The Dynamics of International Law
Paul F. Diehl and Charlotte Ku
Cambridge University Press

From the publisher:
Paul F. Diehl and Charlotte Ku's new framework for international law divides it into operating and normative systems. The authors provide a theory of how these two systems interact, which explains how changes in one system precipitate changes and create capacity in the other. A punctuated equilibrium theory of system evolution, drawn from studies of biology and public policy studies, provides the basis for delineating the conditions for change and helps explain a pattern of international legal change that is often infrequent and sub-optimal, but still influential.

Paul F. Diehl is the Henning Larsen Professor of Political Science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Charlotte Ku is the assistant dean for graduate and international programs and directs the College's Graduate and International Studies Program at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.
