"An urgent call to arms

about the impending loss of one of our great resources. Nettle and Romaine paint a breathtaking landscape that shows why so many of the world's languages are disappearing and more importantly, why it matters.... Along the way it's also a fascinating introduction to how language works: how languages are born, how they die, and how we can prevent their death."

— Deborah Tannen, Georgetown University

"Language extinction is a great tragedy for human culture and for scholarship on all things human. This fascinating book is the latest word on this important issue, containing a wealth of knowledge and wisdom. If we have the good sense to rescue the priceless legacy of linguistic diversity before it vanishes forever, Vanishing Voices will surely deserve a good part of the credit."

—Steven Pinker, author of The Language Instinct

Emerging English Modals

A Corpus-Based Study of Grammaticalization

2000. 23 x 15,5 cm. 240 pages.
Cloth. DM 148,– / approx. US$ 74.00
• ISBN 3-11-016654-2
(Topics in English Linguistics 32)

This is the first monograph to provide a detailed account of the fundamental changes which have recently affected – and which are still affecting – the system of English auxiliaries.

On account of its innovative approach and empirical scope, this study will serve as the standard reference work on English modal constructions.

Jacob L. Mey

When Voices Clash

A Study in Literary Pragmatics

2000. 23 x 15.5 cm. XV, 454 pages.
Paperback DM 68,– / approx. US$ 34.00
• ISBN 3-11-015821-3
Hardcover DM 208,– / approx. US$ 104.00
• ISBN 3-11-015820-5
(Trends in Linguistics. Studies and Monographs 115)

Rooted in the pragmatics of literature, this study presents an inquiry into the way divergent, implicit or explicit, points of view of literary characters ("voices") may clash with each other, thus potentially derailing the entire narrative engine.

Jonathan Owens (Editor)

Arabic as a Minority Language

2000. 23 x 15,5 cm. XI, 458 pages.
Cloth. DM 248,– / approx. US$ 124.00
• ISBN 3-11-016578-3
(Contributions to the Sociology of Language 83)

The present book will be the first to center on the status of Arabic as a minority language. In the first instance, it will focus attention on the existence of many varieties of Arabic outside the Arabic world. It will contribute further to the growing literature on minority languages, placing a special emphasis on the relationship between minority status and language form.

Gerd Carling

Die Funktionen der lokalen Kasus im Tocharischen

2000. 23 x 15,5 cm. Approx. 465 pages.
Cloth. DM 178,– / approx. US$ 89.00
• ISBN 3-11-016827-8

This volume deals with the use of the local cases in Tocharian A and Tocharian B, Indo-European languages of the Tarim Basin, Eastern Central Asia, of the 6th–9th centuries AD.

The Structure of Modern English

A linguistic introduction

LAUREL J. BRINTON
University of British Columbia

Complete with an exercise CD, The Structure of Modern English is an extensive introduction to all aspects of Modern English structure, including:

- Phonology
- Morphology
- Lexical and sentence semantics
- Syntax
- Pragmatics

This text is for advanced undergraduate (and graduate) students interested in contemporary English, especially those whose primary area of interest is English as a second language, secondary or primary-school education, English stylistics, theoretical and applied linguistics, or speech pathology.

Focus is exclusively on English data, providing an empirical explication of the structure of the language, rather than exploring theoretical questions or theory for theory's sake. The text does use linguistic theory but presupposes little or no background in linguistics or any particular linguistic predilection.

The textbook begins with units on English phonology and morphology, including a full discussion of the grammatical categories of English. A section on lexical semantics follows which examines structural semantics, modal auxiliaries, lexical aspect and related topics. The next section analyzes — in detail — English syntax from a broadly generative perspective. Then there is an examination of the interaction of syntax and semantics with respect to thematic roles and event structure.

A final section covers the study of information structuring, speech act theory, and conversational maxims.

Accompanying the text is a pedagogically useful CD-ROM that is a complete workbook with numerous self-testing exercises.

Additionally, the CD presents suggestions for pedagogical applications of the material in the textbook in a teachers section.

Examination copies on request.

INFORMATION FOR CONTRIBUTORS

LANGUAGE, the journal of the Linguistic Society of America, carries technical articles dealing with problems of linguistic science, reviews of recently published linguistic works, and notes of interest to professional linguists.

MANUSCRIPTS for publication and exchange JOURNALS should be sent to the Editor of LANGUAGE (Mark Aronoff, Dept. of Linguistics, SUNY Stony Brook, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4376) BOOKS for review should be sent to the Review Editor (Edwin Battistella, School of Arts & Letters, Southern Oregon University, 1250 Siskiyou Blvd., Ashland, OR 97520). Manuscripts of articles and reviews should be submitted in FOUR ANONYMOUS copies; they will not be returned. Normally at least one author of any article or review article submitted to LANGUAGE must be a member of the Society.

Manuscript form. Authors of articles submitted to LANGUAGE are not asked to follow the LANGUAGE style sheet in preparing their manuscripts for initial submission to LANGUAGE. There is no restriction on the format of manuscripts, although authors should make their submissions as reader-friendly as possible. Any manuscript, however, that has been accepted for publication as an article will have to be revised so as to conform strictly to the LANGUAGE style sheet. For the complete style sheet, see the December LSA Bulletin, the LANGUAGE web page at http://semlab2.sbs.sunysb.edu/Language/language.html, or write to the editors.

This policy does not apply to book reviews and book notices. These are all solicited by the Review Editor and they must adhere as closely as possible to the LANGUAGE style sheet on first submission.
