CLAUSE STRUCTURE AND WORD ORDER IN HEBREW AND ARABIC

UR SHLONSKY

Shlonsky uses Chomsky's Government and Binding Approach to examine clausal architecture and verb movement in Hebrew and several varieties of Arabic. He establishes a syntactic analysis of Hebrew and then extends that analysis to certain aspects of Arabic clausal syntax.

LITERACY AND SCRIPT REFORM IN OCCUPATION JAPAN

Reading Between the Lines

J. MARSHALL UNGER

This book challenges the widespread belief that overzealous Americans forced unnecessary script reforms on an unprepared, unenthusiastic, but helpless Japan during the Occupation. Unger presents neglected historical evidence showing that the reforms implemented from 1946 to 1959 were both necessary and moderate.

UNDERSTANDING CULTURES THROUGH THEIR KEY WORDS

English, Russian, Polish, German, and Japanese

ANNA WIERZBICKA

In this groundbreaking book, Wierzbicka demonstrates that every language has its "key concepts" and that they reflect the core values of the culture. Further, she argues that within a culture-independent analytical framework one can study, compare, and even explain cultures to outsiders through their key concepts.

THE DISCOURSE OF CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Exploring the Nature of Linguistic Simplicity

PAUL BRUTHIAUX

Linguists who have studied simplified varieties of a given language, such as pidgins or the language of caregivers, have tended to explain similarities in their structure by the fact that they use the same mechanisms of simplification. Bruthiaux tests this idea by looking at the structure of classified ads in American English, including automobile sales, apartments for rent, help wanted, and personal ads.

1997 LSA Linguistic Institute

LANGUAGES IN LINGUISTICS

Cornell University, Ithaca, NY, USA June 23–August 1, 1997

Overview

The 1997 LSA Linguistic Institute is hosted by the School of Continuing Education and Summer Sessions and the Department of Linguistics at Cornell University. The program will emphasize the interdependence of theoretical linguistic inquiry and empirical investigations of particular natural languages. More than eighty courses are planned, including both specialized and introductory courses in many areas; most run for two or four weeks. There will also be courses on the linguistics of many particular languages, families, and areas; many courses will offer comparative perspectives. Ten of the courses comprise the Second Chinese Linguistic Institute, cosponsored by the Chiang Ching-kuo Foundation and directed by C.-T. James Huang. Conferences and workshops have thus far been scheduled on African linguistics, Japanese and Korean linguistics, comparative Germanic, indigenous languages in the Americas, acquisition of East Asian languages, comparative semantics, discourse analysis, teaching linguistics, and survival skills for women in linguistics.

Faculty

Distinguished linguists from around the world will join Cornell faculty from the Departments of Linguistics, of Modern Languages, of Asian Studies, of Human Development and Family Studies, of Philosophy, and of Psychology to teach in the Institute. Ives Goddard, Curator, Department of Anthropology at the Smithsonian Institution, is the 43rd Hermann and Klara Collitz Professor. Peter Ladefoged, Professor Emeritus of Linguistics at UCLA, is the 7th Edward Sapir Professor.

- Sound: Phonology and phonetics
- Words and sentences: Syntax, semantics and morphology
- Languages (and linguistics) through time and space: Historical linguistics, linguistic geography, creolistics, history of linguistics
- Languages beyond the first: Second language acquisition theory (SLA) and applied linguistics
- Language in social interaction and cognition: Sociolinguistics, pragmatics, discourse, psycholinguistics, computational linguistics and philosophy of language

Information

Some fellowships will be available for full-time students. A complete list of courses currently scheduled to be offered as well as workshops and conferences can be found in the June 1996 issue of the LSA Bulletin and at the Cornell web site listed below. Application forms for admission and for fellowships are available in the Bulletin or from the LSA Secretariat, 1325 18th Street, N.W., Suite 211, Washington, DC 20036.

Cloth approx. US$ 147.00 ISBN 3-11-015057-3
(Studies in Generative Grammar 43)
Mouton de Gruyter

This monograph presents the results of a syntactic and focus-theoretical investigation of secondary predication constructions. The multilayered account shows that although the various types of secondary predication constructions have many aspects in common, they differ with respect to their distributional, binding-theoretic, and focus structure properties.

Color and Cognition in Mesoamerica
Constructing Categories as Vantages
BY ROBERT E. MACLAURY

More than 100 indigenous languages are spoken in Mexico and Central America. Each language partitions the color spectrum according to a pattern that is unique in some way. But every local system of color categories also shares characteristics with the systems of other Mesoamerican languages and of languages elsewhere in the world. In this book, Robert E. MacLaury presents the results of the Mesoamerican Color Survey, which he conducted in 1978–1981. Drawn from interviews with 900 speakers of some 116 Mesoamerican languages, the book provides a sweeping overview of the organization and semantics of color categorization in modern Mesoamerica. Extensive analysis and MacLaury's use of vantage theory reveal complex and often surprising interrelationships among the ways languages categorize colors. His findings offer valuable cross-cultural data for all students of Mesoamerica. They will also be of interest to all linguistics and cognitive scientists working on theories of categorization more generally.

THE LANGUAGE OF CAMBRIDGE

Now in paperback...

Speakers, Listeners and Communication

Explorations in Discourse Analysis

Gillian Brown

Gillian Brown draws on a wide range of examples of discourse analysis to explore the ways in which speakers and listeners use language collaboratively to talk about what they can see in front of them and about a series of events. The focus of her attention is upon the listener's role, as the listener tries to make sense of what the speaker says in a highly constrained context.

Personal Pronouns in Present-Day English

Katie Wales

In this comprehensive analysis of personal pronouns in present-day English, Katie Wales examines a wide range of discourses, texts and varieties of English around the world. Her approach is pragmatic and functional, rather than formal, and her concern is with speakers and writers and their uses of language in social, cultural and rhetorical contexts. The discussion is illustrated with numerous examples of the usage of personal pronouns and also of reflexives and possessives.

Credibility in Court

Communicative Practices in the Camorra Trials

Marco Jacquemet

The Camorra trials in Naples involved more than a thousand people charged with belonging to a criminal organization, the Nuova Camorra Organizzata. After some key witnesses turned against their former associates and collaborated with the Justice Department, more than 800 people were convicted, but in the appeal their credibility was destroyed and the majority were acquitted. To investigate this dramatic reversal of the defendants' convictions, Jacquemet combines analysis of talk and power technologies with a reflection on truth and credibility as communicative representations.

Argument Structure and Grammatical Relations

Christopher D. Manning

Languages considered "ergative" have only been sparsely studied, and many fundamental questions in their analysis seem at best incompletely answered. This volume considers and examines some of the phenomena that have led languages to be considered "ergative".

NOAM CHOMSKY
A Life of Dissent
Robert F. Barsky

"...recounts (the known and the little known) facts of Chomksy's life, evaluates his linguistic contribution and surveys the main quarrels. This is an essential book not only for Chomsky affecionados and adversaries, but for all students of American political and intellectual life." — Russell Jacoby, UCLA

256 pp., 29 illus. $27.50

Original in Paperback

LOCAL ECONOMY
Chris Collins

"This will provoke a great deal of constructive discussion and debate among syntacticians of all kinds. Collins has done an especially good job of making the work accessible to those of us who didn't 'grow up' in Building 20." — Molly Diesing, Cornell University

Linguistic Inquiry Monograph 29
160 pp. $17.50 paper

ELEMENTARY OPERATIONS AND OPTIMAL DERIVATIONS
Hisatsugu Kitahara

Concerned with the basic operations of the computational system underlying grammar, and with the grammatical principles that constrain linguistic derivations to be optimal.

Linguistic Inquiry Monograph 31
160 pp. $15 paper (May)

WAYS OF MEANING
An Introduction to a Philosophy of Language second edition
Mark Platts

"Finally, Ways of Meaning is back! The book remains as it was: a readable, uncluttered, introductory work. Platts has added a section on natural kind terms, as well as some bibliographical references for those who wish to follow the direction of current research. The net result is an intact version of the original, along with some very helpful additions. This is a godsend." — Peter Ludlow, SUNY at Stony Brook

326 pp., 3 illus. $25 (April)

LEXICAL COMPETENCE
Diego Marconi

"What does it take to understand a word? This exemplarily lucid and up-to-date book by one of the leaders of analytic philosophy's current upsurge in continental Europe has plenty to teach philosophers, linguists and cognitive scientists about the answer." — Timothy Williamson, University of Edinburgh

Language, Speech, and Communication series.
A Bradford Book
216 pp., 5 illus. $22.50 (May)

FINITE-STATE LANGUAGE PROCESSING
edited by Emmanuel Roche and Yves Schabes

"This compendium will be one of the most important contributions to computational linguistics of the last ten years." — Franz Guenthner, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München

Language, Speech, and Communication series.
A Bradford Book
472 pp. $45 (April)

INFORMATION FOR CONTRIBUTORS

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

MANUSCRIPTS for publication and exchange JOURNALS should be sent to the Editor of LANGUAGE (Mark Aronoff, Dept. of Linguistics, SUNY Stony Brook, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4376) BOOKS for review should be sent to the Review Editor (Edwin Battistella, 209 Humanities, Wayne State College, Wayne, NE 68787). Manuscripts of articles and reviews should be submitted in FOUR copies; they will not be returned. LSA membership is not required for publication and manuscripts from non-LSA members are welcome.

An abbreviated LSA Style Sheet is provided below. For the complete Style Sheet, see the December LSA Bulletin or write to the editors.

Manuscript form. Manuscripts should be typed double-spaced throughout (including footnotes, quotations, and reference list) on $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ inch heavy-weight bond paper (ONE SIDE ONLY), with no less than 1 inch margins on all four sides. Type size should not be smaller than 12 characters per inch. Tables, charts, diagrams, extended quotations, and other passages to be set in smaller type (though not simple rules, examples, or formulae) must each appear on a separate sheet. All pages of the manuscript must be in a single pagination.

Abstract. Each manuscript submitted for publication should be accompanied by an abstract of about 100 words, summarizing the conceptual content of the article. It should be typed on a separate sheet of paper.

Text. Use only single quotation marks—never double except for quotes within quotes. Use a single straight underscore to indicate italic type, a double underscore for SMALL CAPITALS. Use normal capitalization. A letter, word, phrase, or sentence cited as a linguistic example or subject of discussion appears in italics—or else in phonetic or phonemic transcription, enclosed in square brackets or in slant lines.

Citations. Brief citations given in the text should take such forms as 'Examples are given in Nichols 1986', 'Bloomfield (1933:264) introduced the term ...', or 'Many coastal languages of the Northwest had sounds intermediate between nasal and voiced oral stops (Kinkade 1985).'

Footnotes. All footnotes must be typed (with double spacing) on a sheet or series of sheets following the main text. They must never appear on the same sheet with the text.

References. Full citation of literature referred to should be given in a bibliography at the end of each article or review, beginning on a separate page with the heading REFERENCES, and arranged alphabetically by surnames of authors. The format should be consistent with the following examples:

Bloomfield, Leonard. 1933. Language. New York: Holt.

Bolinger, Dwight. 1965. The atomization of meaning. Language 41.555–73.

Brugmann, Karl. 1906. Grundriss der vergleichenden Grammatik der indogermanischen Sprachen. 2nd edn., vol. 2, part 1. Strassburg: Trübner.
