A DICTIONARY OF SELECTED SYNONYMS IN THE PRINCIPAL INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES

A Contribution to the History of Ideas

CARL DARLING BUCK

"With interest in Indo-European studies running high, the reissue of Buck's Dictionary is especially timely. This enduring arrangement of over 1,500 synonyms from thirty-one languages into twenty-two semantic classes provides an indispensable fund of information on the Indo-European cultural lexicon. It remains an important and relevant research tool in our understanding of the Indo-European language family and its individual members."—Philip Baldi, Pennsylvania State University

THE POLITICS OF LINGUISTICS

FREDERICK J. NEWMEYER

Newmeyer's discussion includes the political implications of the birth of the modern field of linguistics in the romantic movement, the views of Marx and Engels on language, the attack on structural linguistics by both Hitler and Stalin, and the relation between Noam Chomsky's linguistic theories and his political views.

"Newmeyer's book should be widely read. It is important for linguists, and all concerned with language, not to set these issues aside, but to think them through."—Dell Hymes, University of Pennsylvania

Studies in Indian Logic and Linguistics

FRITS STAAL

This collection of articles and review essays, including many hard to find pieces, comprises the most important and fundamental studies of Indian logic and linguistics ever undertaken. Staal demonstrates that, contrary to general assumptions, India's contributions in these areas are not only compatible with what has been produced in the West, but a necessary ingredient and an essential component of any future human science.

NON-WELL-FOUNDED SETS

PETER ACZEL

Foreword by Jon Barwise

This text presents the mathematical background to the antifoundation and related axioms that imply the existence of non-well-founded sets when used in place of the axiom of foundation in axiomatic set theory.

WORKING PAPERS IN GRAMMATICAL THEORY AND DISCOURSE STRUCTURE

Interactions of Morphology, Syntax, and Discourse

Edited by MASAYO IIDA, STEPHEN WECHSLER, and DRAGA ZEC

Introduction by Joan Bresnan

The five papers presented here investigate how overall linguistic architecture must be structured to explain the kinds of interactions between morphological, syntactic, and discourse phenomena that are empirically found to occur.

INFORMATION-BASED SYNTAX AND SEMANTICS

Volume 1: Fundamentals

CARL POLLARD and IVAN A. SAG

This work builds up syntactic and semantic aspects of grammatical theory in an integrated way from the start, under the assumption that neither is of linguistic interest divorced from the other. The particular theory presented, head-driven phrase structure grammar (HPSG), is an information-based theory that draws on and attempts to synthesize insights and perspectives from several families of contemporary syntactic theories.

New! COMMUNICATION AND SOCIAL STRUCTURE edited by David R. Maines and Carl J. Couch. This scholarly work addresses a vast array of topics related to the communicative and informational components of social structure. Discussions cover: interpersonal communication; information, communication and morality; pre-modern communication technologies; electronic media and social structure; and methodological and conceptual issues. May '88, about $48.50

PSYCHOLOGICAL ASPECTS OF LANGUAGE: The West Virginia Lectures edited by Philip N. Chase and Linda J. Parrott. Provocative articles explore verbal learning, Chomsky's nativism, and operant conditioning in relation to language. Differences between social and verbal behavior and the ethics of linguistic behavior modification are examined. '86, $29.50

WORD RECOGNITION: The Why and the How by Patrick Groff and Dorothy Z. Seymour. To develop children's abilities to recognize written words, this book offers pertinent information on linguistics, on principles of instruction, and on classroom practices. Special attention is given to the relationships of phonics, context clues, mono- and multisyllabic words, reading games, and various aspects of reading comprehension. '87, $26.75

DICTIONARY OF DEVELOPMENTAL DRAMA: The Use of Terminology in Educational Drama, Theatre Education, Creative Dramatics, Children's Theatre, Drama Therapy, and Related Areas by Richard Courtney. This dictionary contains 956 internationally-used terms and their definitions. Since dramatic activity has many meanings, most entries are more inclusive than in other dictionaries; many categories overlap one another; and entries are cross-referenced to provide greater clarity of issues and meanings. '87, $28.50

Cognition and Sentence Production: A Cross-Linguistic Study

by S.N. Sridhar

Reports original research on the role of perception, salience, and pragmatics in the production of sentences. Demonstrates that many aspects of language are governed by universal cognitive principles of perception, attention, and communication. Appeals to researchers in linguistics, psychology, cognitive science, philosophy of language, anthropology, and communication.

Critical Essays on Language Use and Psychology

by Daniel C. O'Connell

Here is a frank, critical analysis of the theoretical orientation of psycholinguistics and of the psychological traditions on which it has been based. Encouraging a radical reorientation of the psychology of language use, Dr. O'Connell rejects the isolated study of language structure as an autonomous entity, and focuses on language as a tool of human communication. A significant book for linguists, psycholinguists, and others interested in the theoretical level of modern psychology.

A PRIMER OF AMERICAN INTONATION

by

Richard Gunter

This 90-page book (13 lessons with exercises, plus an appendix that summarizes the Trager-Smith phonological symbols) is suitable as a supplement in a first-year course in linguistics or a course in phonetics, phonology or the like. There will also be a tape cassette with many spoken illustrations from the text.

If you are teaching a course for which this book would be useful, you are invited to request a complimentary copy. Write on your departmental stationery, describing the course.

Two New Titles in Kluwer's Outstanding Series,
Studies in Natural Language and Linguistic Theory!

MIXED CATEGORIES
Nominalizations in Quechua

by Claire Lefebvre, University of Quebec and Pieter Muysken, University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands

1988, 326 pp.

Paper	ISBN 1-55608-051-4	$24.00
Cloth	ISBN 1-55608-050-6	$69.00

This book addresses the problem of mixed categories, particularly the mixture of noun-like and verb-like properties that we find in syntactic nominalizations. Understanding nominalizations is crucial to understanding the grammar of languages such as Quechua, a language spoken in the Andes. The analysis presented is based on the theoretical framework and overall research aims of the theory of Government and Binding described in recent works of Chomsky and other researchers working in the same tradition.

A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF LAKE-IROQUOIAN ACCENT

by Karin Michelson, Harvard University

1988, 206 pp. ISBN 1-55608-054-9 $89.00

This book offers a comprehensive description of accent in the five extant Lake Iroquoian languages (Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, Cayuga and Seneca), drawing on the author's own extensive fieldwork and the research of others. The book's focus is the development of the widely divergent accent systems of five languages from a relatively simple proto system based on penultimate accent. Diachronic developments including accent, accent shifts and the emergence of an alternating syllable count are discussed in terms of explicit formal statements.

INFORMATION FOR CONTRIBUTORS

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

MANUSCRIPTS for publication, exchange JOURNALS, and BOOKS for review should be sent to the Editor of LANGUAGE (Sarah G. Thomason, Dept. of Linguistics, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15260). Manuscripts of articles should be submitted in THREE copies, and manuscripts of reviews in TWO; they will not be returned unless postage is provided by contributors. LSA membership is not required for publication and manuscripts from non-LSA members are welcome.

An abbreviated LSA Style Sheet is provided below. For the complete Style Sheet, see the December LSA Bulletin.

Manuscript form. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced throughout (including footnotes, quotations, and reference list) on $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ inch heavy-weight bond paper (ONE SIDE ONLY), with no less than $1\frac{1}{2}$ inch margins on all four sides. Tables, charts, diagrams, extended quotations, and other passages to be set in smaller type (though not simple rules, examples, or formulae) must each appear on a separate sheet. All pages of the manuscript must be in a single pagination.

Abstract. Each manuscript submitted for publication should be accompanied by an abstract of about 100 words, summarizing the conceptual content of the article. It should be typed on a separate sheet of paper.

Text. Use only single quotation marks—never double except for quotes within quotes. Use a single straight underscore to indicate italic type, a double underscore for SMALL CAPITALS. Use normal capitalization. A letter, word, phrase, or sentence cited as a linguistic example or subject of discussion appears in italics—or else in phonetic or phonemic transcription, enclosed in square brackets or in slant lines.

Citations. Brief citations given in the text should take such forms as 'Examples are given in Nichols 1986', 'Bloomfield (1933:264) introduced the term ...', or 'Many coastal languages of the Northwest had sounds intermediate between nasal and voiced oral stops (Kinkade 1985).'

Footnotes. All footnotes must be typed (with double spacing) on a sheet or series of sheets following the main text. They must never appear on the same sheet with the text.

References. Full citation of literature referred to should be given in a bibliography at the end of each article or review, beginning on a separate page with the heading REFERENCES, and arranged alphabetically by surnames of authors. The format should be consistent with the following examples:
