PUBLICATIONS
of the
Linguistic Society of America

LANGUAGE

The journal of the Linguistic Society of America is issued four times a year: January–March, April–June, July–September, and October–December. The journal carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists. The right to submit contributions to the Editor of LANGUAGE is reserved to members of the Linguistic Society.

As Supplements to LANGUAGE, the Linguistic Society of America issues two series of occasional publications, LANGUAGE MONOGRAPHS and LANGUAGE DISSERTATIONS. These are included in the subscription price of the journal, but may also be purchased separately. A complete list of titles and prices may be secured from the Secretary of the Society.

LANGUAGE MONOGRAPHS

In this series the Society publishes independently subsidized studies too long to appear as articles or otherwise unsuitable for publication in the journal.

LANGUAGE DISSERTATIONS

In this series the Society publishes independently subsidized studies which have been accepted by American or foreign universities as doctoral dissertations, provided only that they treat linguistic problems. The Society assumes no responsibility for the scholarly merit of these dissertations.

The method of application for admission to either of these two series, and the terms of publication, may be secured from the Secretary of the Society

---

SPECIAL PUBLICATION

In addition to its regular publications (the journal LANGUAGE and the two series of Supplements named above) the Linguistic Society of America issues from time to time SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS in the field of linguistic science. These are not included in the subscription price of the journal, but may be purchased at a discount by members of the Society.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850760090279 Published online by Cambridge University Press