VOLUME 43 NUMBER 1 SUMMER 2026

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599

Social Philosophy & Policy

Human Capital and Human Flourishing

Guest Editors: Ross B. Emmett and C. Tyler DesRoches

Editor: David Schmidtz

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Social Philosophy & Policy

ISSN 0265-0525

Editor: David Schmidtz
Executive Editors: Fred D. Miller, Jr. and Jeffrey Paul
Associate Editors: Carmen Pavel, Bas van der Vossen, Jason Brennan, and Jacob T. Levy
Administrative Editor: Tamara Sharp
Managing Editor: Lynn A. Jansen
Production Editor: Carrie-Ann Biondi

Editorial Board

Jennifer Baker
College of Charleston

Allen Buchanan
University of Arizona

Tyler Cowen
George Mason University

Richard A. Epstein
New York University School of Law

James S. Fishkin
Stanford University

Daniel Jacobson
University of Colorado, Boulder

Chandran Kukathas
Singapore Management University

Loren E. Lomasky
University of Virginia

Eric Mack
Tulane University

Harvey C. Mansfield
Harvard University

Michael C. Munger
Duke University

Molly McGrath
Assumption University

Mary Rigdon
University of Arizona

Geoffrey Sayre-McCord
University of North Carolina–Chapel Hill

Hillel Steiner
University of Manchester
University of Arizona

Project Editors

Adrian Blau
King's College London

Henry Clark
Dartmouth College

Andrew Jason Cohen
Georgia State University

Henry Edmondson
Georgia College and State University

Daniel Jacobson
University of Colorado, Boulder

Jacob T. Levy
McGill University

Dale Miller
Old Dominion University

Douglas Rasmussen
St. John's University (Emeritus)

Gregory Robson
University of Notre Dame

John Thrasher
The Ohio State University

Chad Van Schoelandt
Tulane University

Fabian Wendt
Virginia Tech University

Copyright © 2026 Social Philosophy and Policy Foundation

Printed by Sheridan, a CJK Group Company

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, in any form or by any means, electronic, photocopying or otherwise, without permission in writing from Social Philosophy & Policy. Photocopying information for users in the USA: The Item-Free Code for this publication (0265-0525/12 $15.00) indicates that copying for internal or personal use beyond that permitted by Sec. 107 or 108 of the U.S. Copyright Law is authorized for users duly registered with the Copyright Clearance Center (CCC) Transaction Reporting Service, provided that the appropriate remittance is paid directly to: CCC, 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923. Specific written permission must be obtained from Social Philosophy & Policy for all other copying.

Social Philosophy & Policy is a registered trademark owned by the Social Philosophy and Policy Foundation.

Printed in the United States of America

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

TABLE OF CONTENTS

DAVID SCHMIDTZ	Human Capital and Human Flourishing	1
NEERA K. BADHWAR	There Are Gods Present Even in Liberal Market Societies	11
MARGARET SCHABAS	All but in Name: Historical and Philosophical Reflections on the Theory of Human Capital	33
GINNY SEUNG CHOI AND VIRGIL HENRY STORR	Human Capital, Human Flourishing, and the Moral Desirability of Market Arrangements	58
RYAN PATRICK HANLEY	Human Flourishing and the Wealth of Nations: Adam Smith on Character Development and Institutional Design	78
BRIANNE WOLF	Patriotic Exceptions to Free Trade: Adam Smith and Political Judgment	99
TREVOR SHELLEY	Commerce, Democracy, and Fortune: Smith and Tocqueville on Equality and Chance	124
MARK LEBAR	Bastiat on Economic Harmony	143
EMMETT JAMES MCGROARTY AND BRENDAN IGNATIUS MCGROARTY	Subsidiarity, Mission, and the Moral Foundation of Commercial Society	163
ANDREW HUMPHRIES	Education for Flourishing: Factory Schools or Communities of Free and Self-governing Individuals?	183
JOSEPH PERSKY	Mill's Incomplete Political Economy of Socialist Competition	209

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

ALEXANDER W. CRAIG	Economists, Ethics, and Exemplars	221
SAMUEL GREGG	Culture, Institutions, and Markets: Insights from the Experience of Ordo-Liberalism	242

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

CONTRIBUTORS

David Schmidtz is Presidential Chair of Moral Science at West Virginia University and Editor-in-Chief of Social Philosophy & Policy.

Neera K. Badhwar is Professor of Philosophy (Emerita) at University of Oklahoma and a Senior Fellow in the Philosophy, Politics, and Economics Program at George Mason University. Most of her research has been on topics in ethical theory and moral psychology, including friendship, virtue ethics, self-interest and altruism, and well-being. She also works on issues in social and political philosophy, including the ethics of kidney sales, virtue ethics and libertarianism, the moral foundations of market societies, and virtue and entrepreneurship. She has authored dozens of articles in academic journals, including Ethics, Journal of Value Inquiry, and Journal of Philosophy, as well as the book Well-Being: Happiness in a Worthwhile Life (2014).

Margaret Schabas is Professor of Philosophy at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, Canada, and is a leading scholar in the history and philosophy of economics. She has published more than fifty articles or book chapters as well as five books. Her most recent book is A Philosopher's Economist: Hume and the Rise of Capitalism (2020; with Carl Wennerlind). She has held fellowships at Stanford University, Harvard University, Duke University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the London School of Economics. In 2022, she became a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada. Currently, she is writing a book that canvasses the philosophical roots of modern economics.

Ginny Seung Choi is a senior fellow in the F. A. Hayek Program in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics, Mercatus Center, George Mason University. She specializes in Austrian and experimental economics, with a focus on the moral and social aspects of markets. Her work in political economy has been published in academic journals and other scholarly outlets, including PLOS ONE, Journal of Institutional Economics, Public Choice, and Journal of Economic Behavior & Organization. She is coauthor of Do Markets Corrupt Our Morals? (2019; with Virgil Henry Storr).

Virgil Henry Storr is the Vice President of Academic and Student Programs at the Mercatus Center; a Professor of Economics in the Department of Economics, George Mason University; and the Don C. Lavoie

Senior Fellow in the F. A. Hayek Program in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics, Mercatus Center, George Mason University. His research focuses on Austrian economics, culture and economic development, markets and morality, post-disaster community recovery, and the social and economic history of the Bahamas. He is author of Enterprising Slaves & Master Pirates: Understanding Economic Life in the Bahamas (2004) and Understanding the Culture of Markets (2012), and is the coauthor of Community Revival in the Wake of Disaster: Lessons in Local Entrepreneurship (2015; with Stefanie Haeffele and Laura E. Grube) and Do Markets Corrupt Our Morals? (2019; with Ginny Seung Choi).

Ryan Patrick Hanley is the J. Joseph Moakley Professor of Political Science at Boston College. He is author of four books and sixty articles and chapters on Enlightenment political philosophy. His work on Adam Smith includes his authored books Adam Smith and the Character of Virtue (2009) and Our Great Purpose: Adam Smith on Living a Better Life (2019); an edited collection Adam Smith: His Life, Thought, and Legacy (2015); and scholarly articles published in journals such as Political Theory and Constellations. Most recently, he is author of The Political Philosophy of Fénelon (2020) and translator of a companion volume, Fénelon: Moral and Political Writings (2020).

Brianne Wolf is Assistant Professor of Political Theory at Michigan State University. Her research and teaching reflect on questions about the interaction between economics and politics, liberalism, and moral judgment, with a focus on the Scottish and French Enlightenments. She has published articles in journals such as History of Political Thought, Polity, and Review of Politics as well as in edited volumes. She is currently working on a book-length study of the role of taste in solving problems of individualism in the liberal tradition in the thought of David Hume, Jean-Jacques Rousseau, Adam Smith, and Alexis de Tocqueville titled Beyond Rights and Price: Liberalism with Taste.

Trevor Shelley is Director of Graduate Studies and an Assistant Professor in the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University. He is the author of Globalization and Liberalism: Montesquieu, Tocqueville, and Manent (2020) as well as of various articles appearing in journals such as Perspectives on Political Science, Canadian Review of American Studies, and The Political Science Reviewer.

Mark LeBar is Professor of Philosophy at Florida State University. He works in moral, social, and political philosophy, and edits Social Theory and Practice. His work develops contemporary eudaimonist virtue ethical theory, including extending that account of eudaimonism to questions about the nature of the virtue of justice in individuals. He has authored dozens of articles in journals such as Ethics and Journal of Value Inquiry as well as the book Just People: Virtue, Equality, and Respect (2025).

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Andrew Humphries is Assistant Professor of Economics and Classics at New College of Florida. He is especially interested in liberal education, the intellectual and cultural foundations of liberalism, and various topics in the political economy of Adam Smith, Alexis de Tocqueville, F. A. Hayek, and Vincent and Elinor Ostrom. He seeks to flesh out a more humane understanding of human agents and political economy interactions that appreciates but transcends the kinds of rational choice that can be captured in traditional mathematical modeling.

Emmett James McGroarty holds a J.D. and is a Faculty Fellow at Belmont Abbey College's Honors College and Executive Director of its Belmont House on Capitol Hill. He has published in Laws, Public Discourse, and First Things Online. His research focuses on political centralization and privacy. His previous experience includes government, nonprofit, and for-profit sectors. At the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's Office for Community and Faith-Based and Community Initiatives, he worked on regulatory reform with the goal of increasing nonprofit engagement in social services. At the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, he served in the Trafficking in Persons Office, with responsibilities for service delivery to victims and the design of the U.S. Government's public awareness campaign for the identification of victims.

Brendan Ignatius McGroarty holds a Ph.D. in Philosophy from The Catholic University of America and is an independent scholar. His research focuses on medieval spirituality as well as religion and psychology. He has been published in The Downside Review, The Journal of Religion and Psychology, and Laws.

Joseph Persky is a Professor of Economics at University of Illinois, Chicago. His research ranges over urban and regional economics, intellectual history, public finance, and radical political economy. He has coauthored articles in journals such as Regional Science and Urban Economics, National Tax Journal, and Economics of Education Review, and has authored the book The Political Economy of Progress: John Stuart Mill and Modern Radicalism (2016).

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

Alexander W. Craig is an Assistant Professor of Economics in the Department of Business Administration and Economics at Saint Mary's College. His research focuses on economic sociology and development economics. He is interested in how community ties and culture influence economic development. He has coauthored articles appearing in journals such as Journal of Private Enterprise, Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice, and Journal of Entrepreneurship and Public Policy.

Samuel Gregg is the President and Friedrich Hayek Chair in Economics and Economic History at the American Institute for Economic Research. He holds a D.Phil. in moral philosophy and political economy from Oxford University and has written and spoken extensively on questions of political economy, economic history, monetary theory and policy, and natural law theory. He is the author of seventeen books, including Wilhelm Röpke's Political Economy (2010); Reason, Faith, and the Struggle for Western Civilization (2019); The Essential Natural Law (2021); and The Next American Economy: Nation, State, and Markets in an Uncertain World (2022). He has published in journals such as the Harvard Journal of Law and Public Policy, Journal of Markets & Morality, Economic Affairs, and Journal of Scottish Philosophy. He is a regular writer of opinion pieces that appear in publications such as the Wall Street Journal, Foreign Affairs, First Things, and Investor's Business Daily.

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

https://doi.org/10.1017/S0265052525100599 Published online by Cambridge University Press

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

This publication was made possible through the support of a grant from the John Templeton Foundation. Opinions expressed in this publication are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect views of the John Templeton Foundation.