MAUTHNER'S CRITIQUE OF LANGUAGE

GERSHON WEILER

Fritz Mauthner (1849-1923) attempted to develop a comprehensive critique of language which was to resolve a whole range of persistent and controversial philosophical problems. Mr Weiler believes that his main contribution to the philosophy of language was the working out of a complete theory of language on empirical assumptions. He places Mauthner's ideas in their historical perspective and urges that their originality be recognized and their interest reconsidered. $16.00

ENGLISH GRAMMATICAL CATEGORIES AND THE TRADITION TO 1800

IAN MICHAEL

A historical study showing the effects of the classical tradition on the analysis and teaching of English grammar.

Based on categories (parts of speech, sentence, mood, tense), it examines the development of each. Professor Michael uses the 272 English grammars known up to 1800, of which 140 have not been studied before. $32.50

DIVERSIONS OF BLOOMSBURY

Selected writings on linguistics

by R. H. ROBINS, University of London.

1970. 382 pages. Hfl. 21.– (ca. $7.00)
ISBN 0 7204 6181 2

This book consists of reprints of seventeen articles on linguistic topics written during the past eighteen years and published in a variety of journals. The book is divided into four sections: general theory, the history of linguistics, prosodic phonology, and descriptive studies of individual languages. Each of these themes is currently the subject of interest among teachers and students of linguistics in many parts of the world.

THE GENERATION OF SYNTACTIC STRUCTURES FROM A SEMANTIC BASE

by W. J. HUTCHINS, University of Sheffield.

1971. 204 pages. Hfl. 36.– (ca. $10.00)
ISBN 0 7204 6182 0

In the language model described in this monograph the meanings of sentences and of sentence constituents are represented as semantic graphs, and rules are provided for the realisation of their syntactic structures and surface forms. The rules have been designed to operate directly from information on semantic relationships given in the graphs themselves. This is in contrast to rules in other language models which generate syntactic structures independently of semantic content. Topics covered include: adjectival, adverbial and prepositional constructions, subordination, coordination, anaphora, quantification, negation, ergatives and causatives.

ASPECTS OF LANGUAGE

Essays and Lectures on Philosophy of Language, Linguistic Philosophy, and Methodology of Linguistics.

by Y. BAR-HILLEL, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

1970. 385 pages. Hfl. 60.– (ca. $17.00)
ISBN 0 7204 6033 6

The selected essays deal with a variety of topics from linguistic philosophy, philosophy of language, and methodology of linguistics. While the earlier essays reflect the standard views of logical empiricism, the later essays exhibit a growing interest in the logic of natural languages, stressing the essentially pragmatic nature of these languages, culminating in an attempt to synthesize linguistic reconstructionism with linguistic naturalism on the basis of the new insights brought about by the "Chomskyan revolution" in the methodology of linguistics.

PUBLICATIONS

of the

Linguistic Society of America

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

As supplements to LANGUAGE, the Linguistic Society of America issues a series of occasional publications, LANGUAGE MONOGRAPHS. These are included in the subscription price of the journal, but may also be purchased separately. In the LANGUAGE MONOGRAPH series, the Society publishes independently subsidized studies which are too long to appear as articles or are otherwise unsuitable for publication in the journal. The method of application for admission to this series of supplements, and the terms of publication, may be secured from the Secretary of the Society.

SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS in the field of linguistic science are issued by the Society from time to time. These are not included in the subscription price of the journal.

MEETING HANDBOOKS, which contain program listings and abstracts of papers presented at LSA Annual Meetings, 1965 through 1969, may also be purchased separately.

A list of publications in print is available from the Secretary of the Society. Current prices for LANGUAGE are as follows: Complete volume 43, $8.00; volume 45 onward, $16.00; single numbers currently in print from volumes 39–44, $3.00; volume 45 onward, $6.00. Reprint editions of volumes 1–38 of LANGUAGE, Monographs 1–21, and Dissertations 1–52 are available from Kraus Reprint Corporation, 16 East 46th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017, and a price list can be obtained from that address.
