DOING OUR OWN THING

The Degradation of Language and Music and Why We Should, Like, Care

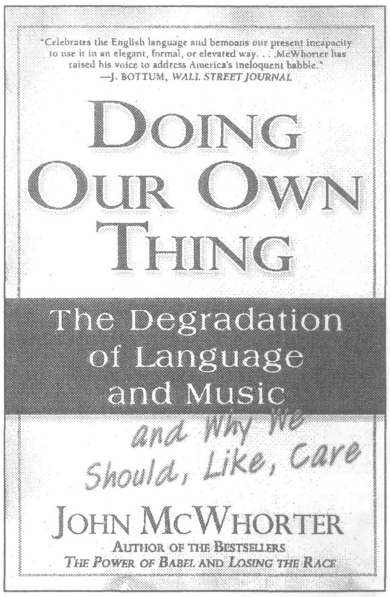

JOHN McWHORTER

"Celebrates the English language and bemoans our present incapacity to use it in an elegant, formal, or elevated way...McWhorter has raised his voice to address America's babble."—The Wall Street Journal

"McWhorter is in a long and honorable tradition of dissent, one composed of both liberal and conservative strains." —The Washington Post

"Illustrated with...examples from both high and low culture, the trend that Mr. McWhorter documents is unmistakable." —The Economist

Critically acclaimed linguist John McWhorter explores the triumph of casual over formal speech and its effect on Americans' ability to write, read, critique, argue, and imagine. He contends that "our increasing alienation from 'written language' signals a gutting of our intellectual powers, our self-regard as a nation, and thus our very substance as a people."

EXPERIMENTAL PRAGMATICS

Edited by Ira A. Noveck and Dan Sperber

How does our knowledge of the language on the one hand, and of the context on the other, permit us to understand what we are told, to resolve ambiguities, to grasp both explicit and implicit content, to appreciate metaphor and irony? These issues have been studied in two disciplines: linguistic pragmatics and psycholinguistics, with only limited interactions between the two. This volume lays down the foundation for a new field: Experimental Pragmatics.
