NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Peter Davidson holds the Chair of Renaissance Studies in the University of Aberdeen where he is Scholar Keeper of the University's Collections. His most recent monograph is The Universal Baroque (Manchester, 2007) and he is coordinating the forthcoming published description of the Library Collections of the University. (University of Aberdeen, King's College, Aberdeen AB24 3FX)

Rev. Stewart Foster is Archivist of the Diocese of Brentwood and author of A History of the Diocese of Brentwood 1917–1992 (1994). He has also written a number of articles on Bernard Ward, including one in Victorian Churches and Churchmen (2005), the festschrift for Professor Alan McClelland. (Brentwood Diocesan Archives, Cathedral House, Ingrave Road, Brentwood, Essex CM15 8AT)

Anne Barbeau Gardiner is Professor Emerita in the Department of English, John Jay College, City University of New York. Her publications include The Intellectual Design of John Dryden's Heroic Plays (Yale, 1970) and Ancient Faith and Modern Freedom in John Dryden's The Hind and the Panther (CUAP, 1998), in addition to numerous essays on Dryden, Swift, and Milton. She is a regular contributor to the Catholic periodicals, The New Oxford Review (California) and Latin Mass. (5, Ferndale Road, Brewster, New York 10509 5621, USA)

Sr. Patricia Harriss C.J. entered what is now the Congregation of Jesus in 1959. After some years of teaching in the Congregation's schools in York and Cambridge, and in adult religious education in the Dioceses of Leeds and East Anglia, she spent two years working with the sisters in Slovakia, nearly ten years based in Rome as the English Assistant to the General Superior, and a year helping to start a new community in South Russia, before returning to England in 2004. Since then she has been working on the history of Mary Ward and the later development of the Congregation. (49, Fitzjohn's Avenue, Hampstead, London, NW3 6PG)

Alexander Lock is currently a Ph.D. student in the School of History at the University of Leeds. His thesis, funded by the Arts and Humanities Research Council, focuses upon the life and networks of the eighteenth-century Yorkshire based baronet Sir Thomas Gascoigne (1745–1810). His published work, based upon this research, has also appeared in the journal Northern History. (School of History, University of Leeds, Leeds, LS2 9JT)

Race Mathews is a former Australian MP, cabinet minister and academic. A revised version of his PhD thesis on the history of Distributism was published in 1999 as Jobs of Our Own: Building a Stakeholder Society, https://doi.org/10.1017/S003419320001284X Published online by Cambridge University Press and has recently been re-issued in a new US edition by the Distributist Review Press. He is currently working on a Doctorate of Theology thesis with the working title of 'Manning's Children: Responses to Rerum Novarum in Australia 1891–1966'. (123, Alexandra Terrace, South Yarra, Victoria, 3141, Australia)

Rev. John Sharp, currently parish priest of Baddesley Clinton, Warwickshire, and archivist of the Archdiocese of Birmingham, is the author of Reapers of the Harvest, a history of the Redemptorist Congregation in nineteenth-century Britain and Ireland. (Birmingham Archdiocesan Archives, Cathedral House, St. Chad's, Queensway, Birmingham, B4 6EU)

Alison Shell teaches in the Department of English at University College London. She is the author of Catholicism, Controversy and the English Literary Imagination, 1557–1660 (1999), Oral Culture and Catholicism in Early Modern England (2007) and the forthcoming Shakespeare and Religion. (Department of English Language and Literature, University College London, Gower Street, London WC1E 6BT)

https://doi.org/10.1017/S003419320001284X Published online by Cambridge University Press