THE LANGUAGE

Proto-Properties and Grammatical Encoding

A Correspondence Theory of Argument Selection

Farrell Ackerman and John Moore

In this theory the authors identify two basic strategies for the organization of lexical information and demonstrate how these two strategies yield widespread patterns of regularity in the lexical information associated with predicators cross-linguistically.

Complex Predicates and Information Spreading in LFG

Avery D. Andrews and
Christopher D. Manning

This book provides a simple but precise framework for describing complex predicates and related constructions, and applies it principally to the analysis of complex predicates in Romance, and certain serial verb constructions in Tariana and Miskitu.

The Syntax of Negation in Russian

A Minimalist Approach

Sue Brown

A formalization of the status of negation within the phrase structure of Russian that not only contributes relevant Slavic data to the pool of negation data, but also sheds new light on the syntactic expression of negation universally.

Local Constraints vs. Economy

David Johnson and Shalom Lappin

The book offers a detailed critique of the economy-of-derivation model of grammar that has emerged within the framework of Chomsky's Minimalist Program. It looks at the conceptual and computational complexity problems as well as the empirical consequences of both global and local economy principles.
