Contributors

Aaron Tang is a PhD scholar at the Australian National University's Fenner School of Environment and Society in Canberra, Australia. He investigates the feasibility, desirability and governance of last-ditch efforts to address climate change.

Alexandria Feruglio is a research associate at the ANU Centre for European Studies. She has worked as an energy advisor in the Australian Government and her research interests include energy and climate change policy, economic diplomacy, and climate-induced migration.

Alfredo Ferrante is an associate professor in Comparative Law at the University of Pavia in Italy.

Alina Holzhausen is a researcher in Environmental and Climate Change Law at the British Institute for International and Comparative Law in London, UK, and a PhD candidate at the University of Aberdeen.

Andreas Hösli is a senior associate at Walder Wyss Ltd and a PhD candidate at the University of Zürich in Switzerland. He is also a visiting researcher at the University of Oslo in Norway and a national rapporteur for Switzerland in the Peer Review Network of Global Climate Litigation at the Sabin Center for Climate Change Law, Columbia University, New York.

Broneal Sarkosh-Nejad is a research associate at the ANU Centre for European Studies. His research interests include great power competition and regional and supranational organisations, with a particular focus on Europe and the Indo-Pacific.

Ilaria Conti is head of Gas at the Florence School of Regulation of the European University Institute in Florence, Italy. Her main fields of expertise encompass the European Union's institutional relations and EU electricity and gas regulation.

Downloaded from https://www.cambridge.org/core. UNIVERSIDAD AUTONOMA METROPOLITANA, on 16 Nov 2026 at 03:28:12, subject to the Cambridge Core terms of use, available at https://www.cambridge.org/core/terms. https://doi.org/10.1017/9781009341493

Ivano Alogna is research leader in Environmental and Climate Change Law at the British Institute for International and Comparative Law in London, UK.

Joshua Woodyatt is a research associate at the ANU Centre for European Studies. His research spans issues of law and foreign policy and is mainly focused on Germany and the German-speaking world.

Katarzyna Kwapisz Williams is deputy director and Jean Monnet research fellow at the ANU Centre for European Studies. She is a cultural scholar whose research is focused, among others, on cultural history, cross-cultural relations, memory and identity making.

Laura Magi is an associate professor in international law at the Department of Legal Studies of the University of Florence, Italy.

Natalie K. Arnould is a research officer at the Centre for European Studies of the Australian National University in Canberra. She holds a master's degree from Uppsala University, focusing on Russian security policy.

Nicolò Rossetto is a research fellow in the Energy Division of the Florence School of Regulation at the European University Institute.

Oran R. Young is a distinguished professor emeritus at the Bren School of Environment Science and Management of the University of Santa Barbara in the United States. He has extensive expertise on institutional and international governance and environmental institutions.

Pablo Cristóbal Jiménez Lobeira is a research associate at the Australian National University Centre for European Studies. His research explores political philosophy topics in, or relating to, Europe.

Patrizia Vigni is an associate professor in international law at the Department of Business and Legal Studies of the University of Siena, Italy.

Pierre Schlosser is deputy director of the Florence School of Banking and Finance at the European University Institute.

Radu Mares is an associate professor at the Raoul Wallenberg Institute of Human Rights and Humanitarian Law, University of Lund, Sweden.

Downloaded from https://www.cambridge.org/core. UNIVERSIDAD AUTONOMA METROPOLITANA, on 16 Nov 2026 at 03:28:12, subject to the Cambridge Core terms of use, available at https://www.cambridge.org/core/terms. https://doi.org/10.1017/9781009341493

Robert V. Bartlett is Gund professor of liberal arts at the Rubenstein School of Environment and Natural Resources of the University of Vermont, USA.

Roberto Buizza is full professor of physics at Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna in Pisa, Italy, and honorary research fellow at the Imperial College London Grantham Institute for Climate Change. In 1991–2018 he worked at the European Centre for Medium-Range Weather Forecasts, and in 2022–2023 he served as scientific attaché at the Embassy of Italy to the United Kingdom.

Stefano Verde is assistant professor in the Department of Economics and Statistics at the University of Siena, Italy.

Wenting Cheng is a sessional lecturer at the College of Law of the Australian National University in Canberra.

Downloaded from https://www.cambridge.org/core. UNIVERSIDAD AUTONOMA METROPOLITANA, on 16 Nov 2026 at 03:28:12, subject to the Cambridge Core terms of use, available at https://www.cambridge.org/core/terms. https://doi.org/10.1017/9781009341493