Norton, Kohli Named as Program Co-Chairs for 100th Annual Meeting

APSA is pleased to announce that Anne Norton and Atul Kohli have been named Program Committee Co-Chairs for the 2004 Annual Meeting, scheduled to meet in Chicago, September 2–5.

Anne Norton joined the political science faculty at the University of Pennsylvania in 1993 where she has taught courses on contemporary political philosophy, history of literary theory, and American popular culture. Her areas of research include identity and history, gender and race, colonialism and post-colonialism, and tradition and revolution.

Norton's most recent book is Blood Rites of the Poststructuralists: Word, Flesh and Revolution (Routledge, 2002). She has also authored Republic of Signs: Liberal Theory and American Popular Culture (University of Chicago, 1993), and Reflections on Political Identity (Johns Hopkins University Press, 1988).

Norton has served as a council member and chair of Organized Section on Politics and History and in January 2003 will assume the position of APSA liasion to the American Council of Learned Societies.

She received her Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1982 and has previously served on the faculty at the University of Texas, Austin, Princeton University, and the University of Notre Dame.

Atul Kohli is the David K. E. Bruce Professor of International Affairs at Princeton University. His scholarly interests span political sociology, politics, and the political economy of development. He has just completed a major book, In Search of Development: Constructing States and Industry in the Global Periphery. His other publications include, The State and Poverty in India (Cambridge University Press, 1987), Democracy and Discontent (Cambridge University Press, 1991), State Power and Social Forces (Cambridge University Press, 1995), and States, Markets and Just Growth (forthcoming). He is the editor of the journal World Politics.

Kohli has served the Association in a number of positions, including at term on the APSA Council (1999-2001). He has organized panels for both the divisions of 'Politics of Developing Countries' and 'Comparatrive Democratization,' currently serves as the Secretary and Treasurer of the Organized Section on Comparative Politics, and is an Associate Editor of the Association's new journal, Perspectives on Politics.

The 2004 meeting in Chicago will mark the 100th gathering of the Association. Special programming commemorating this historic milestone will take place throughout the meeting. The overall theme developed by Norton and Kohli will be announced in the April issue of PS, and the Call for Papers will appear in the 2003 Final Program, the October issue of PS, and online in early September, 2003 at www.apsanet.org. Proposals will be accepted for the 2004 meeting beginning in early September through November 15, 2003.

A LOOK AHEAD

Here's an early look at some of the articles you'll see in the April PS.

Symposium

Sheep in Wolves' Clothing: Undeclared Voters in New Hampshire's Open Primary
Linda L Fowler, Constantine J. Spilotes, and Lynn Vavreck

Candidates and Candidacies in the Expanded Party
Jonathan Bernstein and Casey B. K. Dominguez

The Rise and Fall of the 2000 Rocky Mountain Regional Primary
Andrew E. Busch

Presidential Nomination Campaigns: Toward 2004
Paul-Henri Gurian and Audrey A. Haynes

Re-reading the Tea Leaves: New Hampshire as a Barometer of Presidential Primary Success
Dante J. Scala

Can the Internet Help Outside Candidates Win the Presidential Nomination?
Philip Paolino and Daron R. Shaw

Campaigning to Govern: Presidents Seeking Reelection
Kathryn Dunn Tenpas

Features

Don't Have the Data? Make them Up! Congressional Archives as Untapped Data Sources
Scott A. Frisch and Sean Q. Kelly

The Teacher

To Survey or Not to Survey: The Use of Exit Polling as a Teaching Tool
Alexandra Cole

Teacher Symposium: Youth Civic Development

A collection of seven articles that explores efforts to engage young Americans in politics and civic education.

Profession

Journals in the Discipline: A Report on a New Survey of Political Scientists
Micheal Giles and James C. Garand

Visit PSonline for a full table of contents and links to the these articles at www.apsanet.org/PS/.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S1049096503001835 Published online by Cambridge University Press