report 2008

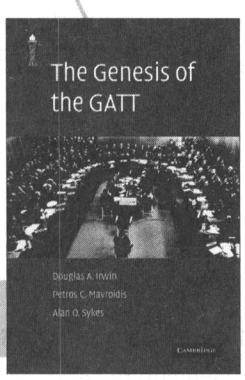

Corruption in the Water Sector

Compiled by Transparency International

Transparency International's Global Corruption Report 2008 demonstrates in its thematic section that corruption is a cause and catalyst for inadequate access to safe drinking water which is likely to be further exacerbated by climate change. Scholars and professionals document the impact of corruption in the sector with case studies from all around the world and offer practical suggestions for reform. The second part of the Report provides a snapshot of corruption-related developments in 35 countries from all world regions. The third part presents summaries of corruption-related research, highlighting innovative methodologies and new empirical findings that help to better understand the dynamics of corruption and devise more effective anti-corruption strategies.

SIXTH EDITION!

International Law

Malcolm Shaw

Malcolm Shaw's engaging and authoritative International Law has become the definitive textbook for instructors and students alike, in this increasingly popular field of academic study. The hallmark writing style provides a stimulating account, motivating students to explore the subject more fully, while maintaining detail and academic rigor. The analysis integrated in the textbook challenges students to develop critical thinking skills. The sixth edition is comprehensively updated throughout and is carefully constructed to reflect current teaching trends and course coverage. The International Court of Justice is now examined in a separate dedicated chapter and there is a new chapter on international criminal law. The detailed references and reliable, consistent commentary which distinguished previous editions remain, making this essential reading for all students of international law whether they are at the undergraduate level, postgraduate level or professional lawyers.

SECOND EDITION!

The Law and Policy of the World Trade Organization

Text, Cases and Materials

Peter Van den Bossche

As the leading student text in the field, this title provides both a detailed examination of the law of the World Trade Organization and a clear introduction to the basic principles and underlying logic of the world trading system. It explores the institutional aspects of the WTO together with the substantive law. New to this edition are examinations of the WTO rules on the protection of intellectual property rights and the rules on technical barriers to trade and sanitary and phytosanitary measures. Assignments are integrated throughout to allow students to assess their understanding, while chapter summaries reinforce learning. Exercises have been included to draw on primary sources and real-life trade scenarios, enabling students to hone their practical and analytical skills. The title is an essential tool for any student of the WTO, at either undergraduate or postgraduate level. Practicing lawyers and policy-makers who are looking for an introduction to WTO law will also find this title invaluable.

Bilateral and Regional Trade Agreements

Case Studies

Simon Lester and Bryan Mercurio

This book is the first to provide a comprehensive study of the recent bilateral and regional trade agreements. There are two main aspects, firstly, it surveys the most important recent agreements in relation to each substantive topic covered (e.g. intellectual property, investment, services, and social policy) and providing an overview of the law being created in these areas. Secondly, it situates bilateral and regional trade agreements in their context, in terms of economics, international law and international relations. Case studies of many of the most important trade agreements are included to provide background on the negotiations and the key issues involved.

International Criminal Law Practitioner Library
Volume 2 - Elements of Crimes under International Law
Gideon Boas, James L. Bischoff and Natalie L. Reid

Volume 2 of the International Criminal Law Practitioner Library series focuses on the core categories of international crimes: crimes against humanity, genocide, and war crimes. The authors present a comprehensive and critical review of the law on the elements of these crimes and their underlying offenses, and examine how they interact with the forms of responsibility discussed in Volume 1. They also consider the effect of the focus in early ICTY and ICTR proceedings on relatively low-level accused for the development of legal definitions that are sometimes ill-suited for leadership cases, where the accused had little or no physical involvement in the crimes. The book's main focus is the jurisprudence of the ad hoc Tribunals, but the approaches of the ICC and the various hybrid tribunals are also given significant attention. The relevant jurisprudence up to 1 December 2007 has been surveyed, making this a highly useful and timely work.

Human Rights and International Legal Discourse is a peer-reviewed law journal that encourages the critical study of the increasing influence of human rights law on international legal discourse. In addition to traditional international public law, the journal aims to focus on the interaction of human rights law with specific domains of international law, including international development law, international environmental law, international criminal law, international labour law, and international trade law. The journal places special emphasis on promoting a north-south dialogue .

- Contemporary Issues in International Arbitration and Mediation: The Fordham Papers, 1

These are the 2007 Fordham Papers, the first annual volume of papers on international arbitration and mediation written by leading figures in these fields who spoke at the 2007 annual conference on international arbitration and mediation held at the Fordham Law School in New York City. The five chapters of 23 papers address current issues of international arbitration, including investor-state arbitration, the conduct of international arbitration and jurisdictional issues, remedies and defenses, recent developments in arbitrator disclosure law and practice, and international mediation, including ethics, training, process, and growth of mediation. The papers focus on both practical considerations and scholarly analyses.

The Reasons Requirement in International Investment Arbitration: Critical Case Studies

Edited by Guillermo Aguilar Alvarez and W. Michael Reisman

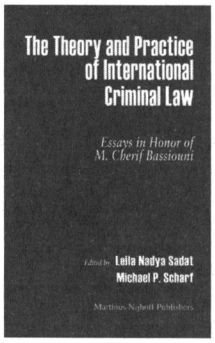

- July 2008
- ISBN 978 90 04 16632 5
- Hardback (364 pp., 1 vols.)
- List price EUR 149.- / US$ 149.-

This collection of essays emerged from a seminar on international investment law taught jointly by the editors at the Yale Law School. The participants brought a wealth of experience and, just as importantly for a subject like this, a rich national diversity. A considerable part of the seminar involved close reading of recent international investment arbitral awards.

The Theory and Practice of International Criminal Law

- Hardback (476 pp.)
- List price EUR 125.- / US$ 145.-

Cherif Bassiouni is often referred to as "the father of international criminal law." Every major international criminal law instrument developed in the last forty years, from the Torture Convention to the Statute of the International Criminal Court, bears his hallmark. His writings, diplomatic initiatives, fieldwork, and even litigation have made an unparalleled contribution to the emergence of international criminal law as a distinct discipline within the field of international law.

Reconciling Environment and Trade
Second Edition

Edited by Edith Brown Weiss, John H. Jackson and Nathalie Bernasconi-Osterwalder

- April 2008
- ISBN 978 1 5710 5370 1
- Hardback (722 pp.)
- List price EUR 145.- / US$ 145.-

The volume focuses on five cases, all of which remain cornerstone trade-environment cases of the WTO. The subject matter of these cases reflects five basic issues in the clash between trade and the environment: public health, air pollution/ozone depletion, food safety, destruction of endangered species, and biosafety. These five issues surface dramatically in international disputes over tobacco, reformulated gasoline, beef growth hormones, commercial fishing methods, and genetically modified organisms.

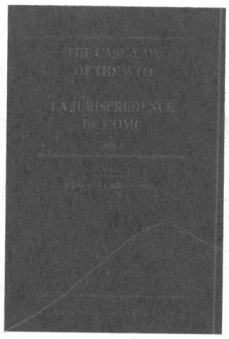

The UNIDROIT Principles of International Commercial Contracts: A Governing Law?

David Oser

- July 2008
- ISBN 978 90 04 16789 6
- Hardback (202 pp.)
- List price EUR 85.- / US$ 136.-

The UNIDROIT Principles are a restatement of the law applicable to international commercial contracts that have been developed on the basis of an innovative comparison of the leading contract laws. As such, their authority rests on the standing of UNIDROIT, the institution responsible for their preparation, and on the quality of the rules they propose. This book provides a comprehensive in-depth analysis of the foundations of, and justifications for, the application of the UNIDROIT Principles. Its conclusion – that the UNIDROIT Principles may constitute a true governing law to be recognized by arbitral tribunals and domestic courts alike – will further contribute to the worldwide success of the UNIDROIT Principles.

- Hardback (vi, 642 pp.)
- List price EUR 320.- / US$ 477.-
- The Case-Law of the WTO / La jurisprudence de l'OMC, 5

This unique series offers the reader a comprehensive, bilingual analysis on a case-by-case basis of the jurisprudence of the WTO. Each case study contains a synopsis and details of the case in question and important bibliographical references. These are followed by a summary of the facts and procedure, claims of the parties, findings of the panel, issues raised in the appeal, conclusions of the appellate body and scholarly observations. Each case is analyzed by a different scholar in the field, to ensure that the series involves the widest range of (English and French speaking) scholars and practitioners.
This approach to the case-law gives the reader a complete and objective account of the reasoning of the dispute resolution mechanism, including numerous quotes (in italics when they are extracted from the case in question, for ease of reference), while at the same time offering a critical perspective, which analyses the reasoning adopted and places it in a global perspective.

ASIL
The American Society of International Law

Now Available!

Proceedings of the 101st Annual Meeting

The latest ASIL Proceedings is now available for purchase. The ASIL Proceedings form a record of the Society's Annual Meetings, the first one having been held in 1907. At these events, scholars, practitioners, and experts in international law and relations gather to discuss and present research papers on the latest developments world-wide in such areas as trade, development, human rights, international organizations, the environment, law of the sea, use of force, international tribunals, and so on. Also included are speeches given by U.S. government and international officials, who often use the occasion of the ASIL Annual Meeting to make major policy statements.

The Proceedings of the 101st Annual Meeting are available to ASIL domestic members for $105, domestic non-members for $115, international members for $115, international non-members for $125

INTERNATIONAL LAW:
100 WAYS
IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

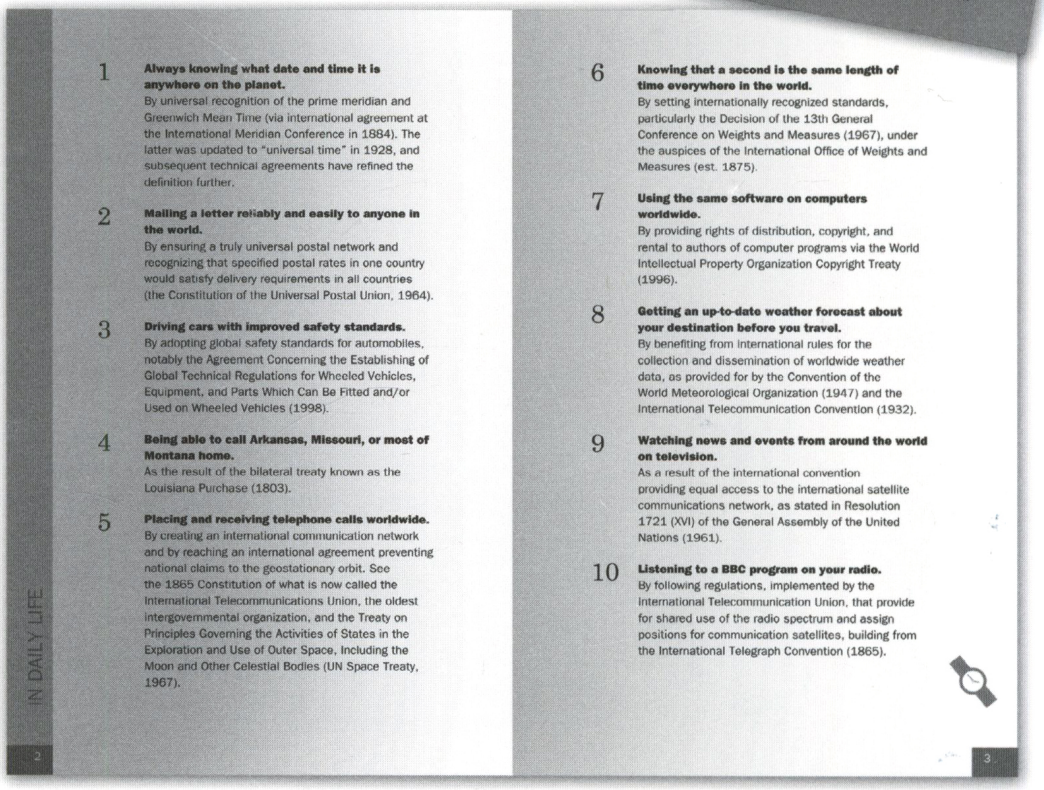

Many find international law abstract and static. Topics such as war and peace or relationships between countries are considered by some to be not so much questions of law, but of power and influence. Others question the existence of international law.

International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives was conceived from the proposition that international law not only exists, but also penetrates more deeply and broadly into everyday life than is generally recognized. Some ways are of relatively recent vintage, while others are long-standing. 100 examples were identified by ASIL members, vetted by a smaller group of experts, and organized into seven chapters: 1) daily life; 2) leisure; 3) travel; 4) commerce 5) health and the environment; 6) personal liberty; 7) public safety and global security.

Join us in demonstrating how international law shapes our lives by

- Visiting 100 Ways at http://www.asil100.org/ways.html;
- Using it in teaching and general civic education programs;
- Adding ways to the list; and
- Sharing your experiences using International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives.

We hope that this creative and interactive project will help demonstrate the diversity and the centrality of international law to our lives today.

IN DAILY LIFE

1 Always knowing what date and time it is anywhere on the planet.
By universal recognition of the prime meridian and Greenwich Mean Time (via international agreement at the International Meridian Conference in 1884). The latter was updated to "universal time" in 1928, and subsequent technical agreements have refined the definition further.

2 Mailing a letter reliably and easily to anyone in the world.
By ensuring a truly universal postal network and recognizing that specified postal rates in one country would satisfy delivery requirements in all countries (the Constitution of the Universal Postal Union, 1964).

3 Driving cars with improved safety standards.
By adopting global safety standards for automobiles, notably the Agreement Concerning the Establishing of Global Technical Regulations for Wheeled Vehicles, Equipment, and Parts Which Can Be Fitted and/or Used on Wheeled Vehicles (1998).

4 Being able to call Arkansas, Missouri, or most of Montana home.
As the result of the bilateral treaty known as the Louisiana Purchase (1803).

5 Placing and receiving telephone calls worldwide.
By creating an international communication network and by reaching an international agreement preventing national claims to the geostationary orbit. See the 1865 Constitution of what is now called the International Telecommunications Union, the oldest intergovernmental organization, and the Treaty on Principles Governing the Activities of States in the Exploration and Use of Outer Space, Including the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies (UN Space Treaty, 1967).

6 Knowing that a second is the same length of time everywhere in the world.
By setting internationally recognized standards, particularly the Decision of the 13th General Conference on Weights and Measures (1967), under the auspices of the International Office of Weights and Measures (est. 1875).

7 Using the same software on computers worldwide.
By providing rights of distribution, copyright, and rental to authors of computer programs via the World Intellectual Property Organization Copyright Treaty (1996).

8 Getting an up-to-date weather forecast about your destination before you travel.
By benefiting from international rules for the collection and dissemination of worldwide weather data, as provided for by the Convention of the World Meteorological Organization (1947) and the International Telecommunication Convention (1932).

9 Watching news and events from around the world on television.
As a result of the international convention providing equal access to the international satellite communications network, as stated in Resolution 1721 (XVI) of the General Assembly of the United Nations (1961).

10 Listening to a BBC program on your radio.
By following regulations, implemented by the International Telecommunication Union, that provide for shared use of the radio spectrum and assign positions for communication satellites, building from the International Telegraph Convention (1865).
