The New Penguin Book of ENGLISH VERSE

Edited by Paul Keegan

This revolutionary collection abandons the traditional poet-by-poet approach of most anthologies, presenting seven centuries of English verse as an uninterrupted sequence of poems ordered according to their first individual appearance in the language. The result is a more continuous view of English verse that reveals a fascinating new chronology.

Penguin 1,200 pp. 0-14-058671-7 $18.00

"My favorite book of the year....One would not have dared hope that an anthology could be so thrilling."

—Nicholas Lezard, The Guardian (Books of the Year)

"Enjoyable reading for those who work with words."
—J. P. Burton, West Chester University of Pennsylvania, for Choice

The Penguin Dictionary of American English Usage and Style

PAUL W. LOVINGER

"What Strunk and White did for writing style, and Fowler for the King's English—Paul W. Lovinger's encyclopedic The Penguin Dictionary Of American English Usage And Style provides the modern guide to sensible and correct usage for almost every conceivable modern uncertainty from 'A-An' to 'Zero In,' with 'like-as' and 'who-whom' in between.... this dictionary belongs in every newsroom, editing office, and reference shelf."
—Ben H. Bagdikian, former dean of the Graduate School of Journalism, UC Berkeley.

THE INFERNO

DANTE

Translated by Robert Hollander & Jean Hollander

The new standard in English of this essential work of world literature

Anchor Trade Paperback | 736 pages
$16.95 ($25.95 Canada)

"Probably the most finely accomplished [translation] and may well prove the most enduring. . . . The annotation . . . is crowded with useful insights and bits of information and keeps us abreast of scholarly opinion across the ages." —R.W.B. Lewis, Los Angeles Times Book Review

"This new version of Dante's Inferno, by an internationally famous Dante scholar and his wife, the poet Jean Hollander, is accompanied by a detailed, brilliant commentary that is itself worth the price of the volume." —Bernard Knox, New York Review of Books

"A distinguished act of poetry and scholarship in one and the same breath, the Hollander Dante, among the strong translations of the poet, deserves to takes its own honored place." —Robert Fagles

"The most accessible and the closest to the Italian . . . with ample commentary easily and unobtrusively available at the end of each Canto." —Tim Parks, The New Yorker

Featuring the original Italian opposite the translation, this edition also offers an extensive and accessible introduction and generous commentaries, which draw on centuries of scholarship as well as Robert Hollander's own decades of teaching and research.

The Woman and the Hour
Harriet Martineau and Victorian Ideologies

Caroline Roberts
264 pp • Cloth 0802035965 $50.00
Available May 2002

Using meticulous archival research of periodical reviews, Roberts situates Martineau's writings in their historical context and presents a sophisticated analysis of their hostile reception.

Romances of the Archive in Contemporary British Fiction

Suzanne Keen
320 pp • Cloth 0802035892 $60.00

A detailed examination of the growing genre of British fiction featuring archives and archival research, from A.S. Byatt's Booker Prize–winning Possession to the paperback thrillers of popular novelists.

Indexers and Indexes in Fact and Fiction

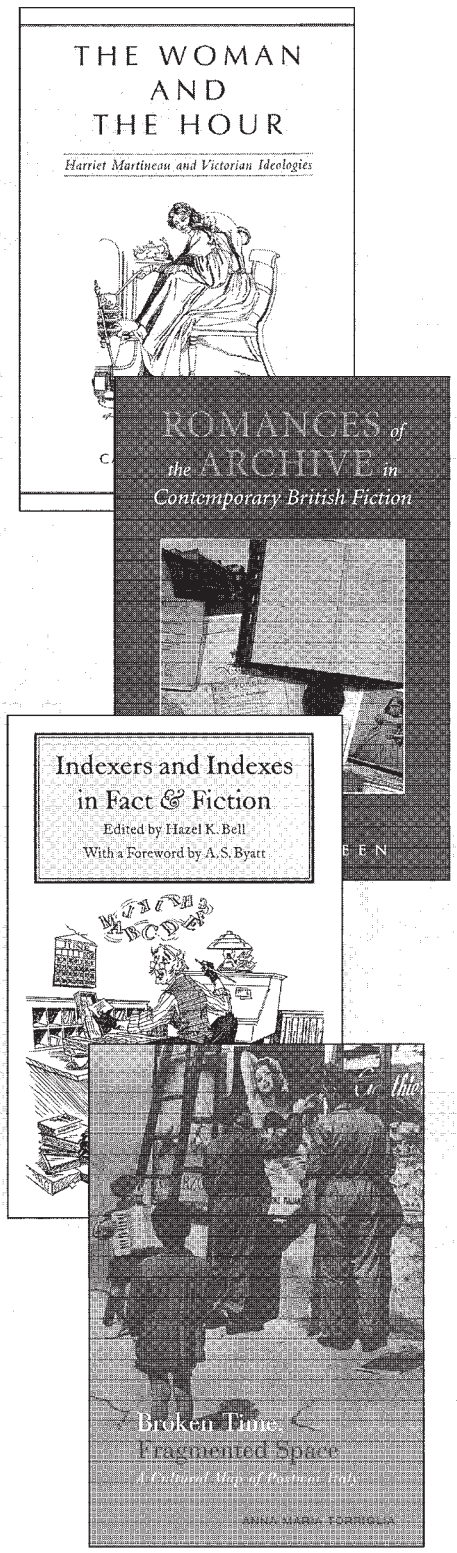

Hazel Bell. Introduction by A.S. Byatt
160 pp • Paper 0080208494X $22.95

The history of the index and the depiction of the indexer (from diffident drudge to frankly insane) in both fact and fiction. A fascinating and often amusing look at a previously little-considered element of the book.

Broken Time, Fragmented Space
A Cultural Map for Post-War Italy

Anna Maria Torriglia
272 pp • Cloth 080203604X $45.00

Artists and intellectuals of post-war Italy dealt with the 'shameful' heritage of fascism by trying to craft a new cultural identity for themselves and the country, creating an uncomfortable, sometimes schizophrenic, relation to time as a painful urge to erase the past.

AlterNatives
Black Feminism in the Postimperial Nation

RANU SAMANTRAI

"A major work of cultural analysis, this book analyzes the black women's movement in Britain. It also engages such major questions as the oftentimes competitive relationship between race and gender and how to resist unjust social relations without imposing an equally oppressive hierarchical system."

—Indira Karamcheti, Wesleyan University

$19.95 paper $49.50 cloth

Mixed Race Literature

Edited by JONATHAN BRENNAN

This collection presents the first scholarly attempt to map the rapidly emerging field of mixed-race literature, defined as texts written by authors who represent multiple cultural and literary traditions. It also situates these literatures in relation to contemporary fields of literary inquiry.

$21.95 paper $49.50 cloth

Speaking Volumes
Women, Reading, and Speech in the Age of Austen

PATRICIA HOWELL MICHAELSON

An interdisciplinary study of women and language in England in the late 18th and early 19th centuries, this book focuses on the connections that contemporaries made between speech and reading, studies the period's discourses on "woman's language" and their contrasts to the linguistic practices of individual women, and argues for the importance of oral performance of literature for women's development.

Charles W. Chesnutt: Essays and Speeches

Edited by JOSEPH R. MCELRATH, JR., ROBERT C. LEITZ, III, and JESSE S. CRISLER

Charles W. Chesnutt (1858-1932) has been considered by many the major African-American fiction writer before the Harlem Renaissance. This book collects essays he wrote from 1899 through 1931, and political and literary addresses he made to both white and black audiences from 1881 through 1931.

"The present volume is an invaluable addition to the growing body of work concerning this African-American literary pioneer. . . . Until now these pieces were almost completely inaccessible."

EDWARD S. CASEY
Representing Place
Landscape Painting and Maps

How maps and paintings figure and reconfigure space—as well as our place in it—is the subject of Edward S. Casey's ambitious study, an exploration of how we portray the world and its many places.

FRANCE MORIN, EDITOR
Heavenly Visions
Shaker Gift Drawings and Gift Songs

During the spiritual revival known as "Mother Ann's Work" or the "Era of Manifestations" (1837-1850), Shakers throughout the eastern United States experienced instances of intense communion, believing they served as instruments for heavenly spirits. Moved by a dream state or ecstatic possession, these (mostly) women and girls perceived images, songs, and texts that were recorded in writing, drawing, or a combination of both.

ALAN DALE
Comedy Is a Man in Trouble
Slapstick in American Movies

"Dale seasons his weightier theories about slapstick in film with engaging opinions and witty asides. Dale tackles many of the great film comedians, from Charlie Chaplin to Jim Carrey. His seemingly encyclopedic knowledge, back to the most obscure silent films, produces admirable close readings." —Ted Loos, New York Times Book Review

SARAH BERRY
Screen Style
Fashion and Femininity in 1930s Hollywood

"In Sarah Berry's lavishly illustrated study of the relationship between Hollywood fashion and women's identity in 1930s America, she laudably seeks a nuanced point of view about the social impact of the heyday of on-screen glamour. Berry's study is valuable for its knowledgeable, indeed encyclopedic, grasp of the films of the studio system era and for its refusal to speak reductively of Hollywood's extravagant emphasis on the style of its female stars." —Film Quarterly

YI-FU TUAN
Dear Colleague
Common and Uncommon Observations

"Maybe the most influential scholar you've never heard of" was how a feature article in The Chronicle of Higher Education recently described Yi-Fu Tuan, a widely traveled Chinese-American geographer whose letters to his friends and colleagues, distilling observations, ideas, and experiences, have carried Tuan's insights, and his reputation, far beyond his chosen field. Here is the long-awaited collection of highlights from these renowned letters.

JOHN BALE
Imagined Olympians
Body Culture and Colonial Representation in Rwanda

Bale explores the colonial representation of gusimbuka, widely described as Tutsi high jumping, revealing the Tutsi sportsman and prospective Olympian as an invention with broad implications for understanding the workings of the Western gaze.

GEOFFREY A. HALE
Kierkegaard and the Ends of Language

Insisting that Kierkegaard remains a far more enigmatic and paradoxical writer than is often assumed, Geoffrey Hale argues that the best way to approach Kierkegaard's work and understand its significance for our own thought is to retrace its formative influence on major intellectuals of the early twentieth century.

The Student Body

Short Stories about College Students and Professors

Edited by John McNally

Whether it's a love affair with learning or with a professor, campus intrigue or political incorrectness, jockeying for tenure or teaching jocks, it's all a part of the college experience, as it's celebrated, satirized, or ruefully told in this collection of stories by such well-known writers as Stephen King, Marly Swick, and Richard Russo, and some of the most promising new voices in contemporary fiction.
Pa. $16.95

Reimagining Textuality

Textual Studies in the Late Age of Print

Edited by Elizabeth Bergmann Loizeaux and Neil Fraistat

"A terrific collection. By asking the contributors to 'reimagine textuality' from their own perspectives, the editors set out to reimagine the methods, objects, and goals of textual scholarship. They have succeeded admirably, producing what promises to be a standard work in its field, one that deserves to push textual studies into the mainstream of humanistic scholarship."—Michael Groden, University of Western Ontario • Cl. $55.00, Pa. $24.95

Hearing the Measures

Shakespearean and Other Inflections

George T. Wright

When we listen to the words of a poet in the theater, or read them silently on the page, what is it that we hear? How do such crafty writers as Shakespeare or Donne, Wyatt or Yeats, Wordsworth or Lowell arrange their rhythms to make their poetry more expressive? A gathering of perceptive essays written over twenty-five years, this book by a distinguished scholar and poet helps us hear the measures poets use to conjure up strangeness, urgency, distance, surprise, the immediacy of speech, or the sounding of silence. • Cl. $60.00, Pa. $24.95
