Sprachstadium und Sprachsystem

Umrisse einer Sprachtheorie

by Hans-Heinrich Lieb Reader
in General Linguistics
in the University of Köln

1970. about 340 pages.
Paperback
DM 56.– ($ 16.25)

Assuming the point of view of a comprehensive theory of language based on a theory of communication, the author concentrates on the variability of natural languages, in particular, on the problem of interrelating their temporal and systematic aspects. After a critical evaluation of previous literature since de Saussure (= Part A), he sets out to develop a formal axiomatic theory (Part B and C), which is based on a theory of physical time and serves to explicate central concepts such as "stage" for languages and similar entities. Part C is largely devoted to a study of the "problem of abstraction". The position of transformational grammar with regard to "competence" and "speaker" is made explicit and criticized in detail. By developing key concepts of linguistics in a systematic way the author is aiming at a theory of language which, among other things, would be helpful for solving foundational problems in related disciplines.

PUBLICATIONS

of the

Linguistic Society of America

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

As supplements to LANGUAGE, the Linguistic Society of America issues a series of occasional publications, LANGUAGE MONOGRAPHS. These are included in the subscription price of the journal, but may also be purchased separately. In the LANGUAGE MONOGRAPH series, the Society publishes independently subsidized studies which are too long to appear as articles or are otherwise unsuitable for publication in the journal. The method of application for admission to this series of supplements, and the terms of publication, may be secured from the Secretary of the Society.

SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS in the field of linguistic science are issued by the Society from time to time. These are not included in the subscription price of the journal.

MEETING HANDBOOKS, which contain program listings and abstracts of papers presented at LSA Annual Meetings, 1965 through 1969, may also be purchased separately.

A list of publications in print is available from the Secretary of the Society. Current prices for LANGUAGE are as follows: Complete volume 43, $8.00; volume 45 onward, $16.00; single numbers currently in print from volumes 39–44, $3.00; volume 45 onward, $6.00. Reprint editions of volumes 1–38 of LANGUAGE, Monographs 1–21, and Dissertations 1–52 are available from Kraus Reprint Corporation, 16 East 46th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017, and a price list can be obtained from that address.
