CONTRIBUTORS

Erick D. Langer is director of the Center for Latin American Studies and professor of History in the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University. He is author and co-author of various books, of which the most recent is Expecting Pears from an Elm Tree: A History of the Franciscan Missions Among the Chiriguanos in the Heart of South America (2009). He is also editor-in-chief of the online database World Scholar: Latin America and the Caribbean.

Nora E. Jaffary is associate professor of History at Concordia University in Montreal. She is the author of False Mystics: Deviant Orthodoxy in Colonial Mexico (2004) and editor of Mexican History: A Primary Source Reader (2010) and Gender, Race, and Religion in the Colonization of the Americas (2007). She is writing a history of birth and birth control in eighteenth-and nineteenth-century Mexico.

Dalia Antonia Muller is assistant professor of History at the State University of New York at Buffalo and associate director of the university's graduate program in Caribbean studies. Her research focuses on travel, exile, and immigration in the nineteenth- and twentieth- century greater Caribbean, an area she defines to include the insular Caribbean and the Central, South American, and United States coastlines, along with the diasporic communities. She is completing her first book project, which examines the impact of the Cuban independence struggle in nineteenth-century Mexico.

Edward Wright-Ríos is associate professor of Latin American History at Vanderbilt University. He has published articles and essays on religion, Indian-centered nationalism, and ecclesiastical reform and popular religious practice. In 2009 he published Revolutions in Mexican Catholicism: Reform and Revelation, 1887–1934. His second book, in progress, examines the cultural legacy of an apocryphal Mexican prophetess named madre Matiana, from the 1850s to the 1960s.

THE ACADEMY OF AMERICAN FRANCISCAN HISTORY DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIP

The Academy of American Franciscan History is accepting applications for four dissertation fellowships, each worth $10,000. As many as two of these fellowships will be awarded for projects dealing with some aspect of the history of the Franciscan Family in Latin America, including the United States Borderlands, Mexico, Central and South America. Up to another two fellowships will be awarded to support projects dealing with some aspect of the history of the Franciscan Family in the rest of the United States and Canada.

Projects may deal with any aspect of the history of the Franciscan Family, including any of the branches of the Family, male, female, tertiary, Capuchin, etc. The projects will be evaluated by a selected group of scholars who will make recommendations to the Board of Directors of the Academy. The recipient must be engaged in full-time research during the period of the fellowship. The applicant must be a doctoral candidate at a University in the Americas, and the bulk of the research should be conducted in the Americas.

To apply for a fellowship, please provide a 10-page abstract of the proposed research. This abstract should include the title and principle arguments of the dissertation, a research plan, listing repositories where the research will be conducted, and a timetable outlining all phases of the research up to and including the conclusion and successful defense of the dissertation. The applicant must also provide three letters of support for the project, one of which must be from the chairman of the dissertation committee/major advisor. The deadline for applications will be February 1, 2012. Awards will be announced in April, and may begin as early as May.

As a condition of the fellowship award, the Academy will reserve the right of first refusal to publish any work funded under the provision of this program. The Academy has a fifty-year history of publishing works dealing with the history of the Franciscan Family in the Americas. Any royalties or other considerations resulting from publication will be separate and distinct from the dissertation fellowship.
