APSA Small Research Grant Program Announces Recipients

APSA is pleased to announce the recipients of the 2003 Small Research Grant Competition. This year, awards averaging $2,000 went to 12 scholars. The Small Research Grant Program supports research in all fields of political science. The intent of these grants is to support research of political scientists who are not employed at Ph.D.-granting institutions. For more information on the program and application procedures, please visit our web site at <www.apsanet.org/opps/apsagrants.cfm>.

Peter Burns, Loyola University, New Orleans, "State Government, Urban Regimes, and the Politics Behind State Takeovers of Urban Education."

Jeffrey Lewis, Oklahoma State University, "The Socialization of Central and Eastern European Member-States to the Organizational Culture of European Union Decision-Making."

Anne Marie Choup, Mills College, "The Dynamic of Social Identities within Civic Associations: An Opportunity For Democracy."

Baodong Liu, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh, "Getting the White Votes."

Terry D. Clark, Creighton University, "Presidentialism and the Effect of Electoral Law: Regime Type Matters."

M. Anne Pitcher, Colgate University, "The Political Economy of Neoliberal Reform: A Comparative Study of Four African Countries."

Kevin C. Dunn, Hobart and William Smith Colleges, "Human Society, Development, and the National Parks of Uganda and Rwanda."

Matthew Potoski, Iowa State University, "Congressional Parties and Campaign Finance: Improving Democratic Performance."

Cora Sol Goldstein, California State University, Long Beach, "State-Building Campaigns and Democratic Deficit: The American Occupation of Germany and the Issue of Race."

Diane-Michele Prindeville, New Mexico State University, "A Comparative Study of Women's Political Participation in Traditional and Ira-Style Tribal Governments."

Jay Goodliffe, Brigham Young University, "Explaining the Relationship Between Candidate Spending and Votes."

Sarah Elise Wiliarty, Wesleyan University, "Party Organization and Policy Making: Women's Auxiliary Organizations in Christian Democratic Parties."

https://doi.org/10.1017/S1049096503002968 Published online by Cambridge University Press