Sameness and Substance

David Wiggins

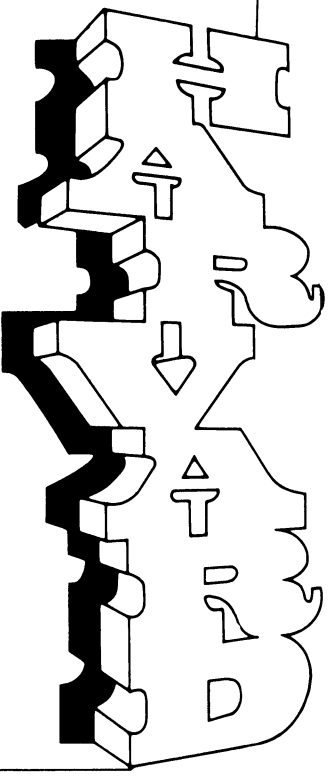

Sameness and Substance replaces, with five new chapters, Wiggins' classic Identity and Spatio-Temporal Continuity.

In this new book, Wiggins maintains the original strategy of founding the theory of individuation and persistence through change in the logic of identity and in the absolute conception of the relation. $22.50

Naming and Necessity

Saul A. Kripke

Naming and Necessity is essential reading in metaphysics and in the philosophy of language. It redirected attention to neglected questions of natural and metaphysical necessity and to the connections between these and theories of reference, in particular of naming, and of identity. This seminal work is published here in a revised form, with a new Introduction by the author. $10.00

Harvard University Press

Cambridge, Mass. 02138

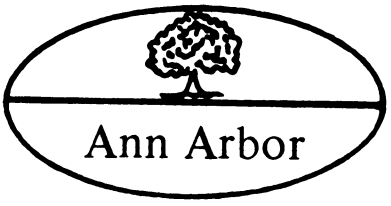

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

MICHIGAN STUDIES IN THE HUMANITIES

ROMAN JAKOBSON
THE FRAMEWORK OF LANGUAGE

1. A Glance at the Development of Semiotics; 2. A Few Remarks on Peirce, Pathfinder in the Science of Language; 3. Glosses on the Medieval Insight into the Science of Language; 4. The Twentieth Century in European and American Linguistics: Movements and Continuity; 5. Metalanguage as a Linguistic Problem; 6. On Aphasic Disorders from a Linguistic Angle; 7. On the Linguistic Approach to the Problem of Consciousness and the Unconscious.

144 pages ISBN 0-936534-00-1 paper $4.00

MICHIGAN SLAVIC PUBLICATIONS

EDWARD STANKIEWICZ
STUDIES IN SLAVIC MORPHOPHONEMICS AND ACCENTOLOGY

1. Opposition and Hierarchy in Morphophonemic Alternations; 2. Prague School Morphophonemics; 3. The Common Slavic Prosodic Pattern and Its Evolution in Slovenian; 4. Slavic Morphophonemics in Its Typological and Diachronic Aspects; 5. The Accent Patterns of the Slavic Verb; 6. The Asyllabic Verbal Stems in Slavic and Their Accentuation; 7. The Slavic Vocative and Its Accentuation; 8. The Accentuation and Grammatical Categories of the -a Stems in South Slavic; 9. The South Slavic Infinitive and Its Accentuation; 10. The Prosodic Features of Modern Standard Slovenian; 11. The Accent Patterns of Bulgarian Substantives; 12. The Oxytonic Accent of the Present Tense in Serbo-Croatian and Other Slavic Languages; 13. The Place and Function of Stress in Russian Nominal Forms with a Zero in the Ending; 14. The Accentuation of the -l- Participle in Serbo-Croatian; 15. The Accentuation of the Russian Verb; 16. The Accentual Pattern of the Slovenian Declension.

278 pages ISBN 0-930042-30-1 hard cover $9.50

Checks should be made payable to the University of Michigan and sent to: Department of Slavic Languages & Literatures, The University of Michigan, Modern Languages Building, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Announcing

The Language and Thought Series

Series Editors:
Jerrold J. Katz
D. Terence Langendoen
George A. Miller

This series will make available important work in the rapidly converging fields of linguistics, psycholinguistics, and the philosophy of language. The editorial board will select books which present significant current research on language and thought, as well as books which provide a definitive introduction to major topics in these fields.

Readings in Philosophy of Psychology

Volume 1

Ned Block, Editor

This book offers a complete introduction to philosophical problems underlying the modern study of mind and provides the only central reference available for scholars and students in this growing area of inquiry.

Contributors to this volume include Chomsky, Hempel and Skinner on Behaviorism; Boyd, Davidson, Fodor, Kripke and Nagel on Reductionism; and Armstrong, Block, Lewis, Putnam and Shoemaker on Functionalism. $18.50

Paperbacks in the series—

Propositional Structure and Illocutionary Force

A Study of the Contribution of Sentence Meaning to Speech Acts

Jerrold J. Katz

This book offers a new theory of the structure of propositions, which provides a uniform treatment of constative and performative sentences.

"A very convincing and provocative study, which places the investigation of speech act theory on a considerably higher level."
—Noam Chomsky $7.95

Semantics

Theories of Meaning in Generative Grammar

Janet Dean Fodor

This book brings together the major theories of transformational semantics to provide a general discussion of the theory of linguistic meaning.

"Compulsory reading for anyone with an interest in semantics."
—Deirdre Wilson, Journal of Linguistics $7.95

The Language of Thought

Jerry A. Fodor

"A marvelous book—richly laced with ideas, subtly argued, and occasionally witty... An attempt to draw out... important consequences of... current attempts in computational cognitive psychology to formulate empirically adequate theories."
—Robert W. Harnish, Psycholinguistic Research $7.95

Harvard University Press

Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

A Guide to Computer Applications in the Humanities

Susan Hockey

This introductory guide is designed to help the person with little or no knowledge about computers understand how to use computer technology when preparing indexes, catalogs, word counts, concordances, and other research projects.

Susan Hockey explains the basics about computers and how they work and describes the many all-purpose programs that already exist and are designed to preform various non-numerical tasks. Hockey also offers valuable advice on how to start a computing project and includes a general bibliography and a comprehensive glossary of computer terms and acronyms. $16.95

Johns Hopkins

The Johns Hopkins University Press, Baltimore, Maryland 21218

a newsletter in applied linguistics

The Linguistic REPORTER

WHO IS IT?

The Linguistic Reporter is one of the major international information sources on language related issues. The LR covers language teaching and learning, sociolinguistics, bilingual-bicultural education, psycholinguistics, language planning, English as a second or foreign language, reading, programs in various countries, and more.

In addition to articles, the LR contains information on grants available; job openings; meetings, workshops, and symposia; significant legislation; and notices of recently published books and journals.

WHO IS IT FOR?

The Linguistic Reporter is specifically designed to reach a broad range of professionals.

As linguistic knowledge advances and as linguists begin to address themselves to an ever wider range of educational, social, and economic problems throughout the world, there is a need for an effective means to provide linkages among those concerned. Now in its 21st year, The Linguistic Reporter is dedicated to filling this need.

HOW OFTEN DOES IT APPEAR?

The Linguistic Reporter is the only monthly publication in the field. It is published on an academic year basis, with each volume beginning in September and ending in June of the following year. 9 a year, including one combined issue.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

We'll start your subscription at once.

$10.00 1 yr (domestic 3rd class).

All subscriptions must be prepaid.

Center for Applied Linguistics
1611 N Kent Street
Arlington, Va 22209

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Speaking Your Language...

The Language-Makers

By ROY HARRIS. Sharply challenging some well-entrenched dogmas in the philosophy of language, Professor Harris criticizes at length positions he labels "surrogationalism" (the view that words can serve as proxy for "things"), "instrumentalism" (the view that words are tools for achieving practical purposes), and "contractualism" (which sees language as the embodiment of conventions). With refreshing touches of wit and flashes of brilliance, he discusses the work of a number of writers, ranging from Quintilian to Chomsky and Austin. "This is a lively, provocative, and ambitious book."– Max Black. $19.50

Naming, Necessity, and Natural Kinds

Edited by STEPHEN P. SCHWARTZ. "The papers anthologized here deal with the philosophical position that what a word refers to is not, in general, a function of the concept that the word expresses....The collection will be of great use for philosophers and those in related fields concerned with language." – Library Journal. "Should be read by everyone interested in the philosophy of language." – International Studies in Philosophy. $16.50 cloth; $6.95 paper

Caveats and Critiques

Philosophical Essays in Language, Logic, and Art

By MAX BLACK. "This is creative scholarship at its finest." – Choice. "The writing is a model of clarity and the thought is stimulating....An excellent collection." – Library Journal. $17.50

Structure and Development in Child Language

The Preschool Years

By MARION POTTS, PATRICIA CARLSON, RODNEY COCKING, and CAROL COPPLE. Presenting valuable information about the emergence of language patterns and structures, this study sets forth a new, extensively researched technique for measuring language growth – a ten-minute test which subjects take by playing a game of finishing a series of incomplete stories with words or phrases. $15.00

Psycholinguistics

Developmental and Pathological

Edited by JOHN MORTON and JOHN C. MARSHALL. This is the first volume in a series of volumes whose aim is to explore current developments in the fast-moving field of psycholinguistics, as well as to provide detailed and critical accounts of important areas of growth. $12.50

CORNELL UNIVERSITY PRESS

P.O. Box 250, Ithaca, New York 14850

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

LINGUISTIC RESEARCH INC.
P.O. Box 5677 – Station "L"
Edmonton, Alberta, Canada T6C 4G1

ANNOUNCES THE PUBLICATION OF:

SUBJECTS AND PSEUDO–SUBJECTS IN SPANISH:
The Verb Agreement Question in the Impersonal Se Construction

By Germán F. Westphal

CURRENT INQUIRY INTO LANGUAGE AND LINGUISTICS: Volume 31

Anthony L. Vanek, Editor-in-Chief

is monograph is one of the most recent contributions to the elucidation of a classic problem in Spanish lin-istics. It contains an extensive discussion of the analyses already existing in the literature, and presents an al-rnative solution which overcomes the inadequacies found in those analyses. For the first time, a set of syntac- tests is proposed to distinguish between the different constructions involving the non-paradigmatic particle in Spanish, and to solve the problem of whether the Noun Phrase that triggers verb agreement in those con-ructions is the Subject or not. A specific rule of backwards agreement is introduced, along with a universal onvention on non-agreement. The argumentation of the book constitutes a model for students of linguistics, oth at the undergraduate and graduate level. The book will prove useful not only to Spanish syntacticians, but lso to Hispanists and linguists interested in the Romance Languages. Given the significance of the topic, it is ertainly a must for upper level students of Spanish.

60 pages, hard cover. Purchase price: U.S. $10.00

THE LINGUISTIC MUSE

Edited by Donna Jo Napoli and Emily Norwood Rando

CURRENT INQUIRY INTO LANGUAGE AND LINGUISTICS: Volume 32

Anthony L. Vanek, Editor-in-Chief

LOVE! LUST! DANGER! EXCITEMENT!
(Not necessarily in that order)
All abound in the first collection of poetry by linguists.
Abandon yourself to: THE LINGUISTIC MUSE
Order a copy for your library - Exegetes of the future will thank you.

Linguists, in their study of the structure of language, have often dealt with the rules of metrics as an interesting extension of natural principles. The ear specially trained to seek pattern in sound takes extraordinary delight in the form of poetry. What happens when the rule-loving scholar writes her own poetry, when analyst turns crea-tor? This first collection of poetry by linguists has been gathered and presented on the assumption that an ob-session with language and a detailed consciousness of craft take one a long way toward good poetry.

169 pages, hard cover. Purchase price: U.S. $12.00

COMPLETE LIST OF MONOGRAPHS AVAILABLE FROM PUBLISHER.
SPECIAL DISCOUNTS FOR TEXTBOOK ORDERS.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Three important publications of The Linguistic Society of America

Henry M. Hoenigswald (ed.)
The European Background of American Linguistics.
Papers of the Golden Anniversary Symposium of the Linguistic Society of America. Contributions by Einar Haugen, Rosane Rocher, Rulon Wells, Hans Aarsleff, Yakov Malkiel, E.M. Uhlenbeck, D. Terence Langendoen, Roman Jakobson, S.A. Jameson.
180 pp. dfl. 29,50/U.S. $15.50

Robert Austerlitz (ed.)
The scope of American Linguistics.
The first Golden Anniversary Symposium of The Linguistic Society of America. Contributions by Einar Haugen, Kenneth L. Pike, W.P. Lehmann, Raimo Anttila, Charles Ferguson, William Labov, Charles Fillmore, Noam Chomsky, Barbara Hall Partee.
210 pp. dfl. 18,-/U.S. $9.50

Wallace L. Chafe (ed.)
American Indian Languages and American Linguistics.
The second Golden Anniversary Symposium of the Linguistic Society of America. Contributions by Wallace L. Chafe, Einar Haugen, Dell Hymes, Kenneth Hale, Mary R. Haas, C.F. and F.M. Voegelin, Norman A. McQuown.
136 pp. dfl. 16,-/U.S. $8.50

Combined orders for all three publications are subject to a special reduced price of $25. Postage and packing included.

Please send your orders with personal cheque to:

FORIS PUBLICATIONS
P.O.Box 509
3300 AM - Dordrecht - Holland
for the U.S. and Canada
send your orders to
Box C/50
CINNAMINSON N.J. 08077

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Formal Principles of Language Acquisition

by Kenneth Wexler and Peter W. Culicover

By focusing their inquiry on formal language learnability theory—the interface of formal mathematical linguistics, linguistic theory, and cognitive development—the authors of this book have developed a rigorous and unified theory that opens the study of language learnability to discoveries about the mechanisms of language acquisition in humans.
$35.00

Biological Studies of Mental Processes

edited by David Caplan

These contributions by linguists, psychologists, and neuroscientists explore the new concepts and topics that extend and revise our former ideas about the biology of cognition. They present outstanding and timely research on the biological mechanisms underlying and correlating with linguistic and developmental processes.
$24.95

The MIT Press

Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Cambridge, Massachusetts 02142

Other recent publications:

A Theory of Syntactic Recognition for Natural Languages
by Mitchell P. Marcus
$25.00

NETL:
A System for Representing and Using Real-World Knowledge
by Scott E. Fahlman
$17.50

Linguistic Theory and Psychological Reality
edited by Morris Halle, Joan Bresnan, and George A. Miller
$17.50

The Interpretation of Visual Motion
by Shimon Ullman
$17.50

The Eye-Voice Span
by Harry Levin with Ann Buckler Addis $15.00

Dyslexia:
Theory and Research
by Frank R. Vellutino
$19.95

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Back in print from
GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY PRESS

READINGS IN ENGLISH TRANSFORMATIONAL GRAMMAR

Roderick A. Jacobs
Peter S. Rosenbaum
Editors

The articles contained in this volume are either theoretical or descriptive contributions to the field of linguistic inquiry known as transformational linguistics. The issues considered are general in scope although some area of English snytax is the concern of each writer. The articles, conceived and written between mid-1964 and mid-1968, represent some fundamental reconsideration of the nature and role of deep structure.

By the summer of 1964, the formalization of the distinction between deep and surface levels of sentence representation had been developed by researchers at MIT including Chomsky, Halle, Katz, Postal, and a number of MIT graduate students in linguistics. This theory was presented formally in Chomsky's Aspects of the Theory of Syntax in 1965. During the period from 1964 through early 1967, much research was devoted to theoretical extension and descriptive application of the notions proposed in Aspects. Toward the end of this period, a phase emerged in which evidence that the Aspects model was unsatisfactory began to accumulate. This led to a more serious questioning of that model, and eventually to a third stage where various proposals envisaging relatively fundamental revisions of the model were advanced. The articles in this book have been arranged to reflect each of these three stages in the development of transformational syntax.

— from the editors' Introduction

CONTENTS

T.G. Bever and P.S. Rosenbaum. Some lexical structures and their empirical validity
P.S. Rosenbaum. A principle governing deletion in English sentential complementation
A. Hale. Conditions on English comparative clause pairings
P.M. Postal. On so-called pronouns in English
B. Fraser. Some remarks on the action nominalization in English
D.T. Langendoen. The accessibility of deep structures
D.M. Perlmutter. The two verbs 'begin'
C.J. Fillmore. The grammar of 'hitting' and 'breaking'
R.B. Lees. On very deep grammatical structure
G. Lakoff. Pronominalization, negation, and the analysis of adverbs J.D. McCawley. Where do noun phrases come from?
N. Chomsky. Remarks on nominalization
J.R. Ross. On declarative sentences

REPRINT of the 1970 edition . . . available for Fall 1980 course adoption.

All individual orders must be prepaid.
BOOKNOTES, which contains a complete listing of our publications, is available upon request.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY PRESS
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20057

288 pages $12.50 cloth
ISBN 0-87840-187-3

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press

PUBLICATIONS

of the

Linguistic Society of America

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

As supplements to LANGUAGE, the Linguistic Society of America issues a series of occasional publications, LANGUAGE MONOGRAPHS. These are included in the subscription price of the journal, but may also be purchased separately. In the LANGUAGE MONOGRAPH series, the Society publishes independently subsidized studies which are too long to appear as articles or are otherwise unsuitable for publication in the journal. The method of application for admission to this series of supplements, and the terms of publication, may be secured from the Secretary of the Society.

SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS in the field of linguistic science are issued by the Society from time to time. These are not included in the subscription price of the journal.

MEETING HANDBOOKS, which contain program listings and abstracts of papers presented at LSA Annual Meetings, 1965 through 1973, may be purchased separately.

A list of publications in print and a price list are available from the LSA Secretariat, 1611 North Kent Street, Arlington, Virginia 22209. Reprint editions and back copies may be ordered from Kraus Reprint Corporation, Route 100, Millwood, New York 10546. or FL-9491 Nendeln, Liechtenstein, Europe. Prices for specific issues and/or volumes may be obtained from those addresses.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0097850780026720 Published online by Cambridge University Press