Instructions for Authors

AIMS AND SCOPE: The journal publishes on the subject of cultural property as it is broadly understood to encompass a wide range of disciplines and professions in an international context. Articles of an interdisciplinary nature intended for a diverse, international audience are specifically encouraged. While manuscripts submitted for consideration are not required to be formatted in the journal's style, if accepted for publication, the author will be responsible for ensuring that the accepted manuscript does conform. Manuscripts may be submitted by prior arrangement with the Editor-in-Chief in Spanish, German, and French for review purposes; if the manuscript is accepted for publication, the author is responsible for its translation into English. Manuscripts and correspondence should be addressed to the Editor-in-Chief, Professor Patty Gerstenblith. Case notes should be submitted directly to the Case Note Editor, Professor Robert K. Paterson. Books for review should be sent to Professor Kurt Siehr. Addresses may be found on the masthead. The Editor-in-Chief is available to assist all authors in ensuring that their manuscripts conform to the journal's formatting and stylistic requirements.

MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION: All manuscripts should be typed and double-spaced on one side of the page, with pages numbered consecutively, and should include complete information for contacting the author including address, telephone, fax, and email address when available. End notes should be numbered consecutively and typed double-spaced on separate sheets at the end. The type throughout the manuscript text and notes should be no smaller than 12 point. Each submission should have a cover page with article title, author's name, and any biographical information. Only the title should be repeated on the first page of the manuscript. Four copies should be submitted and will not be returned to the author. Each article should be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 150 words. The journal only publishes material that has not been previously published.

While manuscripts do not need to conform to the journal's formatting style at time of submission, if accepted for publication, the author will be responsible for conforming the manuscript to the journal's style. More detailed information will be supplied to the author at the time of acceptance.

Accepted manuscripts will be copy-edited. No major alterations or revisions may be made once the copy-editing is complete. Authors will be charged for alterations made in the proofing stage.

ILLUSTRATIONS: Authors are encouraged to submit photographs, line drawings, and maps to accompany their manuscript but should submit only copies at the time of initial submission for review purposes.

COPYRIGHT: It is a condition of publication in the journal that authors grant exclusive copyright license to the International Cultural Property Society for a period of five years. Requests for permission to reprint material found in the journal should come to the publisher. This ensures that requests from third parties to reproduce articles are handled efficiently and consistently and will also allow the article to be as widely disseminated as possible.

Authors may use their own material in other publications provided that the journal is acknowledged as the original place of publication and the publisher is notified in writing and in advance.
