THE SOCIETY FOR THE PROMOTION OF HELLENIC STUDIES

SENATE HOUSE, MALET STREET, LONDON WC1E 7HU

The Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies was founded in 1879 to advance the study of Greek language, literature, history, art and archaeology in the ancient, Byzantine and modern periods. Membership is open to all and there is a reduced rate for students.

MEMBERSHIP RATES

Rates are as follows: full members £70, £69 for those who pay by direct debit; student members and those up to 30 years old £30; corporate members £225. Life membership is available at £700 to those over 65 years of age after five years' full membership. Institutional subscriptions are available from Cambridge University Press. Please consult the Society's website for further details (hellenicsociety.org.uk).

PUBLICATIONS

The Journal of Hellenic Studies and Archaeological Reports are published annually, and members of the Society receive free online access to both publications, both current issues and the complete archive, via the Society's website. Members also receive a print copy of ARGO (a bi-annual magazine). Print copies of JHS and AR can be purchased by members at a cost of £15 each.

THE JOINT LIBRARY

The Society helps to maintain the Joint Library in conjunction with the Roman Society and the Institute of Classical Studies. Membership of the Hellenic Society allows the reader to borrow (within the UK) up to five books at a time, either in person or by post.

LECTURES

The Society arranges an annual lecture series in London, and helps to arrange other lectures in collaboration with the various local branches of the Classical Association: a programme of all these lectures is circulated in September to UK members and is posted on the website. A selection of past lectures can be viewed on the Society's YouTube channel (youtube.com/user/HellenicSociety1879).

GRANTS

The Society aims to help those engaged in Hellenic studies at all levels, and to this end it makes grants of various kinds (further details and application forms are available from the website).

- Schools teaching Greek language, history or civilization may apply for grants: generous donations from the A.G. Leventis Foundation have recently enabled the Society to increase the grants awarded, in number and size.
- Postgraduate students and other scholars engaged in specific areas of research may apply for grants from the Dover Fund.
- Institutions (typically, but not exclusively, universities) may apply for a grant from the Council of the Society, to fund academic conferences and other events.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE JOURNAL

Contributions should be submitted online via Cambridge Core (https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/journal-of-hellenic-studies) where guidelines for authors preparing articles for submission can be found.

A style guide and further information on submission of copy and illustrations are also available on the Society's website. Books for review should be addressed to the Librarian at the Society address. The Journal does not accept unsolicited book reviews.
