Graduate Students Attend Meeting with APSA Assistance

In an effort to assist graduate students to participate in the Annual Meeting, the Association awarded 58 Advanced Graduate Student Travel Grants for the 2004 meeting in Chicago, twice as many as last year. The names and institutional affiliations of the 2004 winners follow.

Elizabeth Addonizio, Yale University
Richard G. Avramenko, Georgetown University
Joseph Bafumi, Columbia University
Isabelle V. Barker, Rutgers University
Brandon L. Bartels, Ohio State University
Carew Elizabeth Boulding, University of California, San Diego
Michael J. Bosia, Northwestern University
Shannon L. Bow, University of California, San Diego
Brent David Boyea, Rice University
William Brenner, Johns Hopkins University
Jonathan Chaus, University of Texas, Austin
Julie Chernov, University of Colorado, Boulder
Michael Crespin, Michigan State University
Mai'a Keapuolani Davis Cross, Princeton University
Kathleen A. Gallagher, University of California, San Diego
Arielle Goldberg, CUNY, Graduate Center
Ethan J. Hollander, University of California, San Diego
William Hurst, University of California, Berkeley
Shelley L. Hurt, New School for Social Research
Susan Dayton Hyde, University of California, San Diego
Leigh K. Jenco, University of Chicago
William A. Jennings, University of Tennessee
Sara R. Jordan, Texas A&M University
Daniel Kinderman, Cornell University
Jason A. Kirk, University of Pennsylvania
Katerina Linos, Harvard University
Stephen B. Long, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Elizabeth Markovits, University of North Carolina
Derek S. Merrill, University of Florida
Jeremy John Mhire, Louisiana State University
Dawn Miller, Pennsylvania State University
Ken Moffett, University of Iowa
Daniel S. Morey, University of Iowa
Abraham Newman, University of California, Berkeley
Darius Ornston, University of California, Berkeley
Shannon Kathryn Orr, Wayne State University
Antoinette Pole, CUNY, Graduate Center
Stephanie Rickard, University of California, San Diego
Patrick S. Roberts, University of Virginia
Arcelia Rodriguez, University of Maryland, College Park
Idean Salehyan, University of California, San Diego
Tammy S. Schultz, Georgetown University
Vivek S. Sharma, New York University
Bryan Thomas Shelly, Princeton University
Scott Siegel, Cornell University
Gregory Allen Smith, University of Virginia
Jennifer K. Smith, Yale University
Jae-Jae Spoon, University of Michigan
Patricia Lynne Sullivan, University of California, Davis
Ashley Anne Thomas, Georgetown University
Nicholas Vaccaro, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
Mark Ian Vail, University of California, Berkeley
Matthew J. Voorhees, Rutgers University
Gloria C. Walker, University of California, Davis
Chris Weible, University of California, Davis
Jason Wells, University of Missouri, Columbia
Amy Lynn Widsten, Columbia University
Dana Zartner Falstrom, University of California, Davis

International Scholar Travel Grants

Fifty-eight senior and graduate student international scholars benefited from the APSA travel grant program this year. Thirty-six grants to scholars representing 21 countries were awarded for travel expenses and lodging in Chicago. All award winners were APSA members and participants in the 2004 Annual Meeting program.

Twenty-two international advanced graduate students studying at U.S. universities were also awarded travel grants to help defray their costs to attend the 2004 meeting. All awardees presented papers or posters at the meeting and all were advanced graduate students who had almost completed their dissertations.

International Scholars at U.S. Institutions
Gustavo Cano, University of California, San Diego
Paola Cesarini, Columbia University
Sung-Ju Cho, University of Virginia
Rachel Cremona, SUNY, Binghamton
Johan Eliasson, Maxwell School, Syracuse University
Leonardo A. Gatica-Arreola, University of Texas, Austin
Farah Godrej, Georgetown University
Yinan He, Harvard University
Turan Kayaoglu, University of Washington
Jinee Lokaneeta, University of Southern California
Hadii M. Mamudu, West Virginia University
Carlos Maravall, New York University
Cecilia Martinez-Gallardo, Columbia University
Rebecca S. Murphy, Columbia University
Kwaku Nuamah, Brown University
Zsolt Nyiri, University of Connecticut
Karthika Sasikumar, Cornell University
Si Kyung Seong, University of Pittsburgh
Sangbum Shin, Indiana University
Udaya Wagle, University of Massachusetts, Boston
Takakazu Yamagishi, Johns Hopkins University
Jungkeun Yoon, Claremont Graduate University

International Scholars & Graduate Students
Gergana Atanasova, Sofia University, Bulgaria
Cameron Anderson, McGill University, Canada
Marella Bodur, Carleton University, Canada
Sergio Catignani, King's College London, United Kingdom
Roman David, University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa
Gorana Doric, University of Nis, Serbia
Rabab El-Mahdi, McGill University, Canada (Egypt)
Jocelyn Evans, University of Salford, United Kingdom
Ana Maria Evans de Carvalho, Portugal
Alexander Fischer, University of Heidelberg, Germany
Effie Fokas, London School of Economics, United Kingdom (Greece)
Brigette Geissel, Social Science Research Center, Germany
Elizabeth Goodyear-Grant, McGill University, Canada
Jayantha Jayman, University of Toronto, Canada
Joseph Joseph, University of Cyprus
Luke Keele, Nuffield College, Oxford Uni-

https://doi.org/10.1017/S1049096504045494 Published online by Cambridge University Press

versity, United Kingdom
Enver Kisriev, Dagestan Scientific Center, Russia
Oleg Kodolov, University of Western Ontario, Canada
Thomas Koelble, University of Cape Town, South Africa
Rajesh Kumar, P.P.N. College, Kanpur, India
Gul Kurtoglu, Dokuz Eylul University, Turkey
Sunghack Lim, Kyungnam University, South Korea
Georg Menz, Goldsmiths College, United Kingdom
Diane Mulligan, Indonesian Development Services, Indonesia
David Palmieri, Universite de Montreal, Canada
Nanad Popovic, University of Nis, Serbia
Riccardo Puglisi, London School of Economics, United Kingdom
Lucia Quaglia, University of Limerick, Ireland
Ingrid Robeyns, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands
Olivier Ruchet, Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Paris, France
Carsten Schneider, European University Institute, Italy
Gita Subrahmanyam, London School of Economics, United Kingdom
Chia-Hung Tsai, Election Study Center, Taiwan
Hongyuan Yu, Lingnan University of Hong Kong, China
Claudius Wagemann, European University Institute, Italy
Yanlai Wang, University of Limerick, Ireland (China)

International Scholar Travel Grants

Kensuke Takayasu, Waseda University and London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)
Ryosuke Amiya-Nakada, Kobe University

Political Studies Association (British)

John Gray, London School of Economics
Glen Newey, University of Strathclyde
John Horton, Keele University
John Riley, Tulane University
Glyn Morgan, Harvard University

Ralph Bunche Summer Institute Participants Present Work at 2004 Annual Meeting

Ten outstanding students from the 2004 Ralph Bunche Summer Institute (RBSI) participated at this year's Annual Meeting in Chicago. The students presented their research at the American Politics II Poster Session, with topics ranging from the effect of the mainstream media to post-September 11th anxiety. Students were accompanied at the meeting by former RBSI student Tehama Lopez, RBSI class of 2000 and now a doctoral student at the University of Chicago. This year's class of RBSI students and the research they presented at this year's meeting:

Porsha Cropper, Stanford University
"Cooperation v. Conflict: The Social Psychological Underpinnings of Perceived Group Threat and Linked Fate Among African Americans and Latinos in the City of Los Angeles"

Olufunmbi Elemo, Ball State University
"Political Recompense: Linking Descriptive and Substantiative U.S. Congressional Representation through Shared Experiences"

Rosalyn Foster, Amherst College
"You Mean Going to Church Is Good for Me? A Study of the Effects of African American and Latino Religious Feelings on the Political Process in the United States"

Saleema Moore, Dartmouth College
"The Substantive Nature of Political Participation: Motivations for Being Politically Active"

Davin Phoenix, Christopher Newport University
"Black Images and Blurred Visions: Examining the Effect of Exposure to Mainstream Media on the Political Trust Levels of African Americans"

Hugo Salazar, University of California, Irvine
"Church is More than Free Wafers: Latino Church Attendance and Political Activity"

Sedrick Walker, Texas A & M University
"Minority Legislative Activity and Success: An Analysis of the Texas House of Representatives"

Eugene Walton, Truman State University
"Public Opinion and Foreign Policy: Race, Gender, and Political Alienation on Perceptions of Military Intervention in Iraq"

Michael Woldemariam, Beloit College
"In Search of Fear: Terrorism and the Determinants of Anxiety Post 9-11"

Lisa Ybarra, Whittier College
"Cultural Proximity: An Analysis on Latino Subgroup Positions on Abortions"

APSA's Ralph Bunche Summer Institute is a five-week program for minority undergraduate students interested in pursuing a doctoral degree in political science. The Institute is hosted by Duke University and is supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation. For more information or to download an application for next summer's Institute, visit the APSA web site at http://www.apsanet.org/about/minority/rbsi.cfm or email minority@apsanet.org.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S1049096504045494 Published online by Cambridge University Press