Refiguring the Sacred Feminine

The Poems of John Donne, Aemilia Lanyer, and John Milton

Theresa M. DiPasquale

DiPasquale's study of Donne, Lanyer, and Milton demonstrates how each of these seventeenth century English poets revised, reformed, and renewed the Judeo-Christian tradition of the sacred feminine and explores the concept of the feminine as a reflection of the divine.

Milton the Dramatist

Outstanding Academic Title—Choice

Timothy J. Burbery

"[A] refreshingly original study. . . . fills a long-standing gap in Milton scholarship." — Studies in English Literature

"This is now the definitive study of John Milton as a dramatist. . . . Well researched, sensitive, circumspect, and insightful, this cogent study illuminates heretofore unrecognized aspects of Milton's oeuvre. Essential."—Choice

Renaissance Tropologies

The Cultural Imagination of Early Modern England

Edited by Jeanne Shami

Twelve essays from noted Renaissance scholars focus on the textual activity of major cultural tropes that enunciate and transform the cultural imagination on matters of love and power in the world, the body politic, and the rising sphere of personal life in early modern England.

The Development of Milton's Thought

Law, Government, and Religion

John T. Shawcross

In what might be a controversial work, Shawcross presents a highly nuanced and historicized view of Milton, arguing that his poetry, political tracts, and theological writings reveal a thinker whose views changed and developed over a long career.

Modern Chinese as a Foreign Language

A Practical Course for American Students

Ming Chao Gui, The University of Oklahoma

The book is considered by the author the "rich fruit" of the his language teaching experience for 39 years, including 14 years of teaching modern Chinese as a foreign language at the universities in the United States.

The fundamental differences between teaching and learning Modern Chinese as a foreign language and as a native language have been a brand new topic in the past decade or so when the status of the Chinese language has been changing rapidly and the demand for this language has been increasing dramatically in the face of the globalization of the world's economy and the growing influence of China to the world in many aspects and fields.

The book, written from the perspective of teaching and learning modern Chinese as a foreign language, is intended for American students studying the Chinese language, especially those who want to become a teacher of the language. Beginning learners with some basic knowledge of the language will also benefit from this book.

This practical course book not only gives the readers the basic yet essential knowledge of the grammar of the language on different levels of its linguistic hierarchy when learned as a foreign language, but also discloses and discusses in detail the fundamental differences between learning and teaching modern Chinese as a native language and as a foreign language. It makes it clear that the effective way in acquiring modern Chinese as a foreign language is to learn it in a functional way, in other words, to learn and teach the actual functions of words, phrases, grammatical patterns in context, or sentences, rather than the classifications of words or types of sentences. Comparison to the different features of English is another concept and practice behind all the discussions in this book, which has also been proven to an effective teaching and learning technique in the acquisition of a foreign language.

ELT Profession: Challenges & Prospects

The Proceedings of the 2n dInternational conference on ELT, 2006, Eastern Mediterranean University, Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus

Naciye Kunt, Javanshir Shibliyev & Fatoş Erozan (eds.), Eastern Mediterranean University

This is a collection of selected papers contributed to The 2n dInternational ELT Conference held in North Cyprus in 2006, which placed special emphasis on challenges and prospects in ELT profession. Part 1 includes papers presented by the plenary speakers like Cem Alptekin who focused on topical structure analysis of compositions, Deniz Kurtoğlu Eken with her paper devoted to teacher training and A. Suresh Canagarajah with his paper about changing pedagogical priorities. Part 2, which consists of the selected papers, addresses various issues that challenge the foreign language teaching community: Teachers (challenges for initial teacher training programmes, the perspectives of various groups in in-service teacher education program, pre-service teachers' beliefs about EFL materials, uncertainties and challenges of EFL teachers, pre-service teachers' reflections of journal writing and language teacher competency), Learners (their learning style preferences, andragogical and pedagogical orientations, needs, and beliefs), European Language Portfolio (its potential benefits, implementations, implications and limitations, and promoting process and context awareness), and Language culture and classroom pedagogy. We believe that the issues treated in this collection challenge all of us who are the members of language teaching community.

TITLES FROM BRAZIL

THE FIVE SEASONS OF LOVE – João Almino, trans. Elizabeth Jackson

To fulfill a pact made during her student days, fifty-five-year-old Ana Kauffman plans a party to celebrate the new millennium. As old friends resurface and the countdown to the new century draws near, Ana's past undergoes a series of unexpected revisions – beginning with the arrival of Berta, the newly minted post-op persona of Ana's former boyfriend Norberto. Set amidst the chaos of contemporary Brasília, a place where even the most basic human affairs – love, friendship, sex, and work – can take unlikely shapes, Ana's story is both relentlessly modern and profoundly timeless.

PONCIÁ VICENCIO - Conceição Evaristo, trans. Paloma Martinez-Cruz

Ponciá Vicencio, the debut novel by Afro-Brazilian writer Conceição Evaristo, is the story of a young Afro-Brazilian woman's journey from the home of her enslaved ancestors to the wasteland of contemporary urban life. Seeking an escape from rural poverty and generations of despair, Ponciá Vicencio moves to the city to start a new life. But in the loneliness of the inhospitable city, voices from the past crowd her mind. What is her grandfather's mysterious legacy? Can her family escape from servitude? And can we ever really outrun our past? This mystical story of family, dreams, and hope illuminates urban and rural Afro-Brazilian conditions with poetic eloquence and raw urgency.

FOURTEEN FEMALE VOICES FROM BRAZIL - Brazilian Drama, Prose & Poetry

This fascinating introduction to Brazilian culture includes interviews with fourteen of Brazil's most prominent female writers, along with excerpts from their work. Containing eleven stories, three plays and nineteen poems, 14 Female Voices From Brazil opens the door to a multitude of unique perspectives on life, art and love. Each author provides thought-provoking answers to the same ten questions, before presenting the reader with a poem, play or story that embodies the essence of their work. Whether trapped in a dead-end marriage or considering the terrible beauty of a shantytown, reflecting on transvestites at the Hilton or learning to finally say "no," these excerpts thoughtfully illuminate the artistic approaches and cultural experiences of these fourteen brilliant women. From Brazil's early groundbreaking feminists to the newly emerging voice of young Afro-Brazilians, 14 Female Voices From Brazil offers English-speaking audiences an intriguing taste of Brazilian cultural life.

3 CONTEMPORARY BRAZILIAN PLAYS 2nd Edition - Brazilian Drama

This exciting bilingual volume of Brazilian theater includes three plays written by some of the nation's most creative dramatists. Plínio Marcos's Two Lost in the Filthy Night shows language as the only possession of two paupers living in claustrophobic conditions. Leilah Assumpção's Moist Lips, Quiet Passion explores the sexual life of a couple trying to achieve their "Big Orgasm," where existence is possible only through games. In Walking Papers, by Consuelo de Castro, a man and a woman interact in fragmented situations bordering on insanity. This revised edition includes improved translation, updated commentary and a new introduction.
