INDEX

This is a cumulative index, covering people, places, topics, and events. All entries refer to page numbers, not letter/item numbers. Numbers in bold indicate authors and (on those few occasions when Henry Cromwell was not the intended recipient) addressees of the letters. Numbers in italics point to footnotes giving significant (generally biographical) information.

Peers are indexed under their title, not their family name. Women are indexed under the surname they held at their first appearance in this collection. Thus Oliver Cromwell's daughters Bridget and Elizabeth are consistently shown as 'Fleetwood, Bridget, née Cromwell' and 'Claypole, Elizabeth, née Cromwell' respectively, as they were married from the outset. However, Oliver Cromwell's other two daughters, Frances and Mary, are consistently indexed under 'Cromwell', as they were both single in 1655–1656 when first mentioned here, even though in 1657, midway through this correspondence, both married and so took new surnames.

People with identical or very similar surnames, but mentioned in different letters and with insufficient supporting information to be sure they are the same person, have been indexed separately. Thus, for example, the Mr Alden mentioned on page 483 may be one and the same as the Mr Allden mentioned on page 350, but, with little further available information about their identity/identities, this remains unproven, and so they have been indexed separately here.
